End Strike, Or He'll Act, Ching Warns Ford, UAW

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Federal Conciliation Chief Cyrus Ching yesterday warned the Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Auto Workers he'd have to take steps to settle the 9-day-old strike, unless management and union ended the work stoppage themselves "within a reasonable period of time."

The Conciliation Service director took the rare action in identical telegrams sent late yesterday afternoon to Henry Ford 2d, president of the automotive firm, and Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers.

The messages were wired to Detroit only an hour before Reuther came out of a long negotiating session with John S. Bugas, Ford industrial relations vice president, and disclosed he had given a "specific and detailed" peace plan to the company.

100,000 Already Idle

Reuther said the company agreed to reply to the peace proposal today, the 10th day of the strike which has already idled 100,000 Ford workers. Thousands of employes of Ford's suppliers and distributors also face payless furloughs, as a result of the strike, begun by 65,000 United Auto Workers at the Rouge plant in protest against alleged speed-up of production.

Ordinarily, the Conciliation Service waits until it is asked by one of the parties of a dispute before it intervenes in a work stoppage.

"My official duty, however, requires me to observe," Ching wired Ford and Reuther, "that a stoppage of operations in the plants of the Ford Motor Co. has such a widespread effect upon the delicate balance of our national economy that the parties should recognize their public as well as their private obligation to settle the dispute with dispatch."

Up to now, the union has refused a company offer to settle the controversy through arbitration; the company has rejected State and local efforts to effect settlement of the strike through mediation.

Authority Limited

Neither side has thus far asked the United States Conciliation Service to enter the negotiations. The Conciliation Service has no authority to stop a strike or force either side to accept terms. It can only mediate and serve to find a common basis of settlement.

Ching reminded Ford and Reuther that should their private negotiations fail "the vital public interest in industrial peace at the Ford plant requires that they employ other procedures which may be available to achieve this objective, including Government mediation." The Conciliation Service director added:

"I should be failing in my duties if I did not state that unless significant progress is reported in present negotiations within a reasonable period of time, I shall be obliged to request the parties to meet with representatives of the service."

Ching did not elaborate on what he meant by a "reasonable period of time," but Conciliation Service officials said that as a matter of policy, the service stayed out of a dispute so long as the parties appeared to be making progress in their private negotiations.

Reuther Returns to Negotiate

Auto Workers President Reuther returned to the negotiations table yesterday—according to an Associated Press dispatch from Detroit—after a 24-hour absence for a conference in Pittsburgh with CIO President Phil Murray.

The Ford Co. yesterday announced the firing of seven union officials from the pressed steel building of the big Rouge plant in connection with an alleged incident on the first day of the

Francis Matthews Nominated To Be Secretary of the Navy

President Truman yesterday nominated Francis Patrick Matthews, lawyer and banker of Omaha, Nebr., as Secretary of the Navy.

Other nominations affecting the armed services were: Dan A. Kimball of California, to be Undersecretary of the Navy; Gordon Gray of North Carolina, to be Undersecretary of the Army; Vice Admiral John L. McCrea, USN, to continue in that rank with the same pay and allowances while serving as director of the staff, Personnel Policy Board, National Military Establishment.

Like John L. Sullivan, whom he was chosen to succeed, the 62-year-old Matthews is a Catholic. He has been honored several times by the Pope and is former head of the Knights of Columbus.

He headed the Nebraska delegation to the 1948 Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia, and kept it in line for Mr. Truman. William Ritchie, then Democratic State chairman, favored Senator Claude Pepper of Florida for the presidential nomination.

Matthews said in Omaha that he didn't know why he was picked for the Navy post and "didn't ask." He conceded that he had no naval background, but remarked: "One of the strengths of this country is that the armed forces are controlled by civilians."

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson said of Matthews' selection: "A magnificent appointment. Mr. Matthews will be a tower of strength to national defense."

The outgoing Secretary of the Navy, Sullivan, resigned with a bang recently after Johnson canceled work on a huge aircraft carrier.

Dan Kimball, nominated yesterday as Undersecretary of the Navy, has been serving as Assistant Secretary. He would succeed W. John Kenney, whose resignation was announced last week.

Gordon Gray, nominated to be Undersecretary of the Army, is now Assistant Secretary. In the higher post, he would succeed William H. Draper, who resigned recently.

President Truman told a news conference on Thursday that he hopes to announce a Secretary of the Army in the near future.

Revamping To Begin At State

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

A first major step to reorganize the State Department along basic lines proposed by the Hoover Commission will be instituted on Monday, it was learned last night.

By administrative order, the personnel administration budget, planning, procurement, training, and associated facilities of the formerly semiautonomous Foreign Service will be merged or coordinated with similar facilities of the State Department.

The post of director general of the Foreign Service, held by Christian Ravndal, will be placed directly under the Assistant Secretary of State for Administration.

Ordered Several Years Ago

These moves, the broadest actions yet taken on any of the Hoover Commission recommendations for reorganizing Government departments on a more efficient basis, follow proposals for a gradual amalgamation of the Foreign Service over several years.

State Department officials hope that as early as June 1 the bulk of the top-level moves for placing the department on a "line of command" level—eliminating overlapping functions and establishing clear-cut responsibilities—can be under way.

Between now and Friday, when Secretary of State Dean Acheson leaves for the Big Four Foreign Ministers conference in Paris, officials hope to agree on most of the nominees slated to fill new assistant secretaryships under pending legislation.

Bills Vary Slightly

The House and Senate have approved slightly varying bills to provide four new assistant secretaries of state, to permit Acheson to name two assistant secretaries to serve as deputy undersecretaries, and to give the Secretary clear authority over the Foreign Service.

At present, the department carries authority for six assistant secretaries, and for an undersecretary—James E. Webb.

The two new deputy undersecretaries, who will rank just below Webb, will be named as soon as the pending legislation clears Congress and is signed by the President.

They will be John E. Peurifoy, now Assistant Secretary of State for Administration, and Dean Rush, now Assistant Secretary for United Nations Affairs.

To Retain Counselor Post

As previously reported by The Washington Post, the position of counselor of the department will be retained, to be filled by George F. Kennan along with his present role as head of the Policy Planning Staff. Charles E. Bohlen, the present counselor, is in Paris preparing for the May 23 meeting of Foreign Ministers, and after that conference will be assigned as minister-counselor to the United States Embassy in Paris.

No decision has been reached on all the nominees for what will be the five key assistant sec-

'Stowaway' View Faces Challenge By British

By The Associated Press

An international snarl yesterday threatened to stymie the United States Justice Department's attempt to recapture Communist Gerhard Eisler, 52, who skipped the country with two prison sentences hanging over his head.

Leaving his wife behind, Eisler fled as a stowaway aboard the Polish liner Batory on May 6. The ship is due off Southampton, England, today en route to Gdynia, Poland.

The Justice Department announced that Mrs. Eisler, 37, a native of Poland, was rearrested in New York yesterday morning and held for deportation. She had been at liberty, without bond, on charges of being illegally in this country.

One reason for her rearrest is that the Government wants to question her about her husband's flight.

Factors in Legal Tangle

The legal tangle over Eisler's return—or escape to his native Germany—revolves around these factors:

1. The FBI says it has asked Britain's famed Scotland Yard to meet the Batory and take Eisler into custody as a "stowaway."

Justice officials have asked the State Department to seek quick extradition authority from the British government, and have arranged for a plane to fly Eisler back at once.

2. But in London, several British officials challenged the American view that Eisler is a stowaway.

British authorities refused to say whether they will take Eisler off the ship when it reaches Southampton this morning.

Meanwhile, a Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent aboard the Batory radioed his office in New York that he had asked the Batory captain what he intends to do with Eisler and received this reply:

"I will land him in Gdynia."

'Common Stowaway,' He Says

The CBS correspondent, Richard Yaffe, said he then asked the 47-year-old captain, Jan Cwiklinski, what he would do "if the United States requests delivery of Eisler at Southampton?" Yaffe said the captain replied:

"The United States authorities must take that up with the Polish diplomatic service. I can do nothing without permission from my line and our own diplomatic authorities. He is a common stowaway."

[State Department officials told the United Press that British authorities could go aboard the liner and remove Eisler if the vessel enters Southampton harbor, where it would be subject to British law. "It's really a ticklish situation," one official was quoted as saying, adding that this country wants to do nothing that might "embarrass" the British.—Editor's note.]

Radio messages from the ship said the stowaway who identified himself as Eisler, alleged former No. 1 Red leader in the United States, had paid for a first-class passage to Poland after being discovered at sea.

Denies Status Change

A United States Justice Department official insisted that Eisler's paying his fare does not alter his status. He said the fleeing Communist is still a stowaway and maritime law requires the ship captain to turn him over to local authorities at the first port of call.

But dispatches from London said the British attitude, as reflected by authorities at Southampton, is that a stowaway becomes a legitimate passenger as soon as he pays his fare. As such, the British said, he would be entitled to complete the journey for which he paid.

In that event, Eisler would be free to sail on to Communist-dominated Poland.

British officials were said to contend that the ship's captain is obliged merely to notify authorities at the port of disembarkation, who would then determine whether the stowaway-passenger has violated immigration laws.

In this case, the port of disembarkation presumably would be Gdynia, Poland.

The Batory is scheduled to drop anchor in Cowes Roads, off the Isle of Wight, and passengers are taken ashore by tender. Dispatches from London said Eisler might be asked to land at Southampton, and if he agreed, the immigration authorities would take charge and consider the American request for his extradition.

But British officials would not say what action would be taken if Eisler decides to stay aboard and travel on to Copenhagen or Gdynia.

Senate Votes To Raise D. C. Income Tax

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

The Senate voted 34 to 27 yesterday for a stiff increase in District personal income taxes.

But it deferred until Monday a final decision on whether higher income taxes or a 2 per cent sales tax will be made the major plank in the Senate program for boosting District revenue by 18 million a year.

Following the vote at 5:30 p. m. members tangled in sharp dispute over whether their vote had or had not killed the proposed 2 per cent District sales tax.

Senator Clyde R. Hoey (D., N. C.), in the chair, ruled that the vote for the income tax boost had killed the sales tax.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.), sponsor of the income tax action, said he understood the sales tax was still in the bill.

Motion to Reconsider

Upshot was that Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) made a formal motion to reconsider the vote.

Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) then called a weekend recess of the Senate, leaving Hickenlooper's motion the first order of business Monday.

Final Senate decision on the sales tax issue, hotly fought through three days of debate, was thus postponed at the end of a six-hour wrangle.

In other decisions, the Senate:

1. Voted 41 to 24 against a proposal to boost the 12-million-dollar Federal payment to the District to 25 per cent of the annual District budget, or more than double the present payment.

Realty Tax Boost Defeated

2. Defeated by a voice vote a 25-cent boost in the $2 per $100 tax on District real estate, leaving the increase recommended in the revenue bill at 15 cents per $100.

3. Approved by a voice vote a proposal to double liquor gallon-

Dismissal Motion Heard In Raid Cases

District Judge Edward A. Curran yesterday took under advisement motions to dismiss the Government's case against William (Snags) Lewis and 13 other indicted gamblers, after a three-hour hearing.

Five motions were argued by the indicted gamblers' attorneys, Chas. E. Ford, William H. Collins, Myron G. Ehrlich, and Bernard Margolius against Assistant United States Attorney William Hitz.

They were a motion to suppress the evidence, a motion to dismiss the indictments, a motion to return seized property, a motion to try Lewis separately, and a motion for a bill of particulars about the alleged offenses.

Early in the hearing, Judge Curran denied the defense motion to suppress the evidence. When Collins shouted that "Your Honor's decision is at direct variance with the Court of Appeals decisions," Judge Curran heard further testimony, and ultimately took all motions under advisement.

Arrested March 25

The 14 men were arrested at Lewis' headquarters, 4310 46th ave., Bladensburg, Md., on March 25, in one of a series of raids here and in nearby Maryland. They were indicted by the special District gambling grand jury on April 8 for violation of the lottery laws and conspiracy, and have also been indicted by a Prince Georges County grand jury.

Judge Curran gave defense counsel and Hitz until Friday to file memorandums explaining their positions on the following questions:

1. Are the defendants sufficiently informed of the specific charges against them? All 14 men are charged with being concerned with a numbers lottery as owners, agents and clerks for a continuing period.

2. Can a deputy United States marshal for the District of Columbia serve a process in a foreign

Funds Accord Leaves Straus, Boke Payless

By The Associated Press

Chairman McKellar (D., Tenn.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee said last night House and Senate conferees have agreed upon terms of the first deficiency appropriations bill.

Under the agreement, Reclamation Commissioner Michael Straus and Regional Director Richard Boke in California remain in their present status—without pay. Funds for White House repair also were held in abeyance.

McKellar, chairman of the Senate conferees, said the Straus-Boke matter and White House repair funds were carried over for further consideration when the second deficiency bill comes up in a few days.

The House has passed the second bill and it is now in Senate committee. Both deficiency bills are to provide money for use before July 1, when this fiscal year ends.

The first deficiency bill has been tied up for months.

The House voted to restore Straus and Boke to the payroll, eliminating a provision voted last year that the reclamation commissioner and his regional directors must be experienced engineers. Neither is an engineer.

The Senate refused to go along.

The stalemate resulted in numerous Government employes—including President Truman—missing pay days or getting only part pay. To remedy this, a resolution was passed and Mr. Truman signed it yesterday to release uncontested funds for immediate use.

60 Cars, Trucks Crash, Burn; 30 Persons Overcome

New York, May 13 (U.P.).—A truck loaded with chemicals blew up deep inside the Holland Tunnel today and turned that motor vehicle thoroughfare 93 feet beneath the Hudson River into an inferno of flame and poison fumes.

Sixty other trucks and passenger cars crashed, telescope-fashion, and caught fire in turn. Their drivers and passengers scrambled, choking and panicky, out of the two-mile-long New York-Jersey City tunnel on foot.

Heat buckled the tile walls. Chunks of concrete fell from the ceiling. The intricate ventilation system stopped. The tunnel was plunged into darkness.

The fire cut through communications cables. It knocked out the lines of the four major radio networks, interrupted news wires and cut off telephone and telegraphic contact with a large section of the Nation.

Doctors and firemen, riding jeeps, entered the swirling clouds of smoke and poison fumes and, although wearing gas masks, many were overcome after a quarter-hour in the tunnel. Streams of water hissed as they splashed against the red-hot walls and the water rose to ankle-depth.

Both the east and westbound traffic lanes were knocked out of service and the vehicles, which pass through at the rate of 106,000 a day, were backed up for blocks at both entrances. The explosion came at 7:59 a. m. in the Manhattan-bound tube.

Forty-five minutes later the fumes and heat forced closing of

Red Troops Stab Almost To Shanghai

Shanghai, China (Saturday), May 14 (U.P.).—Spearheads of two Communist divisions smashed to within eight miles of Shanghai's north gates during the night before they were repulsed, a garrison communique reported today.

The government claimed an attack by an estimated 6000 advance Red units was stopped, with the Communists suffering 3000 casualties, including 1000 killed.

Canton dispatches reported the fall of Hankow, central China's major industrial city and key to a Communist invasion of South China.

A Communist radio broadcast said Red troops speared inland from Fukien, coastal province in south China, and captured Chuncan, 325 miles south of Shanghai and almost midway between Nanking and Canton.

Reports yesterday placed the Communists 10 miles north of Hankow. But reliable American quarters said the city was quiet today with no sign of Nationalist troops, who evacuated toward Gen. Pai Chung-shi's new headquarters at Changsha, 200 miles to the south.

Entry Presumably Unopposed

Red troops presumably were able to walk into the city without opposition, as they did at Nanking.

The Communists were believed to have cracked Shanghai's outer defenses on the southwest, west and northwest.

Most serious Communist threat appeared to be developing toward Woosung, Shanghai's shipping outlet to the sea, seven miles north of the city. Communist spearheads were reported moving along the Yangtze toward the government forts which control the entrance to the Whangpoo River on which Shanghai is located.

Official announcements disclosed that Communists, after 24 hours of attacks, had breached the "Kunshan line" 30 miles west of Shanghai and forced the government to retreat from Liuho, only 15 miles northwest of the Woosung forts, and 22 miles from Shanghai.

Clay Praises Blockade's End In Good Faith on Both Sides

Berlin, May 13 (U.P.).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, retiring American military governor, declared today that both Russia and the West had kept their promises to lift blockade and counter-blockade restrictions and said he was satisfied 'there is good faith on both sides."

"There are always technicalities to be resolved, but nothing of a serious nature has arisen," the general said.

Taegliche Rundschau, official Soviet voice in Berlin, had charged the West with "torpedoing" the agreement by failing to fill Russia's pre-blockade orders for iron, steel and coal.

The newspaper not only demanded that the West deliver at once, but warned the Soviets did not intend to be the only party to abide by the agreement.

Economic Experts Meet

Four-power economic experts met for the second straight day at British headquarters to try to settle the dispute. They failed to agree and will meet again Saturday. Clay and his economic adviser, Lawrence Wilkinson, are split over the Russian demands.

No freight train has yet moved out of Berlin with German goods. The Russians apparently were not interfering with trucks.

Clay believes the old East-West trade agreements should be reinstated, even though they expired December 31. Wilkinson asserted the Soviet stand is "ridiculous" because of changes in price and supply.

Other irritants Clay thought could be solved include:

1. Reduction of the number of trains from the west to 17. Before the blockade, the Russians permitted 32 trains to enter Berlin each day.

2. Erratic Soviet method of calling in trains.

W. B. Cantrell, American transportation chief, said the Soviets are "calling up trains when they are ready to receive them, instead of letting us run them to or from Berlin as we did before the blockade."

11 Persons Arrested

Eleven persons were arrested yesterday for selling forbidden Soviet-licensed publications in the British sector. They were later released.

Clay said Russia's prime objective in Germany is to reunite the nation.

"The Western powers also want a unified nation," Clay added, "but only if it can be obtained under the safeguards of free elections, preservation and protection of the basic rights that exist now in western Germany."

Clay emphasized there would be no early withdrawal of American troops from Germany, even though the Russians might propose complete withdrawal of all troops.

"If the term 'withdrawal' refers to a gradual withdrawal as stability returns, then it is a very worthy objective. But a full withdrawal would be very, very wrong," the general said.

Clay said Russian "willingness" to discuss German questions made agreement among the four pow-

20,000 Members of School Safety Patrols March Today

Some 20,000 boys and girls, members of School Safety Patrols and drill teams from 20 States and the District, will march in the thirteenth and largest annual Safety Patrol parade up Constitution ave. today.

The parade, sponsored by the American Automobile Association, starts at 9:30 a. m. and will be climaxed by the presentation of awards by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder from a grandstand between 15th and 17th sts.

Before the parade, early-rising drill team members will assemble in the Ellipse for a drill competition beginning at 8 a. m.

The grade school "traffic cops," who represent 400,000 school crossing guardians of some eight million classmates, will assemble in the Mall area near Fourth st.

Sparked by 38 bands, including the Air Force Band, and paced by more than 50 floats and a Cavalcade of States, the marching schoolboys with white Sam Browne belts will proceed from Fourth st. into Constitution ave. and up the avenue to the two reviewing stands at the Ellipse.

The main stand will have Secretary Snyder and other officials, while the second stand will contain 500 school teachers, principals and traffic authorities.

The parade is expected to take about two hours to pass. Four of eight youngsters who will receive special lifesaving medals will lead their 20,000 fellow patrolmen in the march up Constitution ave. Among them will be Richard Lawrenson, 13, of Taft Junior High School, who pulled a youngster from the path of a truck on October 21, 1948. The other four will receive their medals back home.

Roadways in the Ellipse will be closed to traffic from 8 a. m. until after the parade.

14 Bishops Indorse Treaty, Reject Stand of Church Group

New York, May 13 (AP).—Fourteen Methodist bishops said today they were not in agreement with a church commission's report which withheld support of the Atlantic Treaty.

The statement by the bishops was made public today by Ralph Stoody, executive director of the church's commission on public information.

It referred to a resolution adopted by the 27-member Commission on World Peace on May 2.

The resolution said in part that the peace commission felt "bound at this time to withhold support of the North Atlantic Pact . . . there are grave dangers lurking in the possible implementation of the pact."

The statement of the 14 bishops said that the peace commission, although an official church organization, "was speaking only for the 27 members (bishops, ministers and laymen) who compose it."

The statement added that bishops not among the 14 signers should not be considered opposed to the pact.

The 14 bishops stated that "we feel that the influence of the church should always be on the side of every effort which seeks to remove animosities and to preserve freedom."

Signing the statement were:

Bishops J. W. E. Bowen and Arthur J. Moore, Atlanta, Ga.; Fred P. Corson, Philadelphia; Charles W. Flint, Washington, D. C.; Marvin A. Franklin, Jackson, Miss.; Costen J. Harrell, Charlotte, N. C.; Ivan Lee Holt and Edward W. Kelly, St. Louis, Mo.; John Wesley Lord, Boston; Paul E. Martin, Little Rock, Ark.; Clare Purcell, Birmingham, Ala.; A. Frank Smith, Houston, Tex.; W. ## End Strike, Or He'll Act, Ching Warns Ford, UAW

Post Reporter

Federal Conciliation Chief Cyrus Ching yesterday warned the Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Auto Workers he'd have to take steps to settle the 9-day-old strike, unless management and union ended the work stoppage themselves "within a reasonable period of time."

The Conciliation Service director took the rare action in identical telegrams sent late yesterday afternoon to Henry Ford 2d, president of the automotive firm, and Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers.

The messages were wired to Detroit only an hour before Reuther came out of a long negotiating session with John S. Bugas, Ford industrial relations vice president, and disclosed he had given a "specific and detailed" peace plan to the company.

Neither side has thus far asked the United States Conciliation Service to enter the negotiations. The Conciliation Service has no authority to stop a strike or force either side to accept terms. It can only mediate and serve to find a common basis of settlement.

Ching reminded Ford and Reuther that should their private negotiations fail "the vital public interest in industrial peace at the Ford plant requires that they employ other procedures which may be available to achieve this objective, including Government mediation." The Conciliation Service director added:

"I should be failing in my duties if I did not state that unless significant progress is reported in present negotiations within a reasonable period of time, I shall be obliged to request the parties to meet with representatives of the service."

Ching did not elaborate on what he meant by a "reasonable period of time," but Conciliation Service officials said that as a matter of policy, the service stayed out of a dispute so long as the parties appeared to be making progress in their private negotiations.

Auto Workers President Reuther returned to the negotiations table yesterday—according to an Associated Press dispatch from Detroit—after a 24-hour absence for a conference in Pittsburgh with CIO President Phil Murray.

The outgoing Secretary of the Navy, Sullivan, resigned with a bang recently after Johnson canceled work on a huge aircraft carrier.

Dan Kimball, nominated yesterday as Undersecretary of the Navy, has been serving as Assistant Secretary. He would succeed W. John Kenney, whose resignation was announced last week.

Gordon Gray, nominated to be Undersecretary of the Army, is now Assistant Secretary. In the higher post, he would succeed William H. Draper, who resigned recently.

President Truman told a news conference on Thursday that he hopes to announce a Secretary of the Army in the near future.

Revamping To Begin At State

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

A first major step to reorganize the State Department along basic lines proposed by the Hoover Commission will be instituted on Monday, it was learned last night.

By administrative order, the personnel administration budget, planning, procurement, training, and associated facilities of the formerly semiautonomous Foreign Service will be merged or coordinated with similar facilities of the State Department.

The post of director general of the Foreign Service, held by Christian Ravndal, will be placed directly under the Assistant Secretary of State for Administration.

Ordered Several Years Ago

These moves, the broadest actions yet taken on any of the Hoover Commission recommendations for reorganizing Government departments on a more efficient basis, follow proposals for a gradual amalgamation of the Foreign Service over several years.

State Department officials hope that as early as June 1 the bulk of the top-level moves for placing the department on a "line of command" level—eliminating overlapping functions and establishing clear-cut responsibilities—can be under way.

Between now and Friday, when Secretary of State Dean Acheson leaves for the Big Four Foreign Ministers conference in Paris, officials hope to agree on most of the nominees slated to fill new assistant secretaryships under pending legislation.

Bills Vary Slightly

The House and Senate have approved slightly varying bills to provide four new assistant secretaries of state, to permit Acheson to name two assistant secretaries to serve as deputy undersecretaries, and to give the Secretary clear authority over the Foreign Service.

At present, the department carries authority for six assistant secretaries, and for an undersecretary—James E. Webb.

The two new deputy undersecretaries, who will rank just below Webb, will be named as soon as the pending legislation clears Congress and is signed by the President.

They will be John E. Peurifoy, now Assistant Secretary of State for Administration, and Dean Rusk, now Assistant Secretary for United Nations Affairs.

To Retain Counselor Post

As previously reported by The Washington Post, the position of counselor of the department will be retained, to be filled by George F. Kennan along with his present role as head of the Policy Planning Staff. Charles E. Bohlen, the present counselor, is in Paris preparing for the May 23 meeting of Foreign Ministers, and after that conference will be assigned as minister-counselor to the United States Embassy in Paris.

No decision has been reached on all the nominees for what will be the five key assistant sec-

Funds Accord Leaves Straus, Boke Payless

By The Associated Press

Chairman McKellar (D., Tenn.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee said last night House and Senate conferees have agreed upon terms of the first deficiency appropriations bill.

Under the agreement, Reclamation Commissioner Michael Straus and Regional Director Richard Boke in California remain in their present status—without pay. Funds for White House repair also were held in abeyance.

McKellar, chairman of the Senate conferees, said the Straus-Boke matter and White House repair funds were carried over for further consideration when the second deficiency bill comes up in a few days.

The House has passed the second bill and it is now in Senate committee. Both deficiency bills are to provide money for use before July 1, when this fiscal year ends.

The first deficiency bill has been tied up for months.

The House voted to restore Straus and Boke to the payroll, eliminating a provision voted last year that the reclamation commissioner and his regional directors must be experienced engineers. Neither is an engineer.

The Senate refused to go along. The stalemate resulted in numerous Government employes—including President Truman—missing pay days or getting only part pay. To remedy this, a resolution was passed and Mr. Truman signed it yesterday to release uncontested funds for immediate use.

60 Cars, Trucks Crash, Burn; 30 Persons Overcome

New York, May 13 (U.P.).—A truck loaded with chemicals blew up deep inside the Holland Tunnel today and turned that motor vehicle thoroughfare 93 feet beneath the Hudson River into an inferno of flame and poison fumes.

Sixty other trucks and passenger cars crashed, telescope-fashion, and caught fire in turn. Their drivers and passengers scrambled, choking and panicky, out of the two-mile-long New York-Jersey City tunnel on foot.

Heat buckled the tile walls. Chunks of concrete fell from the ceiling. The intricate ventilation system stopped. The tunnel was plunged into darkness.

The fire cut through communications cables. It knocked out the lines of the four major radio networks, interrupted news wires and cut off telephone and telegraphic contact with a large section of the Nation.

Doctors and firemen, riding jeeps, entered the swirling clouds of smoke and poison fumes and, although wearing gas masks, many were overcome after a quarter-hour in the tunnel. Streams of water hissed as they splashed against the red-hot walls and the water rose to ankle-depth.

Both the east and westbound traffic lanes were knocked out of service and the vehicles, which pass through at the rate of 106,000 a day, were backed up for blocks at both entrances. The explosion came at 7:59 a. m. in the Manhattan-bound tube.

Forty-five minutes later the fumes and heat forced closing of

New York, May 13 (U.P.).—The worst telephone service failure in the country's history occurred today as a result of the Holland Tunnel blast.

Red Troops Stab Almost To Shanghai

Shanghai, China (Saturday), May 14 (U.P.).—Spearheads of two Communist divisions smashed to within eight miles of Shanghai's north gates during the night before they were repulsed, a garrison communique reported today.

The government claimed an attack by an estimated 6000 advance Red units was stopped, with the Communists suffering 3000 casualties, including 1000 killed.

Canton dispatches reported the fall of Hankow, central China's major industrial city and key to a Communist invasion of South China.

A Communist radio broadcast said Red troops speared inland from Fukien, coastal province in south China, and captured Chuan, 325 miles south of Shanghai and almost midway between Nanking and Canton.

Reports yesterday placed the Communists 10 miles north of Hankow. But reliable American quarters said the city was quiet today with no sign of Nationalist troops, who evacuated toward Gen. Pai Chung-shi's new headquarters at Changsha, 200 miles to the south.

Entry Presumably Unopposed

Red troops presumably were able to walk into the city without opposition, as they did at Nanking.

The Communists were believed to have cracked Shanghai's outer defenses on the southwest, west and northwest.

Most serious Communist threat appeared to be developing toward Woosung, Shanghai's shipping outlet to the sea, seven miles north of the city. Communist spearheads were reported moving along the Yangtze toward the government forts which control the entrance to the Whangpoo River on which Shanghai is located.

Official announcements disclosed that Communists, after 24 hours of attacks, had breached the "Kunshan line" 30 miles west of Shanghai and forced the government to retreat from Liuho, only 15 miles northwest of the Woosung forts, and 22 miles from Shanghai.

'Stowaway' View Faces Challenge By British

By The Associated Press

An international snarl yesterday threatened to stymie the United States Justice Department's attempt to recapture Communist Gerhard Eisler, 52, who skipped the country with two prison sentences hanging over his head.

Leaving his wife behind, Eisler fled as a stowaway aboard the Polish liner Batory on May 6. The ship is due off Southampton, England, today en route to Gdynia, Poland.

The Justice Department announced that Mrs. Eisler, 37, a native of Poland, was rearrested in New York yesterday morning and held for deportation. She had been at liberty, without bond, on charges of being illegally in this country.

One reason for her rearrest is that the Government wants to question her about her husband's flight.

Factors in Legal Tangle

The legal tangle over Eisler's return—or escape to his native Germany—revolves around these factors:

1. The FBI says it has asked Britain's famed Scotland Yard to meet the Batory and take Eisler into custody as a "stowaway."

Justice officials have asked the State Department to seek quick extradition authority from the British government, and have arranged for a plane to fly Eisler back at once.

2. But in London, several British officials challenged the American view that Eisler is a stowaway.

British authorities refused to say whether they will take Eisler off the ship when it reaches Southampton this morning.

Meanwhile, a Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent aboard the Batory radioed his office in New York that he had asked the Batory captain what he intends to do with Eisler and received this reply:

"I will land him in Gdynia."

'Common Stowaway,' He Says

The CBS correspondent, Richard Yaffe, said he then asked the 47-year-old captain, Jan Cwiklinski, what he would do "if the United States requests delivery of Eisler at Southampton?" Yaffe said the captain replied:

"The United States authorities must take that up with the Polish diplomatic service. I can do nothing without permission from my line and our own diplomatic authorities. He is a common stowaway."

[State Department officials told the United Press that British authorities could go aboard the liner and remove Eisler if the vessel enters Southampton harbor, where it would be subject to British law. "It's really a ticklish situation," one official was quoted as saying, adding that this country wants to do nothing that might "embarrass" the British.—Editor's note.]

Radio messages from the ship said the stowaway who identified himself as Eisler, alleged former No. 1 Red leader in the United States, had paid for a first-class passage to Poland after being discovered at sea.

Denies Status Change

A United States Justice Department official insisted that Eisler's paying his fare does not alter his status. He said the fleeing Communist is still a stowaway and maritime law requires the ship captain to turn him over to local authorities at the first port of call.

But dispatches from London said the British attitude, as reflected by authorities at Southampton, is that a stowaway becomes a legitimate passenger as soon as he pays his fare. As such, the British said, he would be entitled to complete the journey for which he paid.

In that event, Eisler would be free to sail on to Communist-dominated Poland.

British officials were said to contend that the ship's captain is obliged merely to notify authorities at the port of disembarkation, who would then determine whether the stowaway-passenger has violated immigration laws.

In this case, the port of disembarkation presumably would be Gdynia, Poland.

The Batory is scheduled to drop anchor in Cowes Roads, off the Isle of Wight, and passengers are taken ashore by tender. Dispatches from London said Eisler might be asked to land at Southampton, and if he agreed, the immigration authorities would take charge and consider the American request for his extradition.

But British officials would not say what action would be taken if Eisler decides to stay aboard and travel on to Copenhagen or Gdynia.

Senate Votes To Raise D. C. Income Tax

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

The Senate voted 34 to 27 yesterday for a stiff increase in District personal income taxes.

But it deferred until Monday a final decision on whether higher income taxes or a 2 per cent sales tax will be made the major plank in the Senate program for boosting District revenue by 18 million a year.

Following the vote at 5:30 p. m. members tangled in sharp dispute over whether their vote had or had not killed the proposed 2 per cent District sales tax.

Senator Clyde R. Hoey (D., N. C.), in the chair, ruled that the vote for the income tax boost had killed the sales tax.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.), sponsor of the income tax action, said he understood the sales tax was still in the bill.

Motion to Reconsider

Upshot was that Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) made a formal motion to reconsider the vote.

Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) then called a weekend recess of the Senate, leaving Hickenlooper's motion the first order of business Monday.

Final Senate decision on the sales tax issue, hotly fought through three days of debate, was thus postponed at the end of a six-hour wrangle.

In other decisions, the Senate:

1. Voted 41 to 24 against a proposal to boost the 12-million-dollar Federal payment to the District to 25 per cent of the annual District budget, or more than double the present payment.

Realty Tax Boost Defeated

2. Defeated by a voice vote a 25-cent boost in the $2 per $100 tax on District real estate, leaving the increase recommended in the revenue bill at 15 cents per $100.

3. Approved by a voice vote a proposal to double liquor gallon-

Dismissal Motion Heard In Raid Cases

District Judge Edward A. Curran yesterday took under advisement motions to dismiss the Government's case against William (Snags) Lewis and 13 other indicted gamblers, after a three-hour hearing.

Five motions were argued by the indicted gamblers' attorneys, Chas. E. Ford, William H. Collins, Myron G. Ehrlich, and Bernard Margolius against Assistant United States Attorney William Hitz.

They were a motion to suppress the evidence, a motion to dismiss the indictments, a motion to return seized property, a motion to try Lewis separately, and a motion for a bill of particulars about the alleged offenses.

Early in the hearing, Judge Curran denied the defense motion to suppress the evidence. When Collins shouted that "Your Honor's decision is at direct variance with the Court of Appeals decisions," Judge Curran heard further testimony, and ultimately took all motions under advisement.

Arrested March 25

The 14 men were arrested at Lewis' headquarters, 4310 46th ave., Bladensburg, Md., on March 25, in one of a series of raids here and in nearby Maryland. They were indicted by the special District gambling grand jury on April 8 for violation of the lottery laws and conspiracy, and have also been indicted by a Prince Georges County grand jury.

Judge Curran gave defense counsel and Hitz until Friday to file memorandums explaining their positions on the following questions:

1. Are the defendants sufficiently informed of the specific charges against them? All 14 men are charged with being concerned with a numbers lottery as owners, agents and clerks for a continuing period.

2. Can a deputy United States marshal for the District of Columbia serve a process in a foreign

Clay Praises Blockade's End In Good Faith on Both Sides

Berlin, May 13 (U.P.).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, retiring American military governor, declared today that both Russia and the West had kept their promises to lift blockade and counter-blockade restrictions and said he was satisfied 'there is good faith on both sides."

"There are always technicalities to be resolved, but nothing of a serious nature has arisen," the general said.

Taegliche Rundschau, official Soviet voice in Berlin, had charged the West with "torpedoing" the agreement by failing to fill Russia's pre-blockade orders for iron, steel and coal.

The newspaper not only demanded that the West deliver at once, but warned the Soviets did not intend to be the only party to abide by the agreement.

Economic Experts Meet

Four-power economic experts met for the second straight day at British headquarters to try to settle the dispute. They failed to agree and will meet again Saturday. Clay and his economic adviser, Lawrence Wilkinson, are split over the Russian demands.

No freight train has yet moved out of Berlin with German goods. The Russians apparently were not interfering with trucks.

Clay believes the old East-West trade agreements should be reinstated, even though they expired December 31. Wilkinson asserted the Soviet stand is "ridiculous" because of changes in price and supply.

Other irritants Clay thought could be solved include:

1. Reduction of the number of trains from the west to 17. Before the blockade, the Russians permitted 32 trains to enter Berlin each day.

2. Erratic Soviet method of calling in trains.

W. B. Cantrell, American transportation chief, said the Soviets are "calling up trains when they are ready to receive them, instead of letting us run them to or from Berlin as we did before the blockade."

11 Persons Arrested

Eleven persons were arrested yesterday for selling forbidden Soviet-licensed publications in the British sector. They were later released.

Clay said Russia's prime objective in Germany is to reunite the nation.

"The Western powers also want a unified nation," Clay added, "but only if it can be obtained under the safeguards of free elections, preservation and protection of the basic rights that exist now in western Germany."

Clay emphasized there would be no early withdrawal of American troops from Germany, even though the Russians might propose complete withdrawal of all troops.

"If the term 'withdrawal' refers to a gradual withdrawal as stability returns, then it is a very worthy objective. But a full withdrawal would be very, very wrong," the general said.

Clay said Russian "willingness" to discuss German questions made agreement among the four pow-

20,000 Members of School Safety Patrols March Today

Some 20,000 boys and girls, members of School Safety Patrols and drill teams from 20 States and the District, will march in the thirteenth and largest annual Safety Patrol parade up Constitution ave. today.

The parade, sponsored by the American Automobile Association, starts at 9:30 a. m. and will be climaxed by the presentation of awards by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder from a grandstand between 15th and 17th sts.

Before the parade, early-rising drill team members will assemble in the Ellipse for a drill competition beginning at 8 a. m.

The grade school "traffic cops," who represent 400,000 school crossing guardians of some eight million classmates, will assemble in the Mall area near Fourth st.

Sparked by 38 bands, including the Air Force Band, and paced by more than 50 floats and a Cavalcade of States, the marching schoolboys with white Sam Browne belts will proceed from Fourth st. into Constitution ave. and up the avenue to the two reviewing stands at the Ellipse.

The main stand will have Secretary Snyder and other officials, while the second stand will contain 500 school teachers, principals and traffic authorities.

The parade is expected to take about two hours to pass. Four of eight youngsters who will receive special lifesaving medals will lead their 20,000 fellow patrolmen in the march up Constitution ave. Among them will be Richard Lawrenson, 13, of Taft Junior High School, who pulled a youngster from the path of a truck on October 21, 1948. The other four will receive their medals back home.

Roadways in the Ellipse will be closed to traffic from 8 a. m. until after the parade.

14 Bishops Indorse Treaty, Reject Stand of Church Group

New York, May 13 (AP).—Fourteen Methodist bishops said today they were not in agreement with a church commission's report which withheld support of the Atlantic Treaty.

The statement by the bishops was made public today by Ralph Stoody, executive director of the church's commission on public information.

It referred to a resolution adopted by the 27-member Commission on World Peace on May 2.

The resolution said in part that the peace commission felt "bound at this time to withhold support of the North Atlantic Pact . . . there are grave dangers lurking in the possible implementation of the pact."

The statement of the 14 bishops said that the peace commission, although an official church organization, "was speaking only for the 27 members (bishops, ministers and laymen) who compose it."

The statement added that bishops not among the 14 signers should not be considered opposed to the pact.

The 14 bishops stated that "we feel that the influence of the church should always be on the side of every effort which seeks to remove animosities and to preserve freedom."

Signing the statement were:

Bishops J. W. E. Bowen and Arthur J. Moore, Atlanta, Ga.; Fred P. Corson, Philadelphia; Charles W. Flint, Washington, D. C.; Marvin A. Franklin, Jackson, Miss.; Costen J. Harrell, Charlotte, N. C.; Ivan Lee Holt and Edward W. Kelly, St. Louis, Mo.; John Wesley Lord, Boston; Paul E. Martin, Little Rock, Ark.; Clare Purcell, Birmingham, Ala.; A. Frank Smith, Houston, Tex.; W. ## New Navy Secretary Is a Near-Double For Snyder; Once Probed Communism

White House reporters will have to keep a closer watch over visitors to President Truman's office, once Francis P. Matthews joins his official family.

Otherwise, say friends of the Omaha lawyer nominated yesterday as Secretary of the Navy, they may get mixed up whether fiscal or naval matters are under discussion. Frank Matthews, they declaire, is a near double for Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder.

Of medium height, Matthews is nearly bald, possesses a strong chin and has piercing eyes behind rimless specs. With it all goes considerable dignity.

Though conservative in his politics, and reputedly one of the wealthiest men in GOP-dominated Nebraska, the Navy nominee is a loyal Democrat and—more important — was a Truman-man-before-the-election.

Headed Communism Study

The 62-year-old Irishman never has held a national office before, but he's not quite a stranger to Washington ways. Two and a half years ago he served as chairman of a United States Chamber of Commerce committee studying communism. When the committee's report was made public, Matthews had to face 50-odd Washington correspondents, some of them hostile left-wingers.

Neutral observers say he fielded nicely the barrage of "curve ball" questions fired at him. His courtroom experience stood him in good stead.

As might be imagined, he is far from being luke-warm on the issue of communism. He is one of the best-known Catholic laymen in the country. He was designated Secret Papal Chamberlain with Cape and Sword by Pope Pius XII in 1944, and recently was granted special dispensation to maintain a chapel at his Omaha home.

He's also a director of Father Flanagan's Boys' Town.

Lost Fortune, Regained It

Born in Albion, Nebr., of poor parents, Matthews put himself through Creighton University, where he's chairman of the board of regents today. By the practice of law and several business ventures, he had made a sizeable fortune by the late 1920's. The depression wiped this out, and in 1933 he became RFC counsel. Today, however, he owns a large share of a leading finance company and radio station in Omaha.

During the war he was vice president of the USO, and was a member of the President's Committee on Civil Rights in 1946. The same year he was awarded the Medal for Merit.

Last year, Matthews' friends, including Ed McKim, former Truman aide, plugged him for the post of Ambassador to Eire. He was mentioned several times as a possible envoy to Rome or Madrid.

Navy men welcomed his statement yesterday that he intends to maintain "sublime traditions of the Navy" if confirmed. He declared he believes true unification of the services can be achieved "without impairing Navy prestige."

Friends of the Omaha lawyer tell inquiring naval officers they'll find their new boss a hard worker, reserved but not cold, conciliatory in approach rather than a "knocker of heads together" and possessed of a first-rate legal mind.

He Has a Temper

But they warn that he has a temper and doesn't like inefficiency or stupidity.

A nonsmoker, Matthews takes an occasional social highball. He has few hobbies. His chief joy is to get his family—four daughters and a son—together at their summer home in Minnesota for relaxation, hunting and fishing. Friends of the family add that Mrs. Matthews' charm and friendliness is one of the reasons behind her husband's success.

The prospective boss of the Navy—Senators predict his confirmation—has had no military or naval experience. Asked about prior associations with Navy problems yesterday, Matthews replied: "Well, I've got a rowboat at my summer place."

14,000 to Transfer

Medical Dept. Set Up for Air Force

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson yesterday set up a separate, autonomous medical department for the Air Force and then created a new post of medical director for the armed forces.

Some 14,000 Army doctors, dentists, nurses and enlisted "medics" will be transferred to the Air Force under the move. Most of them now are serving with the USAF, although it is expected that all Army doctors will have an opportunity to apply for the transfer.

The order unifying the Army, Navy and Air Force medical departments let the three services retain their identity. The new Director of Medical Services will exercise somewhat the same supervision over them as the strategic direction given to the Army, Navy and Air Force by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Temporary Assignments

At the same time, Johnson directed the Army and Navy each to temporarily assign 100 doctors to the new Air Force Medical Corps to relieve an expected acute shortage of flight surgeons anticipated by summer or fall.

The Defense Secretary said his Medical Advisory Committee — which recommended the present movies—had found that expected losses of reserve flight surgeons will "affect the ability of the Air Force to carry out its strategic missions."

At the same time, the committee concluded that the Army and Navy Medical departments will be able to take care of the needs of their uniformed personnel, although they may not be able to take care of all nonmilitary personnel they are required by law to treat.

The latter include dependents of military personnel, civilians in occupied areas and natives in the Pacific Trust Territories. Top ranking medical officials here now are considering what services to such nonmilitary personnel may have to be reduced.

Grow Heads Department

Maj. Gen. Malcolm C. Grow, USAF Air Surgeon, will head the new Air Force Medical Department, and retain his present title. The new boss for all the medical services has not yet been selected. He may be a civilian or an officer of one of the services.

The new director will have responsibility and authority for "general policies, standards and programs" for the three medical services and "exercise general direction, authority and control over administration and utilization of personnel and facilities of the medical services of such departments and agencies through the heads thereof."

This setup is a compromise with those who urged a complete merger of the Army and Navy medical departments into one service.

General hospitals serving Army and Air Force personnel will continue to be operated by the Army under the new system. General hospital training facilities of the Army and Navy will be available to the new Air Force service.

U. S. Breaks Grain Exporting Mark For Market Year

By The Associated Press

The United States has broken its own world record for the export of grain in a marketing year.

The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that shipments during the 10-month period ending April 30 totaled 14,931,000 long tons or 579,083,000 bushels.

Shipments so far this month, officials said, have been more than enough to put the season's total above the old record of 15,250,000 tons or 588,000,000 bushels set last season. Actual figures on exports so far this month were not yet available.

The Department has set an export goal of 700,000 bushels for the current season, which ends June 30.

Exports during the first 10 months of the previous marketing year totaled 12,937,000 long tons or 499,019,000 bushels.

Party Reaches Highest Waterfall Deep in Forest

Caracas, Venezuela, May, 13 (U.P.) An expedition reached the world's highest waterfall today.

A radio message reported the group's arrival at almost inaccessible Angel Falls.

"We are bathing below the falls," the message said.

It added the expedition would measure the height of the cataract immediately.

Discovered from a plane in 1937 by United States Flyer Jimmy Angel, the falls is located in the heretofore unexplored wilderness of southeastern Venezuela, near the Brazilian border.

Estimates of its height vary between 3600 and 5000 feet. Heretofore the highest known waterfall was Tugela, in Natal, Africa, 2810 feet.

Service Pay Hike Voted by House Group

The House Armed Forces Committee yesterday approved an Administration-supported bill granting pay increases to all members of the armed forces except the lowest-ranking privates and apprentice seamen.

By a vote of 28 to 0, the measure was sent to the floor for consideration later this month. Opposition there is expected from economy-minded Congressmen. It will cost 406 million dollars during the first full year in operation.

Representative Paul Kilday (D. Tex.), chairman of the subcommittee which drafted it, said that while top-ranking officers get the highest percentage of increases, this is needed to met the competition of private industry. Generals, he said, have had only a 10 per cent boost since 1908, while the pay of privates has quadrupled.

Includes Other Groups

Benefits of the bill apply to the Reserves, National Guard, Public Health Service and Coast and Geodetic Survey as well as the regular armed forces. The committee, however, drastically cut physical disability retirement benefits for officers—expected to save "millions" in future years.

Here is a summary of military pay scales in the bill.

The figures below, although they apply to Army personnel, apply also to equivalent ranks in the other services:

| | Present Basic Pay Per Month | Proposed Basic Pay Per Month |

In addition to their military pay, generals receive a personal money allowance of $2200 per year, and lieutenant generals $500. These would be continued under the new bill.

New Automatic Scale

Under present pay schedules enlisted personnel and officers up to general and flag rank collect a bonus of 5 per cent of base pay for every three years of service. The bill would abolish this longevity pay, and substitute a within-grade scale of automatic increases based on years of service.

For example, a second lieutenant, or Navy ensign, would enter the service at $225 a month. While he kept that rank he would get automatic increases until he hit a top pay of $330 at the end of 14 years. Then, to get any more money, he would have to be promoted.

A brigadier general, or rear admiral, would draw $810 a month until he had 22 years' total service. He would then be increased until he reached a top of $870 at 30 years.

Flying and submarine duty now calls for an extra 50 per cent of basic pay. The bill would substitute a new schedule ranging from $30 per month for the bottom grade of enlisted men to a top of $210 for colonels and Navy captains. Officers above that rank would draw $100 a month extra for such duty, the same as second lieutenants and ensigns.

Changes in Allowances

Extra pay would be given for seven other types of hazardous duty at a flat rate of $50 a month for enlisted men and $100 for officers. The seven are flying duty (not as a plane crew member), glider flying, parachute jumping, handling lepers, demolition of explosives, submarine escape training, and deep sea diving.

Officers with dependents now draw from $42 to $63 a month extra for subsistence, and from $60 to $120 for quarters. Those without dependents get a flat $21 for subsistence, and from $45 to $105 for quarters. Enlisted men, with or without dependents, get $31.50 a month for subsistence, and $37.50 for quarters.

The new bill would grant officers, regardless of whether they have dependents, $45 a month for subsistence. The quarters allowance for those with dependents would range from $75 to $150, and without dependents from $60 to $120.

Enlisted men would get the same subsistence allowance, but the quarters allowance would be increased to $45, and enlisted men of the top three grades having families, would get a quarters allowance of $67.50.

Baltic Exiles Protest Red Race Murder

Lake Success, May 13 (AP).—Exiled Baltic leaders urged the United Nations today "to end the illegal Soviet Russian occupation and to stop the unspeakable horrors of genocide (race murder) in the Baltic republics."

The leaders of five freedom groups announced they had sent a letter to U. N. Assembly President H. V. Evatt, charging that Russia in the last year "intensified the total suppression of fundamental human rights and accelerated the tempo of the physical and moral genocide in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania." Russia absorbed the three Baltic states in 1940.

The letter said that of the 11 prewar bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, only one is left, and that "less than half" of the country's former 1646 Catholic priests are still in the country.

2,000,000 Resettled

Hamburg, Germany, May 13 (U.P.) The international refugee organization announced today it had resettled and repatriated almost two million displaced persons and has only 137,858 refugees left on its rolls in Germany.

Britain to Offer Damages

London, May 13 (U.P.).—Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech-Jones said in Parliament tonight that Britain will offer an $80,000,000 free grant to Malaya for war-damage compensation.

Assembly Gets Plan to Split Italy Colonies

Lake Success, May 13 (AP).—An American-backed plan for cutting up Italy's old colonial empire among Britain, France, Italy and Ethiopia was approved today by the United Nations Political Committee.

The vote was 34 to 16.

The 59-nation General Assembly is expected to act finally on the project late Saturday or Monday. A two-thirds vote is required and backers were confident.

A Russian scheme for international rule over the African empire of Mussolini lost. It would have given the Soviet considerable hand in control of the former colonies.

Provisions of Settlement

1. Britain to stay in Cirenaica under a United Nations trusteeship.

2. Italy would return in 1951 as the dominant power in Tripolitania as a U. N. trustee. The British are in full control in Tripolitania now and would remain there if the Assembly fails to approve an Italian trusteeship. Riots broke out several days ago in Tripoli when the Africans heard of the proposed settlement here.

French Now in Control

3. France would administer a U. N. trusteeship over the Fezzan, where the French now are in control.

4. Italy would administer a trusteeship over Italian Somaliland, taking over from the British.

5. All of Libya—Cirenaica—Tripolitania — the Fezzan — would become independent in 10 years unless the U. N. Assembly decides otherwise before then.

6. All of Eritrea except the western province would be incorporated into Ethiopia under outright annexation.

The fate of the western province of Eritrea is yet to be settled.

ers "a better bet" today than a few months ago.

Asked about possible Russian demands for a voice in control of the Ruhr, Clay said: "If the Ruhr is internationalized, under proper safeguards and conditions, Soviet participation could become a reasonable thing."

The general said he had "no doubt" Western political parties would trounce the Communists in a free, all-Germany election.

He also told reporters the airlift will continue "at least several weeks" until the city has stockpiles of food, fuel and other supplies.

Methodists Favor Health Insurance Plan of Truman

Kingston, N. Y., May 13 (AP).—The annual New York State Conference of the Methodist Church, meeting here for the second day today, has unanimously indorsed President Truman's compulsory health insurance plan.

Some 600 delegates are attending the four-day meeting.

At the opening sessions yesterday, the delegates passed without discussion and without a dissenting vote a report supporting the health program and calling for:

1. Legislation to establish "fair code practices" for all congressional investigating committees. Such a code, the report said, should "protect fully the rights of those being investigated."

2. Improved minimum wage legislation and steps to "find ways of providing for all employable men and women the opportunity to earn their support by honest, creative effort."

Bogota Mayor Lifts Ban on Liquor Sale

Bogota, Colombia, May 13 (U.P.).—The sale of liquor was resumed today after Mayor Fernando Mazuera withdrew his edict ordering absolute prohibition for a week because of prevailing political tension. # 3 Veterans' Units Favor Atlantic Pact

By the United Press

Spokesmen for three veterans organizations yesterday indorsed the North Atlantic Security Pact as a step in assuring that their members will never have to fight again.

They were among numerous witnesses who trooped before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to give their views on the proposed defense alliance. Advocates outnumbered opponents 9 to 3.

Gilbert H. Harrison, chairman of the American Veterans Committee, and Bernard Weitzer, representing the Jewish War Veterans, said the pact would promote peace by strengthening the free nations of Europe to resist aggression.

Elliott H. Newcomb, executive director of the American Veterans of World War II, also indorsed the pact, and recommended that the United States "proceed immediately" to draft a similar accord for the Pacific area.

Dawes, Fish Indorse Pact

Statements indorsing the treaty were submitted on behalf of former Vice President Charles G. Dawes and former Representative Hamilton Fish (R., N. Y.), a former isolationist. Fish said the economic recovery program is only a "paper blockade" and must be backed up by a "united military front" to halt Communist aggression.

Ely Culbertson, international bridge expert and chairman of tthe Citizens Committee for United Nations Reform, suggested setting up an international armed force to back up the treaty.

Others who backed the alliance were Charles M. Lafollette, one-time military governor for Wuertemberg-Baden, Germany; Frederic C. Smedley of Waterbury, Conn., and Jane L. Hayford, who deschibed herself as director of the World Organization of Mothers of All Nations.

Some Opponents

President Donald Henderson of the Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers Union (CIO), denounced the treaty as "the most serious danger to peace since Munich." He said he disagreed "most violently" with the CIO's indorsement.

Mrs. Alexander Stewart, representing the oWmen's International League for Peace and Freedom, called the pact a "further blow" to the United Nations.

David S. Ritchie of the American Friends Service Committee, urged Congress to replace it with increasel recovery aid and steps to win the "loyalty" of colored persons everywhere.

Mindszenty Reported Losing Mind

Rome, May 13 (AP).—The Italian news agency Astra said today in a dispatch from Vienna that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty has suffered a mental breakdown. The Astra dispatch was quoted by the Vatican radio. There was no official confirmation anywhere.

The cardinal was convicted in February on charges of treason and black-marketing and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The Astra dispatch quoted a doctor who attended the cardinal at the order of the Hungarian government and who recently succeeded in making his way to Vienna. The doctor said Cardinal Mindszenty's health is in a "desperate condition." The physician's identity was not disclosed.

He was quoted by Astra as saying the cardinal "no longer is master of his mental faculties. He breathes with difficulty and always holds his mouth open. His look is bewildered, like that of the demented."

Jessup in Paris With Bohlen For Parleys

Paris, May 13 (NYHT).—Dr. Philip C. Jessup, American Ambassador at large and United Nations delegate, and Charles E. Bohlen, State Department counselor, arrived here today by plane for informal talks with British and French officials in preparation for the May 23 meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

The talks, due to begin Saturday at the French Foreign Ministry, are expected to cover the attitude to be adopted by the Western Allies toward proposals that the Soviet Union may make, such as a proposal for withdrawal from Germany of all occupation troops.

Jessup was asked about reports the American delegation intends to make a counterproposal calling for withdrawal in part—American and British troops to be withdrawn to the Bremen and Hamburg areas, respectively, the Russians to the port of Stettin and the French behind the River Rhine. He denied there was any basis for the reports.

[The United Press quoted Jessup as saying of the Washington report: "It is not an authorized story. It is not accurate and it is highly misleading."]

There is nevertheless quite a storm in the French press.

The talks, designed to enable the Western powers to present a combined front, are due to be completed by the time Secretary Acheson and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin arrive here, probably on May 21, to confer with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

Romania To Accredit American Attaches

Bucharest, Romania, May 13 (U.P.).—Diplomatic sources today said the Romanian government has agreed to accredit the United States military, naval and air attaches in Bucharest.

The officers are, military attache, Lieut. Col. Franklin Rothwell; naval attache, Capt. Eugene Karpe; air attache, Thomas Fishburn, and assistant military attache, Capt. Herschel Hutsinpiller.

Most of the officers have been in Romania for several months, but the Romanian Foreign Ministry had failed to accredit them.

Prague Talks Stalled

Prague, May 13 (AP).—A Czechoslovak cabinet minister today said the government and the Roman Catholic Church had been conferring and that the talks were deadlocked.

States Reject Single German Interim Rule

Bad Goesberg, Germany, May 13 (U.P.).—The ministers-president of the western German states today rejected a proposal by the Bonn Constituent Assembly that an "executive committee" be formed to act as a government until the separate regime for western Germany finally is established.

Instead, the 11 ministers-president, through their prime ministers, decided to form three working committees of which they will be the members.

These committees will be (1) on organization, (2) on technical problems, and (3) on jurisdictional problems.

They will have no political functions, but will prepare the way for the western German federal government.

The allied commanders in approving the Bonn Constitution last night, recommended at the request of General Koenig that the state ministers-president should assume the functions of an interim government.

At their meeting today, the ministers president decided their 11 state legislatures should ratify the constitution by May 22. The Bonn assembly, it was decided, will then finally vote the constitution into being May 23, the day the Big Four foreign ministers meet in Paris.

Lie Detector Use Suggested In Malmedy Trials Probe

By the United Press

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) yesterday called for a lie detector test of United States Army agents charged with brutality to German prisoners in the notorious Malmedy massacre case.

He asked a Senate Armed Services subcommittee investigating the charges to make the tests on four Army interrogators, Lieut. William R. Perl, Harry Thon, Frank Steiner and a man named "Kirschbaum."

McCarthy offered to stake the entire case against the men on the outcome of the test. If the men fail to pass the test, he said, the convicted Nazis should be given a new trial. If they pass, he added, he would "be the first to apologize for what I have thought about them."

Perl on Stand

Chairman Raymond E. Baldwin, (R., Conn.), remarked that the purpose of the hearing was not to put the Army investigators on trial but to see whether new rules for war crimes trials should be written. He said that if a lie detector were used it should also be applied to the Germans who claimed they were beaten and otherwise mistreated.

Perl, who was accused by James J. Bailey, Pittsburgh, former civilian Army employe, of being "sadistic," was the main witness yesterday.

He denied all brutality charges, and told how he used "psychological" methods to trick the accused Nazis into confessing.

The Germans were convicted of machinegunning to death 80 or more American war prisoners in field near Malmedy, Belgium, during the Battle of the Bulge in 1944. Of the 73 defendants, 43 were sentenced to death. All but six of the death sentences have been commuted and the remaining executions are being held up pending the current investigation.

McCarthy demanded to know if Perl would be willing to submit to a lie-detector test. The witness, visibly angered, said he would if the committee ordered one.

"But do you believe this lie detector would be so reliable that the lives of six Germans under death sentence and the honor and integrity of the United States should depend on it?" he asked. He said that use of such a method would make this country the "laughing stock of the whole world."

The committee also heard from Calvin G. Unterseher of Arlington, Calif., who was a medical corpsman at Swabische Hall Prison in Germany were the Malmedy prisoners were held. He said he saw no evidence of brutality.

Perl, Austrian-born, who fled before the Nazi invasion of his country and is now a psychologist and criminal lawyer with offices in this country and Austria, said he followed orders not to beat the German prisoners or promise them immunity.

DANCERS ENTERTAIN THEM—Washington newspaper carrier boys, attending a rally in the Sylvan Theater yesterday to open the Opportunity Bond Drive, watch Charles Finch and Joan Mitchell, dance specialists of the University of Maryland, go through their act. # 7000 Boys Briefed for Bond Drive at Rally

They sang the praises of Washington's newspaper carrier boys yesterday for a little job they're about to undertake.

More than 7000 of the boys packed the Sylvan Theater south of the Washington Monument at a rally inaugurating the Savings Bonds "Opportunity Drive," which gets under way Monday.

Their task is making personal visits to sell their customers on the idea, as Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder put it, that buying bonds is important to this country, to its security. The same job will be done by carrier boys throughout the Nation.

Sponsored by Four Papers

The rally was sponsored by the four Washington newspapers to honor the carrier boys. Here and over the Nation, approximately 250,000 boys will visit 12 million homes to plug the bond drive. They will also distribute bond literature at the same time.

At the Monument Grounds, though, it was apparent that the boys, a boisterous crew, didn't need much pepping up for the job. It was an outing for them, a morning off from school, a chance to sing and whoop it up.

What more natural, too, than that Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of District schools, and G. Gardner Shugart, head of Prince Georges County schools, should be introduced and draw an accolade of boos? All in fun, of course.

Movie Stars Lead Songs

It was the boys' show, a thing quickly recognized by movie stars Dennis Morgan, Alexis Smith, and her husband, Craig Stevens. Morgan and Stevens soon had them singing "Anchors' Aweigh," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and other favorites.

In between, since it can be difficult to keep youngsters quiet, especially 7000 of them, Sam Jack Kaufman, master of ceremonies, shouted himself hoarse entreating them to sit down.

Midway in the rally, after the United States Air Force Band had played and Buddy Baer, fighter-turned-singer, greeted them, the victorious Washington Baseball Club arrived. No one could have quieted them then.

Players Introduced

Sportscaster Arch McDonald introduced the players one by one, and each received hearty cheers and applause from the boys. There wasn't a lad to be seen sitting down. It was the high spot of the rally.

A few minutes later, Secretary Snyder outlined the savings bond drive over a Nation-wide radio hookup. Through the carrier boys' visits and the literature they distribute, the Treasury Department hopes to sell one billion, 40 million dollars in bonds by June 30, he said.

And then, to wind it up, came the gentle reminder that they had been excused from school for the morning only, and the rally was over.

Britain, Israel Give Envoys Minister Status

London, May 13 (U.P.).—Britain and Israel today raised the status of their representatives from "diplomatic offices" to legation ministers. Diplomatic quarters described the agreement as unprecedented in diplomatic history.

Under the unique arrangement, Anglo-Israeli relations will remain on a "de facto" level although the British diplomatic representative in Tel Aviv, Alexander Helm, will enjoy all rights of a duly accredited diplomat, and the Israeli representative, Dr. Mordecai Eliash, will enjoy the same rights.

British diplomatic quarters still refuse to disclose when Britain will grant Israel de jure recognition.

Halting of Jap Reparations Aimed at Reds

Tokyo, May 13 (U.P.).—The United States halted the Japanese reparations program mainly to prevent war equipment from falling into the hands of Chinese Communists, informed sources said today.

China was to have received half of the 23 million dollars worth of machinery and equipment to be distributed among China, the Netherlands, the Philippines and the United Kingdom.

A Japanese government official said only 50,000 tons of equipment destined for China actually had been removed from Japan of a total of two million tons earmarked fo rpossible removal.

Japanese cheered in the streets when newspaper extras splashed the news of the American decision. Japanese were delighted their "peaceful" industries will be allowed to develop without limitation after October 1.

British Labor Party Loses More Local Council Seats

London, May 13 (AP).—British voters handed the ruling Labor Party another setback in returns today from city council elections. Winston Churchill's Conservatives scored big gains.

In all the 420 boroughs voting yesterday, Conservatives showed a net gain of 805 seats, while the Laborites had a net loss of 715, the British Press Association reported.

Final figures showed the Conservatives hold 1856 seats throughout England, Scotland and Wales and the Laborites 1778. A Labor spokesman said his party suffered a net loss of 646, of which 263 were in London.

The results continued a swing to the right evident in previous local elections. Opinions still differ, however, as to whether the results gave a clew to how the nation will go in the general election of 1950.

A Conservative spokesman called the returns the handwriting on the wall, saying "the people of Britain have rejected the Labor Party program." The Conservative campaign has been pitched on national issues.

Morgan Phillips, Labor Party secretary, said: "Labor's losses in the elections this week have not been as severe as in the county elections a month ago. Excluding London, the results show a net loss of 383 seats. We are still in possession of two thirds of our postwar local government gains, a fact most disconcerting for our opponents."

Political observers pointed out that the Labor Party suffered severe losses in local elections of 1947, but the Conservatives failed to win a single parliamentary seat from Laborite candidates in subsequent elections.

Judith 'Crucified', Spy Lawyer Cries

Accuses Two

7th 'Plant' Testifies in Reds' Trial

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

In a tempestuous 12-minute speech, Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer yesterday told the District Court spy trial that Judith Coplon has been "crucified before the world" and "didn't get the chance a dog gets."

"Amazing procedure," Judge Albert L. Reeves gasped as the speech, made while the jury was dismissed from the courtroom, came clamorously to an end.

"Shakespeare said when you steal my name you steal trash. Shakespeare was wrong," the "Judith Coplon's whole family's reputation has been assassinated."

"Her father has died, her brother has lost most of his business, her mother is ill and . . ." Palmer dramatically pointed to the ghost-white Mrs. Coplon, who sat sobbing across the room—"there she is!"

Blames Newspapers

"Some of this misery has been brought to pass because newspapers must write something," the attorney went on, "and they have tried this case in the newspapers. This girl has been crucified in the newspapers."

He wanted to know "since when don't you't take home Government documents at night to work on them?

This apparently referred to a statement that has been made by prosecutors that on the night of March 4, when Miss Colylon was arrested in New York, FBI agents found in herpocketbook a document that had ben "planted" on her desk that morning at the Department of Justice, where she was then employed as an analyst.

Despite Judge Reeves' extraordinary admonitions of the day before, the noisemaking between Palmer and Chief Prosecutor John M. Kelley, jr., was about as typhonic as ever.

Objects to "Shouting"

Kelley objected repeatedly to Palmer's "shouting," and at one point added a new word that particularly inflamed the pint-high, quart-wide New York defense attorney, who about comes to the prosecutor's shoulder.

"I object both to the repetition and the shoutnig, and . . ." the rangy Kelley hesitated before adding in a razor-like voice, "the badgery."

"Your honor, it's niteresting to me," said the defense lawyer, his voice risnig like the roll of drums, "to hear Mr. Kelley of the Axis fame talk about badgering."

The reference was to Kelley's prosecution of Axis Sally, though Palmer used only the word "Axis."

"Now, gentlemen . . ." Judge Reeves said, with his familiar gesture of a mildly-raised hand and the expression of a father reproving two sons.

Judge Addresses Jury

Judge Reeves took further notice of the vituperative nature of the trial when he addressed the jury before dismissing them for the weekend.

"Some clashes have occurred here," he said. "Maybe the Court has said things the court ought not to have said. But you're not to be impressed by that. It's your duty to remain impartial. You're truth seekers.

"My mother always told me that when I had a job to do I should do it well. You and I have a job to do—let's try to do it well."

As for the case itself—when the issues did come dimly through—the inference that Valentin Gubitchev, Soviet U. N. engineer arrested with Miss Coplon, may have been an American counter spy was raised during the day by Palmer in his cross-examination of FBI Agent Brewer Wilson, who trailed the pair in New York.

Palmer asked if Wilson knew whether Gubitchev was being used "to entrap this girl."

Wilson said he did not.

FBI Agent John F. Malley, who also trailed the pair in New York, followed Wilson to the stand. He was asked by Palmer if he had found out whether Gubitchev was a counterspy. Malley also said he hadn't.

The prosecution told the court that it will call Martin F. Carey, another FBI agent, to the stand when the trial resumes Monday.

New York, May 13 (U.P.).—The Government called yet another, (its seventh) "plant" within the Communist Party today to prove its charges that 11 top United States leaders conspired to advocate and teach revolution.

He was John Victor Blanc, Euclid, Ohio, a worker in the Park Drop Forge Co., Cleveland, Ohio, who joined the party in 1944 at the urging of Gus Hall, chairman of the Ohio Communist Party and one of the defendants. Shortly afterward, he was contracted by the FBI and reported to them regularly thereafter.

Blanc said he was a member of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), and was selected as a delegate to its international convention in Atlantic City, N. J., in 1946. Before he left for the convention, he said, he and other delegates attended a Communist meeting in Detroit, where they were instructed as to the "tactics" they were to use in Atlantic City.

Among those attending that "briefing" session, he said, were two of the trial defendants—Jacob Stachel, educational director, and Carl Winter, Michigan State party chairman. He pointed them out in court today.

During the afternoon session, Blanc complained of pain from a chronic stomach ailment and had to be helped from the stand by attendants. Judge Harold R. Medina recessed court until Monday.

Blanc was the twelfth witness called by the Government in the four-month-old trial.

VFW Charges Pentagon Bar On Poppy Sale

NYHT News Service

The Veterans of Foreign Wars disclosed yesterday that its annual pre-Memorial Day sale of "buddy poppies" in the Pentagon has been barred this year for the first time and the right granted exclusively to the American Legino.

It hinted strongly that this "discrimination" stemmed from the fact that Defense Secrefary Louis A. Johnson is a past national commander of the Legion.

Secretary Johnson could not be reached for comment but his personal assistant and advisor on all matters affecting veterans, Paul Griffith, branded this charge as "ridiculous."

He said that the complaint had only reached his desk late Thursday and that he had launched an immediate nivestigation. Griffith, himself a former national commander of the Legion, added that "no discrimination against any veterans' organization" would be tolerated in the national military establishment.

The VFW said that Martin A. Bryant, its District of Columbia department poppy committee chairman, had written the customary "routine letter" last March 25 requesting permission to sell poppies in the Pentagon on May 26, 27 and 28. It said that a reply dated April 1 has been received saying the privilgee had been granted to "another organization" which the VFW identified as the American Legion.

As a result of a later letter, Griffith is "checking on the matter" and has said there would be no discrimination against any veterans' organization.

VFW spokesmen pointed out that the words, "Buddy Poppy," had been copyrighted by that organization in 1922 and are registered in the Patent Office.

Russians Tipped Off on Doolittle Raid, Ex-Spy Says

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Russian spies knew of the super-secret Doolittle raid on Tokyo 10 days before it took place in April, 1942, a Senate committee was told yesterday.

Miss Elizabeth Bentley, confessed former member of a Soviet spy ring, told the Immigration subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee information on the raid was furnished by William L. Ullman, who had been planted in the Air Force.

The subcommittee in considering legislation to prevent subversive aliens from entering the country under diplomatic immunity and to deport those already here.

So secret was the raid led by then Lieut. Col. James H. Doolittle that even the crews did not know where they were going until they were aboard the carrier from which they took off. The raid was not announced to the American people until April 21, three days after it was made. And not until exactly a year later did the Government reveal that it was launched from the carrier Hornet.

Before Miss Bentley took the stand, Senator Cain (R., Wash.) appeared before the subcommittee to demand that movie actor Charles Chaplin be deported and to accuse him of coming "perilously close to treason." Chaplin is a British citizen despite his long residence in this country.

Cain submitted a statement for the record which said Chaplin sent a "treasonable" message to Pablo Picasso of France last year when deportation proceedings were brought against Hans Eisler. Cain said the Chaplin message read:

"Can you head committee of French artists to protest to the American Embassy in Paris the outrageous deportation proceedings against Hans Eisler here, and simultaneously send me a copy of protest for use here. Greetings!"

Picasso, Cain said, was a "self-admitted French Communist."

Hans Eisler, former Hollywood composer, is a brother of Gerhart Eisler who fled the United States this week on a Polish ship.

During testimony which was largely a repetition of that she gave last summer before the House Un-American Activities Committee, Miss Bentley supported in detail the statement Thursday by former Soviet diplomat Kariil Alexeev that a first secretary o the Russian Embassy is the nerve center of spy activities and boss of the secret police in this country. She said she dealt during and after 1945 with Anatoli B. Gromov first secretary of the Soviet Embassy here.

The State Department's diplomatic list shows Gromov was one of two first secretaries of the embassy from November, 1944, to February, 1946.

The witness said she was told by her "contact" in 1945 of a scheme to infiltrate Soviet expionage agents into the United States, as displaced persons. She said she also had been told that Poles and nationals of other satellite countries were being brought in for espionage and kept in line by holding their families as hostages.

Once again Miss Bentley repeated her charge that William W. Remington, Commerce Department official, was one of "40 or 50" informants in the Government who fed information to her. Remington recently was reinstated by his department by the Loyalty Review Board after being suspended on the basis of Miss Bentley's former testimony.

Asked by the subcommittee's staff director, Richard Arens, if any of her sources of information still were on the Federal payroll, Miss Bentley said she "knew of only one." Asked who that was, she said: "William Remington."

Miss Bentley told the subcommittee she felt passage of the bill under study would go far toward undermining Soviet espionage in the United States because it would "cut the Communist Party's lifeline" with Moscow. All policy is formed in Moscow, she said, and the party is directed from there because "Russians do not trust Americans."

"It hits at the backbone of the Communist Party in this country," she said. "That is, the alien backbone. If you cut that lifeline you will destroy the Communist influence.

Red Prober's Firing Demanded by Clark

NYHT News Service

Attorney General Tom C. Clark, as an apparent outgrowth of his bitter feuds last year with the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has demanded the resignation of its chief investigator, it was learned authoritatively yesterday.

Both Clark and Representative John S. Wood, Democrat, of Georgia, the committee chairman, declined to comment on reports that the Attorney General had insisted that Louis Russell be fired.

It was established, however, that Clark had telephoned Wood early this week and charged that Russell had "leaked" information to newspapermen in violation of committee rules. He demanded that Russell be discharged.

Wood agreed, if the Attorney General could produce "proof." Clark said he would produce affidavits from newspapermen alleged to have received "secret" information from the chief investigator. As far as could be learned yesterday, he has not done so.

Clark also demanded that Justice Department representatives be given access to all committee files, including a report on subversive activities in the State Department, which he alleged Russell had in his possession.

Taichang, 10 miles northwest of Kunshan and 30 miles west of Shanghai — unconfirmed reports said it had fallen to the Communists.

Liuho, 22 miles northwest—the government announced a withdrawal from this village where the Japanese landed in 1937 for their invasion of Shanghai.

Communications failed with Sunkiang, 32 miles southwest, indicating the plight of the city might be desperate.

In other developments:

1. The political section of garrison headquarters cut off funds for refugee central government organizations in Shanghai and ordered them to proceed to Canton within two weeks.

2. Rogert D. Lapham, Economic Cooperation Administrator, flew here from Canton for a series of conferences with local officials on stockpiling 30 days supplies for the city. Deputy R. Allen Griffin said the ECA was "animated by humanitarianism and by a feeling of respect for Chinese and foreign influences trying to prevent chaos."

Garrison Feared More Than Reds

By Tom Lambert

(Associated Press correspondent who today flew from Shanghai to the British colony of Hongkong.)

Hongkong, May 13 (AP).—Shanghai today is a city ruled by guns.

Its nearly six million residents are more fearful of their trigger-happy Nationalist defenders than of the Chinese Communists prodding at its outskirts.

Harsh and bloody measures taken by the Shanghai garrison are converting from contempt to anger the feeling residents have for the men assigned to defend that greatest Asiatic city.

Military edict, enforced by arms, is now the law for Shanghai. Legal looting by soldiers now goes under the alias of "requisitioning."

Through a tightening censorship the garrison decides what Shanghai and the world will know about the war and about conditions in that city.

The garrison is following unswervingly the military patterns of Peiping, Tientsin, Suchow and Nanking, all of which have fallen to the Reds.

The military and those political figures who are allowed to speak all prattle solemnly about a "last ditch" stand and boast that Shanghai's defenses are like Stalingrad's.

Each time the Reds have attacked the outer perimeter, the Nationalists have pulled back.

Yet, with the Reds only a few miles away, the Nationalists engage in "combat exercises."

With the Reds closer to Shanghai, the Nationalist air force raids Mukden and Peiping—hundreds of miles to the north.

The garrison has gone into economic and political affairs with a bloody vengeance.

Within the past week the garrison has directed police to execute more than a score of men for political and economic "crimes."

Shanghai will not soon forget its last days under the Nationalists.

retary posts in the reorganized departments. One of these will replace Rusk, and the others will head self-contained units for European; Near Eastern and African; Far Eastern, and American Republic Affairs.

Salary Only $10,330

Only one "definite" selection has been made for these posts. In filling them, the department has encountered the usual double difficulty in Government—obtaining qualified persons and finding people who can "afford" to take the $10,330-a-year jobs.

Among those "sounded out" for some of the posts, it was learned, were several ambassadors who, as Foreign Service officers, receive $13,500 a year plus other allowances and contended that assistant secretaryships would involve too great a financial sacrifice for them.

Under the order which becomes effective Monday, the State Department's administrative staff will be centered in five offices: Office of the Assistant Secretary, Office of Personnel, Office of Consular Affairs, Office of Operating Facilities, and Office of Management and Budget.

The Foreign Service will be represented by divisions in these offices, with such present divisions as passport, visa, security, cryptography, etc., and the Foreign Service Institute, all brought under direct departmental authority.

Child Care Centers

It is a false sort of economy which holds that the community would be benefited by having working mothers go on relief in order to take care of their children. We are glad to see that the Senate District Subcommittee headed by Senator Margaret Chase Smith has rejected this approach respecting Washington's child day care centers. It has voted to accept the one-year extension approved by the House, but has upped the authorization from $50,000 to $150,000 needed to maintain the current level of service. We should have preferred to see the centers established on a permanent basis as provided in Mrs. Smith's own bill; but the basis for future action along this line is contained in the requirement for a report by November 1 on the recommendations of District officials for a proper child care program.

There is, to be sure, an argument that with the desperate condition of District finances the day care program ought to be reduced. A cut to $50,000 would mean that three or four of the present six centers would have to be closed and the services to the 270 children currently enrolled drastically curtailed. Even if all the centers were closed, of course, some families might not have to go on relief; and it is always desirable for mothers to look after their own children where this is at all possible. But the $150,000 now appropriated is not the net cost of the day care program; some $35,000 will be returned to the general fund in payments by parents this year. Other values are involved beyond a strict equation of costs between day care centers and relief. One is provision for the children who otherwise might be running loose, and another is the boost to family independence coming from the liberalized standards of the care program measured against the degrading influence of straight relief.

Article IV

During last week's hearings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and in a news interview over the weekend, Senator George has hinted at the possible necessity of Senate reservations to the Atlantic Pact. Specifically, he wants it to be made clear that, among other things, adherence to the pact does not bind the United States to defend the colonial possessions of a European signatory. He already is known to have raised questions about the possibility that ECA's funds may have been used to close the door of or impede the business of Americans in those possessions.

The question of qualifying interpretations of the North Atlantic Pact was also raised by John Foster Dulles in his testimony before the committee. Mr. Dulles thought that clear declarations imbedded in the report of the Foreign Relations Committee to the Senate on the treaty would be sufficient. Senator George, while not insisting on formal reservations, suggested at the time that something more than a statement in the committee report might be needed. The exact form of such declarations is less important, we believe, than that their import be unmistakable. Senate reservations are bad business. They undermine the confidence of other governments in the authority of United States negotiators, and open the way to restrictive interpretations from all sides with the result that an agreement already laboriously worked out may have to be substantially renegotiated.

However, there ought to be no illusion, in this or in other countries, that the United States, by ratifying the Atlantic Treaty, is guaranteeing the territorial integrity of any European colonial possessions. Article IV, which calls for consultation among the signatories "whenever, in the opinion of any of them, the territorial integrity, political independence or security of any of the parties is threatened," does not seem to us to contemplate this. But the danger that others may believe it does ought to be scotched. An unequivocal declaration included in the committee's report ought to be adequate—coupled perhaps, with a formal notice thereof in the Senate's resolution of advice and consent.

Pick A Name

Siam, according to press reports from Bangkok, has changed its name again. Known for centuries to the outer world as Siam and to its own inhabitants as Muang Thai or Land of the Free, the country decided just before the last war to be itself, so to speak. Thailand became the official name and it remained so until, after the war, it was changed back again to Siam. Now comes the third change—back to Thailand. Ah, for the good old days when, as Gertrude Stein might have said, "Siam is Siam is Siam."

Overloaded Congress

For some weeks it has been evident that Congress is failing miserably to live up to the great expectations that President Truman aroused in the last campaign. Probably two-thirds of the present session has gone by, and most of the legislation which the President assumed that a Democratic Congress would promptly enact is still a long way from the statute books. The log-jam is most serious in the Senate. In that chamber not a single regular appropriations bill has yet been passed. To be sure, the Senate has enacted the ECA, housing and aid-to-education bills, but these commendable efforts are overshadowed by a mountain of important legislation awaiting action.

Thus, unless the present Congress greatly increases its tempo, its output is likely to fall below that of the Eightieth Congress, which, after all, passed a good deal of momentous legislation. Yet it can scarcely be said that Congress is dawdling. Of course, the Senate's stupid filibuster consumed time unnecessarily early in the session. But for the most part both houses have been working under terrific pressure. In our opinion, public dissatisfaction with the results achieved to date can be traced to two causes: (1) the common assumption that the legislative process is much simpler than it actually is; (2) the failure to adjust our legislative machinery to the enormous load that any modern Legislature in a great Nation must carry.

President Truman often talks as if the legislative process were simply a matter of hastily stamping approval on the measures he sends to Capitol Hill. Congress still insists on extended deliberation. Deliberation is sometimes too extended, but, as a practical matter, it would be impossible for Congress, in a single session, to deliberate on the ECA, the Atlantic Pact, the reciprocal trade program, and a series of bills on labor-management relations, housing, social security, aid-to-education, displaced persons, national health, civil rights, taxes and national defense in addition to carefully surveying the items in a 40-billion-dollar budget. That load is simply too heavy. Bear in mind that most of the measures referred to are very complicated. If there is to be deliberation, the Nation may have to wait several years for Congress to get around to some of the measures that are now crowding its calendars.

At the same time Congress itself ought to realize that if it is going to serve the Nation well, it will have to abandon the indulgences of the comparatively easy-going past. Its machinery was substantially improved by the Congressional Reorganization Act of 1946. Yet grave deficiencies remain, as the last filibuster proved. If the Senate could not then see the necessity of abandoning unlimited debate, the congestion of its calendars ought to convince it now. Another important step would be passage of Senator Myers' bill to set up a legislative timetable. Congress also continues to give an enormous amount of time to comparative trivialities. In spite of all the LaFollette-Monroney Committee said on this subject, the Senate and House still act as city council for the District of Columbia. Obviously another drive to eliminate minor issues and private bills ought to be undertaken, and the first step in this direction ought to be enactment of Senator Kefauver's bill giving the District a city council of its own. The point was given special emphasis by Senator Johnston's filibuster early this week against the District sales tax bill—a filibuster which almost shook our faith in the wisdom of the Seventeenth Amendment.

States and cities should finally realize that they cannot get all their problems solved by dumping them into the lap of Congress. As our society becomes more complex, the time and energy of Congress must be restricted to the truly national and international issues. We simply cannot force all important decisions through the bottleneck of Congress, if that body is to retain its deliberative function. It is time for the people to realize there are limits to what Congress can do, even with improved procedures, if it is to remain a true legislative body as distinguished from a recording machine.

Veterans' Pensions

The latest edition of the veterans' pension bill is a far cry from the original Rankin proposal to pay all veterans over 60 years of age a pension of $60 per month, with $90 pensions for those over 65, regardless of need. The new bill merely liberalizes regulations for payment of pensions to disabled veterans and writes into the law existing discretionary regulations of the Veterans' Administration. The estimated cost of the proposed changes is approximately 8.7 billion dollars over a 50-year period, in sharp contrast to the more than 100-billion-dollar cost of the Rankin proposal. Possibly the best proof of the comparative innocuousness of the bill is afforded by Mr. Rankin's denunciation of it as a blow to many former servicemen.

Mr. Rankin was especially aroused by the action of the committee in limiting pension payments to unemployable veterans, asserting that retention of the employability clause would bar payment of pensions to 6 out of 7 World War I veterans when they reach the 65-year-age mark. There is, of course, no valid reason why aged veterans who are able-bodied should be the recipients of special pensions when their fellow men are forced to rely on relief grants or old-age insurance benefits. What is needed is an extension of the social security program covering all workers. As The Washington Post has repeatedly stated, bills such as that sponsored by Mr. Rankin constitute a threat to the establishment of a comprehensive and reasonably adequate form of insurance by adding to the burdens of taxpayers—veterans and nonveterans alike.

Atomic Fog

Some masterpieces of woolly thinking have emerged from the Joint Atomic Energy Committee's discussion of research fellowships financed by the Atomic Energy Commission. Committee members scented blood in the disclosure by Representative W. Sterling Cole that one of the prospective fellowship recipients is a real live Communist. The only clear result of the hullabaloo that followed in Thursday's hearing was to give impetus to the fantastic notion of loyalty tests for all persons receiving Government financial support, however remote their connection with the national security.

Actually, security has nothing whatever to do with the research fellowships. They were established under the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 to help build up a reservoir of trained scientists for service in industry, the professions, and Government in the atomic age. These fellowships are granted by the Atomic Energy Commission on the basis of nominations submitted by the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences, the premier private body in existence for the promotion of science. The Atomic Energy Commission's only part is to approve the grants; the National Research Council administers the program in its entirety.

Since the program was initiated in January, 1948, some 446 research grants have been made, and some of these grants are renewals of the 260 awards made during 1948. For what appeared to the Atomic Energy Commission to be compelling reasons, no loyalty check was established for recipients who would do nonsecret research in such fields as biology, nuclear physics, mathematics and biochemistry. For the recipients are merely students. Nor is there anything new in the Atomic Energy Commission's policy in not subjecting them to a loyalty check. The joint committee caught up with it only when a question happened to be raised about the behavior of a few of the students. It was then that questions were asked. To provide the answers AEC Chairman Lilienthal assembled his staff a while ago, but the interest of the committee in the answers is demonstrated in the fact that only two members of the 18-man body put in an appearance.

Evidently the red herring is reserved for a chase in public. And in this excursion a fuzzy but nonetheless dangerous tangent has been revealed. Witness Senator Hickenlooper's answer to a question by Dr. Henry D. Smyth, one of the newly nominated members of the Atomic Energy Commission. Senator Hickenlooper had expressed the opinion that to weed out a few persons of doubtful loyalty would not hurt the research program. The transcript reads:

> Dr. Smythe: May I ask you this: What would you feel about a similar fellowships set up, let's say, by a National Science Foundation, where the individuals also would be supported by public funds?
> Senator Hickenlooper: I would feel exactly the same way if public funds go into it.

Plainly, the logical extension of this statement would be to require loyalty investigations of all students receiving Government funds under the GI Bill of Rights, students benefiting from Federal aid to education, and goodness knows who else. Under such a formula the inquisition soon would encompass a large portion of the population. This would be an intolerable monstrosity.

Congress and the Atomic Energy Commission are perfectly right in insisting upon security clearance on all persons with access to secret atomic data. This is, and has been, a well-defined policy. But political beliefs have no bearing upon basic scientific research, and the worst that can be said of the admission of a handful of persons of dubious reliability to the fellowship program is that it may lead to a waste of funds, for they will assuredly be denied employment in security jobs when they come out. Here, however, the cure is far worse than the disease. If members of Congress become so jumpy about freedom of inquiry that they are willing to impose political surveillance upon it, the country will have traveled a long way toward the thought regimentation it abhors.

Visa Red Tape

In spite of the tons of propaganda put out by the United States Government and all the money spent to create good will among the Latin American countries, there is one single item that destroys all this good work: Immigration laws, U. S. A.

American visitors are welcomed into these countries and allowed to visit them with just a tourist card issued on a few hours notice in contrast with all the red tape imposed on Latin American tourists who wish to visit the United States.

Last year we were fortunate to bring a message of good will from the people of Guatemala to the people of United States with the help of one of the Marimba bands.

And we invited the American people to come to Guatemala. This year we are trying to reciprocate by taking Guatemalans to visit the United States, but this is almost an impossible task due to the opposition of the consular authorities.

Among the chief obstacles we have to go through to obtain a visa for a Guatemalan is a notice to be given to them 20 days in advance, plus three days to be examined by American doctors (compulsory). And it is not only the number of requisites to filled, it is also the scrutiny—as if the applicants were criminals—that they have to go through.

We feel that if more Latin Americans visit the United States, if more Guatemalans come in contact with a real democracy such as America, there will be less necessity for propaganda and waste of money.

Cutting Off Franco

Buried on the back pages of most papers a small item came to my attention in regard to a proposed loan, by the United States Government, through one of its lending agencies, to Franco and Spain. We are willing to lend money to Spain, provided it can put up the necessary collateral.

Coming at this time the idea is probably part of an effort to stem the Communist tide in Europe, which is essentially a sound and commendable effort. So far we have given aid to Greece, China and a number of others. In respect to the Greek and Chinese governments, both have proven themselves rife with graft and corruption.

It might be a suggestion to the policymakers of the Nation that, instead of lending Franco money, that we cut him off and let his regime sink in the totalitarian muck on which it was so ignobly erected and go the way of the Condor Legion, the Blue Division and the swaggering Italian army which brought it to power. In the meantime, we could encourage those of the legitimate Spanish government, who are not Communist, to take over when the vacuum sets in as it must.

Daylight Saving

As a father of three children, I am appealing to have standard time extended until after the conclusion of school terms.

In order for children to be healthy and alert, they should have a sufficient amount of sleep each night, and the sleeping should be done during hours most conducive to it. In warm weather a child naturally wants to stay outside and play until almost dark (around 8:30 or 9 p. m. daylight saving time), which means that he must do the necessary household chores, study his lessons and perhaps practice on the piano before going to bed. By this time it is usually around 10 p. m.

Going to bed at 10 p. m. means that he has lost an hour of sleep. This condition is neither necessary or fair to the children and parents, but they are having to endure it because a "majority" of citizens or pressure groups want it that way.

"Guard Of Honor"

At long last, after some six years of reading, I note a slip in one of your editorials—"Pulitzer Prizes," of May 4. To describe Guard of Honor, gentlemen, as a "war novel" is as though you were to characterize Hamlet as a play about a royal family." or Crime and Punishment as "a prison story." Guard of Honor is only incidentally a war novel; it is essentially a novel about bureaucracy and character and the meanings of responsibility in a complex society.

"Newspaper Dilemma"

Your May 6 editorial, "Newspaper Dilemma," about the conflict at the University of Maryland brings to mind a somewhat similar problem involving the Christian Register, the monthly magazine published by the American Unitarian Association in Boston.

About two years ago the Christian Register had as its editor-in-chief, the Rev. Stephen Fritchman, a pro-Russian enthusiast. Many of his editorials naturally reflected his strong feelings, which were contrary to the opinions of the majority of Unitarians throughout the country and of the majority of the board of the A. U. A.

The controversy received quite a bit of notice in the national press and the Boston Herald printed an editorial at that time which clarified the situation and eventually resulted in the ouster of Mr. Fritchman from the position.

The Boston Herald stated that the question of freedom of press was in no way involved in a controversy between editor and publisher over the editorial policies of a paper. The public expects the editorials to reflect the opinions of the publisher and the editorial should, therefore, be so written.

Dogs And Vivisection

The Washington Post is to be most warmly commended for the positive part it is taking in the current fight over vivisection and over the passage of what should be termed "the canine materials bills"; H. R. 4349 and S. 1703.

The presence of "carbon dioxide in oxygen" in operating rooms is in large measure due to the lifelong work of my father, the late Prof. Yandell Henderson of Yale University, whose research over most of 40 years was devoted to establishing the role that carbon dioxide plays in controlling the breathing of man and of all animals. This gas is one of the most powerful tools the anesthetist has to keep the patient breathing normally under the anesthetic, to restore him to consciousness after the operation and to prevent the collapsed lungs that sometimes occur if the patient doesn't breathe properly.

The research that established the vital importance of this now common-place medical tool, the technique of its use, and the limits of its safety, was completely dependent upon a supply of experimental dogs. M. C. H.

Washington.

If there were uncontested evidence that vivisection ever was worth while in solving mankind's illnesses, there might be some logic to sacrificing some of man's best friends.

Among those who have voiced their opposition are: Dr. Hans Zimmerman, executive secretary of the National Medical Society, who has pointed out that the difference in body chemistry between human beings and animals is such that "experimenting with animals to discover treatments for human beings is of no value . . . " Dr. Robert Bell, vice president of the International Cancer Research Society, has said "It is impossible to arrive at any satisfactory conclusion in regard to cancer in man by experimenting on animals."

Prof. Lawson Tait, M. D., F.R.C.S., has said in part " . . . I was brought up in the belief that by vivisection we had obtained every important fact in physiology and that many of our most valued means of saving life and diminishing suffering had resulted from experiments on the lower animals. I know now that nothing of the sort is true . . . "

HENRY MARSCHALK.
Takoma Park.

Dispassionate analysis of the persuasive letter of Mrs. C. E. Russell on May 7, honorary vice president of the local antivivisection society, reveals the real motive of most antivivisection propaganda: They use our universal love of household pets as a weapon to express their hate of medicine.

There is no point in the intellectually honest doctor denying Mrs. Russell's citation of gloomy prognoses which time has proven wrong. Neither will doctors deny some of their colleagues have a distinct commercial flavor to their trade. No one has worked harder than the conscience of organized medicine to make the doctor heal himself.

But the protest of Mrs. Russell against vivisection refutes her professed love of her fellow man. She holds that the painless death of a brute should serve no useful purpose. She agrees that unclaimed dogs and cats should be executed by the poundmaster. But in dying, as they must, she refuses to allow the surgeon, the student and the scientist to add to their skill and their knowledge.

I read Bruno the Dog's letter of May 9 and am glad to learn that he is chairman of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty of Humans, because now maybe he can do something to comfort my little master for my loss.

You see he's only three years old and he is almost totally blind. I used to be his guard dog and also his playmate and companion, but I'm dead now. You see a cruel man stole me and sold me to a torture laboratory. They sliced my gums away and filed my teeth and mutilated my jaws. The parents of my little master spared no pains to find me, but when they finally got me it was too late.

Pacifying Women

THE DELEGATION of women, by deft use of brush salesmen's tactics, swept into the private office of the Man of Influence.

"We've come to warn you," said the leader, "that women are getting restive again. This publicity about Mrs. Pandit, Ambassador from India, has started them asking questions."

"What!" exclaimed the Man of Influence, aghast. "You mean they want to be Ambassadors?"

"Not necessarily. They'd settle for some Assistant Secretaryships. They'd even be assistants to assistants—anything to crash men's closed corporation on Government policy-making."

"I'll talk to some of the boys," said the Man. "Maybe there's another national advisory panel coming up——"

"Now wait," broke in the delegation leader, "I won't answer for what will happen in this country if another woman's appointed an adviser, a consultant, an observer, or an alternate or put on some commission to study something. Mrs. Pandit didn't come here to do research or to smirk at committee meetings. And Dr. Martha Eliot isn't leaving the Children's Bureau to be anybody's woman Friday. She's going to be assistant director general of the World Health Organization, the highest post in the U. N. to be held by a woman. That also makes our women wonder. Why does an American woman have to leave home to get anywhere?"

"AFTER ALL," said the Man, brightening, "we sent Mrs. Roosevelt to the U. N."

"Yes after several groups of women worked for the appointment for weeks. Besides, what was so wonderful about putting one woman on a delegation? Or naming a few women among the 500 Americans on international boards and committees?"

"Now don't misunderstand me! I'm for you in this. It's the other fellows who're holding back. Their point is: Why name a woman to a job just because she's a woman?"

"Why exclude her because she's a woman—especially when her sex has more than half of the voting power. Just take a look at the Congressional Directory. No woman in the Cabinet. No woman Undersecretary. No woman Assistant Secretary—and, by the way, what's goingt o be done about the State Department if it enlarges its Assistant Secretaries from 6 to 10 as the Hoover reorganization plan provides? No woman a deputy assistant or a special assistant. Only two women on important commissions. Only three women heads of bureaus. Only three women on the Federal bench. I tell you we're losing ground in top jobs all the time."

"I know how you ladies feel. But you see we have to have qualified people——"

Laughter drowned the sentence. "Those lists!" shouted the women. "They mean," explained the leader, "all those lists of qualified women that have been sent in.

"I TELL you," said the Man of Influence. "I'll get somebody to look up those lists. There may be some positions coming up in the women's bureaus and departments. Some of those jobs pay as much as $6000. That's not bad for a woman.

"Now just a minute," countered the delegation leader. "Our women say they won't be shoved back in the pantry. What about as Assistant Secretaryship?"

The Man wiped his brow. "Well-er you see those jobs are pretty important. They-re—well, sort of political. And if you go out and appoint a woman on a political basis, what do you get?"

"But what do you get if you appoint a man on a political basis?"

"Well ladies, I'm going to tell you the truth. There are a lot of our men at the top who just can't get used to the idea of having women around. They don't feel easy working with 'em—that is, unless they're secretaries. You never know what a woman will do. She may be emotional and tempermental."

"But retorted the delegation leader, "don't you ever get men who're temperamental? I've seen men judges blow their tops and pound their benches, and Congressmen throw fits of temper in committee hearings."

Again the Man mopped his brow. "Ladies," he said, "you're right. I'm for you personally. It's the other fellows who are blocking things. I tell you what I'll do! I'll talk to 'em . . . And by the way, it wouldn't hurt if you'd see some of 'em yourselves. Just dress up your prettiest and approach 'em in a nice way."

Franklin Statue

Why waste patriotic publicity space in the rotunda of the Capitol on a man named Baker whom nobody knows? Why not transfer the Benjamin Franklin masterpiece by Hiram Powers from the Senate wing corridor where it now faces a stairway?

Architect Lynn approves the statuary as art— .ers is one of America's 32 leading sculptors—but objects to any statute there of anyone not a President!

The decision, however, is in the hands of the Joint Committee on the Library. The Sons of the American Revolution hope that they will order the Franklin marble relocated.

Competition In The Air

WEBSTER'S New Collegiate Dictionary defines the word "competition," in the commercial and economic sense, as "The effort of two or more parties, acting independently, to secure the custom of a third party by offering most favorable terms."

Childs

That is the driving force of what we like to think of as the free American market—the steam behind private initiative. But the fact is that the area of competition is constantly being cut down as monopoly in one disguise or another takes over.

The Civil Aeronautics Board is starting hearings into the application of Pan American Airways to buy American Overseas Airlines. If the deal is approved by CAB, one of Pan-Am's chief United States competitors in the foreign field will have been eliminated.

Objective observers with expert knowledge believe that this is one more step in the direction of the "chosen instrument," or single Government-subsidized airline. For many years that has been the goal of Juan Trippe, the enormously resourceful and hard-driving president of Pan American.

It is Pan-Am's argument that in competing with foreign lines subsidized or owned outright by foreign governments the United States cannot afford competition between United States operators. This argument has considerable force.

Once there were a single United States carrier in the field, however, the pressure from the foreign lines would be to divide up the business in the cozy cartel fashion that Europe prefers. And the temptation would be great to yield to that pressure.

A MORE powerful argument against competition in the airline business, it seems to me, is that it is too costly. That hits home, since the taxpayer pays the bill through the hidden subsidies contained in the so called air-mail pay, those subsidies including a reasonable profit for the competing lines. If old Adam Smith, the apostle of free enterprise, knows about this he is probably revolving in his grave like a whirling dervish.

Since regulation is inevitable, if only to insure safety for the traveling public, part of the competition among these competing airlines is for Government sanction and Government favor. This kind of competition gets into the realm of higher politics.

In an acute form this was seen in the struggle for the route from Seattle, Wash., to Hawaii. Ever since that was fought out last summer and fall, there have been persistent reports of large contributions made by the competing lines to the Democratic National Committee.

The route was first awarded, on July 29, to Northwest Airlines, Inc. Then, at the end of August, Pan American asked for reconsideration and a rehearing.

On September 16, President Truman ordered the CAB to grant Pan Am what was in effect a duplicate route.

BOTH Pan American and Northwest deny emphatically that they made any contribution. Corporations are forbidden by law to make political contributions. But, when they talk confidentially, spokesmen for each line, while protesting their own innocence, accuse the other of having handed over a generous sum in the expectation of favorable action.

They both may be as innocent as lambs or each may be correct in accusing the other. One newspaper printed the report that Pan American had paid over a large sum to Louis Johnson, then finance chairman of the Democratic Party and now Secretary of Defense.

Northwest Airlines recently applied to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for a loan of 21 million dollars, 12 million of which would go for new equipment. The balance would underwrite 9 millon dollars in loans from private banks. Pan Am's airmail pay went up from $16,813,000 in 1947 to $23,849,000 in 1948 and Northwest's went from $3,884,000 to $8,056,000, the latter including a retroactive payment of $2,010,000.

Competition between airlines, both domestic and foreign, seems to me important. A "chosen instrument" is very likely to be taken over by Government and no one, or almost no one, wants Government operation. When you put this up to Pan American officials, they say, "not necessarily. Look at the telephone company."

Private and regulated monopoly may be essential in some fields. But it is certainly not desirable in the kind of industry that depends on public good will and support. Congress is at last looking into this whole question of competition in the air industry and whether it needs to be so costly to the taxpayer. I want to discuss that in a subsequent column.

Swank Cairo Club Closing Is Considered

Operators of the Cairo Club, swank night spot at 1615 Q st. nw., are considering whether to close the establishment after being cited for four violations of the liquor laws.

Joshua Levin, vice president and secretary of Cairo Catering, Inc., said the firm is "ready to leave town. We don't seem to get along with the ABC (Alcoholic Beverage Control) Board."

The club has been cited by the ABC Board on four counts, which will be aired at a hearing Wednesday at 10 a. m. in the Municipal Center.

The charges include two counts of permitting use of the premises for unlawful purposes—gambling; another of permitting consumption of alcoholic beverages after legal hours of sale, and a fourth of selling and serving beverages during prohiibted hours.

Levin said the last two charges arose from a visit by two Police Vice Squad undercover men accompanied by their wives to the club on Saturday, April 9. He said the foursome stayed after the midnight closing hour and "kept coaxing for drinks."

"I refused them. I kept saying 'no,' but they said they were from Baltimore, so my partner gave—not sold—the two men a drink," Levin declared. His partner is Robert Goodman, president and treasurer of the operating firm.

The gambling charges were made by a waiter from a hotel who said he placed numbers bets with a Cairo waitress on two occasions, Levin said. He said the woman had not been convicted of a numbers charge and was still in employ of the restaurant.

Levin, who has been in the restaurant and nightclub business for 34 years, said that since reopening the establishment on January 3 of this year, he has been continually visited by various law enforcement officials.

Girl Witness Says Evidence Is Unchanged

Bernice Franklin, key Government witness in the trials of 36 indicted gamblers, told The Washington Post yesterday she had not altered her testimony.

She said she made out a new affidavit for the Times-Herald at the suggestion of a friend, because she was "tired of being used" by the United States Attorney's office.

Commenting on the latest Franklin affidavit, U. S. Attorney George Morris Fay issued this statement: "The gambling investigation was conducted in all respects in conformity with the law. All the evidence was submitted to the grand jury and it was the grand jury's action in all cases that was responsible for indictments, not my office or any one witness."

U. S. Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence branded as "absolutely untrue" a statement in the Franklin affidavit that he prevented her from attending the preliminary hearing of Attilio Acolotti, one of the indicted gamblers. Acolotti was once her boy friend. She signed Government affidavits which led to his arrest, but he was with her when she signed the affidavit for the Times-Herald and the Times-Herald published a picture of them together.

Telephone Removals Attacked in New Plea

A new attack on the method by which a telephone can be removed for violation of gambling laws was made yesterday before the District Public Utilities Commission.

John L. Ingoldsby, jr., attorney for Harry and Bertha Katz, 3169 Walbridge pl. nw., filed a supplemental memorandum opposing a provision in the telephone company tariff five days after he had opposed the provision at a PUC hearing.

United States Attorney George Morris Fay is seeking to remove the Katz telephone on the grounds that it is being used in violation of gambling laws.

Ingoldsby found new reasons why the provision should be eliminated in the Wednesday decision of District Court Judge Alexandria Holtzoff, when he authorized removal of the telephone of Nola Andrews, 11223 12th st. nw.

In authorizing the removal, Judge Holtzoff said the telephone company did not have the right to remove a telephone solely on the grounds that it had received a letter requesting such removal from the United States Attorney. Judge Holtzoff added that the telephone company must first prove the service has been used to violate the law.

River Valley Development Plans Urged

By John W. Ball

Post Reporter

Valley projects patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority for the Missouri, Columbia and Connecticut Rivers were discussed by the National Emergency Conference on Resources yesterday.

The conference will end its three-day session at the Interior Department with meetings open to the public today. Yesterday Assistant Secretary of Interior C. Girard Davidson, pointed to "three large issues and problems" which he thought the conference should consider:

1. President Truman's "bold new program" for making American scientific and technological skill in resources development "available to other peoples."

2. America's part in the United Nation's Scientific Conference on Conservation of Resources at Lake Success August 17 to September 6.

3. The Hoover Commission's recommendation for a Department of Natural Resources and "effective development of the basic wealth of the Nation."

Opposition Assailed

"While we are discussing these bold new programs," Davidson said, "let's not forget a piece of unfinished business. We should promptly apply the lessons learned in the Tennessee Valley to the Columbia River.

"The spectacular Columbia River could produce twice the hydroelectric capacity now existing in the whole United States.

"The opposition to the CVA bill comes from the people who have always been opposed to conservation, and who have sought to exploit the resources of the public domain. In the forefront as always are the private utility corporations, the power lobbies. They are operating behind front organizations such as development associations, reclamation asosciations and water users protective councils. The railroads and Chamber of Commerce have fallen in line.

"These are the people who want to be let alone so that they can exploit the wealth which rightfully belongs to all the people."

'Political Engineering'

Jerome G. Locke of the Committee for Missouri Valley Authority, declared that "the hopelessness and inadequacies of the Pick-Sloan plan (for Missouri River development) can be found in the Hoover Commission's Task Force Report on Natural Resources."

Heretofore, Locke said, "there was some excuse for Congress to err as to both authorizations and appropriations. It did not have information on which to act. Mr. Hoover put his finger on the worst of the sore spots in this messy situation.

"It is political engineering that the Army engineers have put into the gigantic dams and reservoirs which they are constructing. Future appropriations for these trouble-makers should be suspended until a real plan for Missouri Valley development has been produced."

A similar plea was made by Representative Chase Going Woodhouse (D., Conn.) for development of the Connecticut Valley.

"While it is generally acknowledged that the entire country is suffering from a power shortage, and while the war proved the value of TVA, Grand Coulee and Bonneville, private utilities in New England insist there is no shortage in that area." she said.

"This group gives no explanation of why there is a lower per capita use of electricity in New England than there is in other parts of the country.

"Preliminary surveys indicate a unified river basin development . . . will provide flood control, hydroelectric power, water pollution abatement, land conservation and wildlife conservation, and that this can be done at an economically feasible cost, without undue loss of farm land and without injury to our established private utilities."

Candidate Cites Cost of Primary

Richmond, Va., May 13 (AP).—Walter Johnson, lone Republican candidate for Governor, said today it was unfortunate such a slim ticket should cause a $90,000 Statewide GOP primary. There are two Republican candidates for lieutenant governor.

However, Johnson said, Republicans in the past have shared the cost of Democratic primaries in the State without complaint. This year's will be the first GOP primary.

Senate Votes Stiff Increase In D. C. Personal Income Tax

age taxes instead of increasing them 50 per cent as proposed by the Senate District Committee.

4. Shouted down a proposal to apply the sales tax to newspapers.

The amendments were all sponsored by Johnston, leading the fight against the sales tax.

He had two more to present, one to extend the District income tax with present exemptions and nearly doubled rates to nearly all persons living in the District seven months or more in the year, and the second one to eliminate the sales tax from the bill.

Senators' Ideas Vary

He asked and obtained permission to eliminate two lines from one amendment, declaring later that he intended to make clear that the vote on the income tax feature would have no effect on the sales tax.

But Senators popped up after the vote for the income tax feature with opposite ideas of what had happened. And they had varied ideas about what the next move should be.

Republican Floor Leader Kenneth Wherry (R., Nebr.) asked "just what did the amendment do?"

Said Johnston "It will raise about $9,900,000 more from the District income tax."

Senator Richard Russell (D., Ga.) suggested that with addition of the income tax revenue to the sales tax money the District might have enough money to permit eliminating the Federal contribution.

Senator Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) said the bill ought to be sent back to the committee.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) was all for passing the revenue bill at once. He favored the income tax, opposed the sales tax.

Humphrey said the way the bill stood it would add 21 million a year to city revenue, 3 million more than needed.

Senator Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.), in charge of the revenue bill, said removal of the sales tax would leave the city some seven million short of needed money. He said Humphrey's estimate was all wrong.

McGrath Grows Irate

Senate District Committee Chairman Howard McGrath (D. R. I.), who had battled with other members to urge passage of the sales tax, angrily told his colleagues, "If you think you can write a tax bill on the floor, I say jolly good luck to you, but I don't think you can do it."

He suggested the bill be passed and sent to conference "and we'll see what we can come out with."

Then Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) asked Johnson if the bill, after the income tax section had been approved, still contained the sales tax.

"It does," said Johnston.

"I say it does not, on the basis of the recent action," said Cain.

No Way to Legislate

Wherry said he agreed with McGrath that it was no way to legislate. Lucas said in view of the confusion it seemed right to take a recess and ascertain exactly what the Senate did mean by its income tax vote.

Then Humphrey asked Hoey, acting as president pro tem, whether the Johnston income tax amendment did not cut out the sales tax.

"It did," said Hoey.

Hickenlooper, joined later by Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.), declared he had voted for the Johnston income tax proposal with the distinct understanding from Johnston that the vote would have nothing to do with the sales tax.

Johnston agreed he had given the two members that assurance, and "there was confusion."

Choice Expected Monday

Monday's voting will fix the Senate's choice between the 2 per cent sales tax, with food, and medicine exemptions and the broadened income tax plan indorsed by yesterday's vote. The House has approved the sales tax, and voted against a similar income tax plan.

One major effect of the Johnston income tax amendment would be to extend the levy to many thousands of District residents who now escape it. These are Federal employes whose official salaries are the income tax if they have a legal domicile in one of the States.

They would be brought into the local income tax coverage here by the erasing of their present exemption. The new plan would generally make all persons who live in the District seven months or more in the year subject to the tax. Elected officials, some presidential appointees and most members of the congressional office staffs would be exempt.

Present income tax exemptions would be kept. They are $1000 for the taxpayer, $1000 for a spouse, $500 for each dependent.

Big Jump in Rates

Rates would be hiked. They are now 1 per cent on the first $5000 of taxable income, ranging up to 3 per cent on taxable income above $20,000. The Johnston amendment would boost them to 2 per cent on the first $2000 of taxable income, ranging up to 5 per cent on taxable income over $10,000.

A companion feature of the sales tax program is a boost for the present basic personal income taxe exemption in the District law from $1000 to $4000, effective after December 31, 1949.

The proposed "high level" income tax would, however, apply generally to persons living here seven month or more in the year, and there would be no special exemption for Federal salaries.

In the warmup to yesterday's voting, political sparks flew from verbal clashes between McGrath on one side, and Senators Morse and William Langer (R., S. Dak.) on the other.

Langer charged that in their support of the District sales tax, Democrats were violating their 1948 platform pledge of opposition to a general Federal sales tax. He said the platform was drawn up to get votes and "now that the votes are secure we get the old theory of the people be dammed."

McGrath Denies Welching

McGrath told Langer the Democratic Party took its position against a general Federal sales tax to leave that field of taxation for the States and communities. "We are in no way violating the letter or the spirit of the platform, and it's less than straightforward to read that implication into what we're trying to do to solve a serious municipal problem in the District," said McGrath.

In a desk-pounding, shouting reply, Langer accused the Democrats of an attempt to deceive the people, and McGrath snapped back that it was evident Langer didn't understand the simple language of the platform.

McGrath tangled with Morse over the latter's suggestion that the sales tax issue be summitted to a District referendum. Morse said the sales tax would be beaten by an overwhelming vote.

Morse Enters Argument

"Demagoguery is sometimes better than logic, I realize," snapped McGrath.

Retorted Morse: "If I could ever equal the Senator from Rhode Island in demagoguery, I would be ashamed of myself."

"The Senator from Oregon will never have occasion to be ashamed," said McGrath "because I am sure he can outshine me in that respect any time he wishes to."

"Certainly I will not take any lessons in that subject from the Senator from Rhode Island, I assure him," Morse replied.

As debate opened yesterday, Senator Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) launched a Bible-quoting denunciation of the sales tax as an "abomination." He concluded: "I'd rather be caught stealing sheep than voting for the sales tax."

D. C. Requests Funds For Sales Tax Setup

District officials yesterday asked the Senate Deficiency Appropriation Subcommittee for $48,000 to get set for administering the proposed 2 per cent District sales tax.

District officials also asked similar appropriation of District funds for these purposes: $26,175 for operation of the District Rent Control Office from April through June; $82,000 to pay increased heating and lighting bills in the schools; $30,550 for renovating the kitchen at the Home for the Aged and Infirm, and authority to spend $110,000 now on hand for converting the Gales school at 1st and G sts. nw. into a Health Department clinic to replace one now at 16 D st. nw.

Leesburg School Hit As 'Fire Trap'

Leesburg, Va., May 13.—The Aldie Elementary School, housing 150 pupils is a fire trap, it was charged today as three members of the Loudoun County School Board revealed they will resign effective July 1.

The firetrap angle was included in the general statement that the resignations were caused by failure of the County School Board Supervisors to grant the $450,000 school appropriation asked for the coming fiscal year. The board last month trimmed $112,500 from the request.

Those resigning are Kariton L. Monroe, Mercer District; Ben L. Middleton, Broad Run District; and Dr. B. A. Brann, Leesburg.

Tydings Names Army Promotion List Probers

By the United Press

A Senate investigation was ordered yesterday in White House handling of an Army promotion list.

Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) of the Armed Services Committee named a special subcommittee to conduct the inquiry after considerable urging by Senators Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) and Raymond E. Balwdin (R., Conn.).

Neither Bridges nor Baldwin would say whom they suspect of delaying at the White House a list of promotions recommended by the Army selection board for President Truman's consideration.

But published reports have said that Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Mr. Truman's Military Aide, has shown "interest" in the list and that "someone" has attempted to add or delete some of the names. Vaughan denies that he had anything to do with it.

The subcommittee is headed by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.). Other members are Senators Virgil Chapman (D., Ky.), Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), and Bridges.

Methodist Conference Assails Legislatures of Two States

Salisbury, Md., May 13 (AP).—Legislatures of two States came in for vigorous criticism today in reports submitted to the Peninsula Conference of the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Thomas C. Mulligan, superintendent of the Dover district said Delaware is "fast becoming a gambler's paradise with its lotteries, racing and numbers racket."

Dr. Hamilton P. Fox, Wilmington district superintendent, said in a second report:

"The liquor and gambling interests throng the legislative halls of Dover and Annapolis with shrewd and unscrupulous lobbyists, well supplied with funds and falsehoods."

Both ministers called for support of good legislators and good legislation. Mulligan urged a crusade for "sobriety and election of public officials morally rather than politically qualified for high office."

Governor Lane told the conference the Methodist and other churches "are the guardians and guarantors of the moral fiber of our people."

"So long as our churches hold open their doors to teach the dignity of man and the supremacy of the individual under the fatherhood of God," the Governor said, "we need have no fear that our Nation will succumb to the insidious paralysis fostered by atheistic despotism."

Nearly 500 delegates from Methodist churches in Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland are here for the meeting.

Ministerial assignments, to be made by Bishop Charles Wesley Flint of Washington, probably will be announced near the close of the meeting late Sunday.

Defense Plea Is Weighed

jurisdiction? District marshals served arrest and search warrants on Mrs. Sadie Stanton, proprietor of Lewis' headquarters at 4310 46th ave., Bladensburg, Md., on March 25. The warrants were issued by U. S. Commissioner F. Archie Meatyerd, jr., in Bethesda.

3. Does the affidavit of Bernice Franklin constitute sufficient grounds for the issuance of the warrant against Lewis and the others? Mrs. Franklin charged a numbers' runner had told her Lewis was his boss, and that she had called Lewis' headquarters to find out what number paid off.

4. Is the wording of the search warrant sufficiently detailed? It authorizes seizure of property designed to be used in violation of the District gambling statutes?

Collins, representing Lewis, charged that jurisdiction of a District marshal could not be enlarged to include Maryland; that the Lewis address on the search and arrest warrant was incorrect; that the Franklin affidavit was never filed with the District Court in Baltimore; that the indictment does not inform the defendants of the charges against them, in violation of the Constitution; that men cannot be charged with a substantive offense necessitating cooperation, such as promoting a lottery, and then charged with a conspiracy to commit that same crime.

Judge Curran said he was "not interested" in the allegedly incorrect Lewis address on the warrant.

Hitz objected to the motion for return of seized evidence on the grounds that the Government did not know to whom the evidence, including numbers slips, belonged. Hitz said there had been "a marked lack of interest" on the part of any of the defendants in claiming the seized property.

The others indicted on gambling charges on whose behalf motions were argued yesterday are John R. Mitchell, 3110 10th st., ne.; Fulton J. Mitchell, 517 10th st. ne.; George P. # TrumanAction Needed to Keep Credit Curbs, Senator Says

Government controls over installment buying and additional bank reserves may be allowed to lapse June 30, Senator Robertson (D., Va.) said yesterday, unless the Administration pushes harder for action.

President Truman and the Federal Reserve board of governors have asked a two-year extension of the authority to regulate consumer credit, known as "Regulation W" and permanent extension and expansion of authority to require certain bank reserves. Under present law, both authorities will expire June 30.

Robertson is chairman of a Senate Banking subcommittee which yesterday concluded public hearings on the requested controls.

Up to Senator Lucas

He told reporters he will not call this group together for a vote unless Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois asks that this be done and assures a chance for full Senate debate.

Even if the Banking subcommittee does vote, there is a question whether it would give a favorable report sending the requested controls on the full Banking Committee.

And Chairman Maybank (D., S. C.) of the full committee group has told reporters he personally believes the wartime controls should be allowed to expire.

At yesterday's hearings by Robertson's committee:

Ralph A. Young, adviser and consultant for the Federal Reserve Board on consumer credit, said the extension of controls is needed primarily as a "standby" authority—that there is no urgent immediate danger of inflation.

Maple T. Hari, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, questioned the Federal Reserve request for controlling reserves of nonmember banks, but supported the other Administration requests.

W. Albert Hess, executive director of the Consumers Bankers Association representing 75 Morris Plan banks, said consumer credit control is "unnecessary, discriminatory, un-American and dangerous."

M. I. Behrens, jr., of New York City, appearing for the Retail Credit Institute, said Government control over consumer buying "simply has not worked."

Francis R. Houlihan of Cambridge, Mass., also a retailer, said the changes in Government regulations over credits had been "too much relief coming too late.'

Myron R. Bone of Fort Wayne, Ind., vice president of the American Industrial Bankers Association, said the Federal Reserve Board did not relax consumer credit controls until "millions of workers in our durable goods industries, and in other factories and stores" had been thrown out of employment.

Rigsbee's Wound Held Suicide-Type

San Francisco, May 13 (AP).—The bullet wound that killed Cmdr. Everett O. Rigsbee, jr., 41, captain of the United States carrier Antietam, was "a typical suicide-type," Coroner John J. Kingston said today after an autopsy.

Police inspectors disclosed that paraffine tests and a fingerprint examination of the gun found by Rigsbee's body indicated the officer fired it himself, holding it with both hands.

A naval board of inquiry which clamped a lid of secrecy on the death yesterday aboard the warship was scheduled to report its conclusions on the cause of death later.

Girl Slaying Probers Still Seek Motive

Male Triangle

Tenor Slain In Jealousy, Prisoner Says

A well-to-do Washington man's abnormal jealousy is the key to the Atlanta mystery murder of opera tenor John Garris, a 19-year-old prisoner in District Jail claimed yesterday.

The youth, Bobbie Rufus Barfield, said he heard the Washington man threaten to kill Garris last Thanksgiving Day, unless Garris desisted from attentions to Barfield.

Lieut. T. J. Sikes of Atlanta, Ga., yesterday questioned Barfield about his story at the jail where the youth is serving the first week of a year's sentence for larceny. Sikes, who was sent here to investigate a letter Barfield sent the Atlanta police chief offering information in the unsolved slaying, refused to talk to reporters.

Tale of Sexual Aberrations

However, Barfield's attorney, Charles R. Cross, also interviewed the prisoner. Cross told a reporter Barfield spun a sordid tale of sexual aberrations and flaming jealousy.

According to Cross, Barfield said:

He knew "Johnny" Garris well. Last Thanksgiving Day they had several drinks, then parked their car somewhere along the Potomac in the Washington area. Garris gave Barfield jewelry, a ring, bracelet and ear rings.

Threatened With Revolver

A Washington man, with whom Barfield had been living, drove up with "four or five tough guys." The local man threatened Garris with a .38-caliber revolver.

Pointing to Barfield, the local man shouted: "If you don't stay away from him I'll kill you." The local man drove away with Garris.

It was five months after this alleged incident on April 21, that the Metropolitan Opera tenor was found slain, a .38-caliber slug in his side, in Atlanta.

Roanoke, Va., May 13 (Special). Police frankly acknowledged today they were baffled in their quest for a motive in the church-slaying of 16-year-old Dana Marie Weaver last Sunday.

The main effort of the investigation will continue to be directed at finding the reason why the pretty high school girl was killed about dark, Detective Lieut. E. A. Griggs said.

Police said she apparently had been slain by a pop bottle but the coroner reported she may have died of suffocation.

The girl's husky schoolmate, Lee Scott, an Eagle Scout and a high school wrestler, was quoted by both his mother and father as saying he did not kill the girl.

He is lodged in Roanoke city jail, pending a hearing in juvenile court.

Detectives meanwhile awaited results of laboratory tests being conducted in Richmond. Officials expressed confidence they have a strong case against the youth, but believed results of the tests would offer new and more substantial evidence.

Dr. Herbert Breyfogle, Virginia's chief medical examiner, told reporters it may be several days before results of the tests will be known.

Roanoke officers turned over to him yesterday flesh scraped from beneath the dead girl's fingernails. They sent along a bundle of darkly-stained clothes, found in Scott's bedroom, and a coffee urn bag with which the Roanoke coroner said the girl may have been suffocated. It was found in an alley, about a block and a half south of Christ Episcopal Church, where the girl's badly beaten body was first noticed by a janitor early Monday morning.

Police denied rumors that Capt. Frank Webb, chief of detectives, would announce a motive for the crime today. They also refuted reports that investigators were proceeding on the theory there was a third party involved in the slaying.

Arrest of Scott followed a tip to police. They said he had admitted seeing Dana Marie, a blonde junior in high school, at the church. He said he was hazy as to what transpired afterwards, police said.

The Associated Press quoted Mrs. Garrett Scott, the boy's mother, as asking him at the jail today:

"Buddy, you didn't do this thing?"

"Mother, of course not," she said he replied.

The United Press quoted his father as saying the boy told him, "I don't know anything about it."

'Bad Boy' Short On Imagination

By Richard L. Coe

THE METROPOLITAN'S "Bad Boy" is a sincere but ineffectual picture about juvenile delinquency.

Imaginative treatment might have made this an engrossing film, for some of the essentials are there, including a realistic setting and a goodish cast. But the story by Robert D. Andrews and Paul Short and the direction by Kurt Neumann rely on trite, implausible situations.

In the title role is Audie Murphy, that slight young man who became the most decorated officer of the war. He has a boyish face, freckles, wavy hair and a pleasant manner. The story pitch is that beneath this pleasing exterior lurks a rotten soul which refuses all proffers of friendship.

Such characters are familiar. The question is "What makes him this way?"

Asking the answer is the Variety Clubs of America, sponsors of the picture and at whose boys' ranch in Texas the film was made. Lloyd Nolan plays Variety's representative and boss of the ranch. He feels there must be something in the boy's background which makes him behave as he does. He persuades a Dallas judge to give the youth into his custody. Out at the ranch, the boy proves as uncooperative as he has in freedom. Belatedly, it seemed to me, Nolan discovers likely reasons for the boy's tortured personality, but it's a narrow squeak between his redemption and total destruction.

Audie Murphy Satisfactory Actor

I've no doubt that this is a story from real life, and in real life just such slow investigation does happen, but the way it's presented by the writers and director, "Bad Boy" is more like a movie than the slice of life it sets out to be. Other pictures in the same vein have been the model for this; had the makers the wisdom their problem demands, they would have found a way to make you believe what was happening rather than be fully conscious all the time that this was a movie.

Murphy heretofore has had supporting parts, but it seems to me he does as well as anyone could with this big one. Nolan is satisfactory, Jane Wyatt plays his wife and James Gleason is on tap. Martha Vickers is totally inept as Audie's half-sister and you'll notice, in the crowd of boys, Dickie Moore, the onetime child star who's grown into a cheerful-looking young man, contrary to the habits of child stars.

But the story is unconvincing, the handling pedestrian. Which is a pity, because the Variety Clubs had a good idea in "Bad Boy."

"BAD BOY," an Allied Artists release produced by Paul Short, directed by Kurt Neumann, screenplay by Robert A. Andrews from a story by Andrews and Short. At the Metropolitan.

Arlington Revises Voting Precincts

A reshuffle of Arlington's voting precincts—including the splitting of Barcroft and Columbia into five units—was ordered yesterday by Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy.

McCarthy's redistricting order goes into effect Monday. It also calls for a change in the existing boundaries between Park Lane and Rosslyn precincts to balance voting strength in each.

The changes were recommended by a three-man committee composed of Attorneys William D. Medley and Oren R. Lewis, and Navy Department employe William G. Watt.

McCarthy's order made no reference to another committee suggestion that 65 voting machines be installed at polling places.

Conference Requested

However the Arlington County Board has requested a conference with the judge and the three committee mmebers to consider the voting machine suggestion. Money for the machines would have to be appropriated by the County Board. The committee said they could be rented for $150 per machine per year.

The court order splits Barcroft and Columbia into five precincts: Barcroft, Arlington Forest, Columbia, Fillmore, and Jefferson.

Barcroft, Doctors Branch, U. S. Route 50, Columbia pke., and Long Branch.

Arlington Forest, its original boundary on the west, Carlyn Springs rd., N. Quincy st., and U. S. Route 50.

Other Boundary Limits

Jefferson Precinct, Lee blvd., Columbia pke., S. Fillmore st., and Doctors branch.

Columbia Precinct, Columbia pke., Shirley hwy., the Army-Navy Country Club, and Glebe rd.; new Fillmore Precinct, Lee blvd., Shirley Hwy., the Army-Navy Country Club grounds, and S. Fillmore st.

Existing boundaries between Park Lane and Rossyln precincts have been reshuffled to give Rosslyn about one-third of the former Park Lane Precinct—largely an industrial area, not heavily populated.

The new addition to Rosslyn Precinct lies between Key blvd., N. Quinn st. and the Potomac. It has only about 160 registered voters, the central registrar's office said.

Doctor's Last Try

'Dead' Man Revived by Breaking Rib

Santa Monica, Calif., May 13 (AP). A man whose doctor says he was "medically dead" for from 12 to 15 minutes grinned for reporters today and said:

Lewis

"I have several life insurance policies. I wonder if I can collect on them."

Reid C. Lewis, 46, an inspector at Douglas Aircraft here, "died" under an anaesthetic a week ago, said his physician, who declined to permit use of his name. But he was revived, the doctor added, by the shock of breaking a rib.

The surgeon said he is both a doctor of medicine and doctor of osteopathy.

Dead by Every Criterion

The doctor gave this explanation:

"By every medical criterion of death, he was dead. These are the medical criteria of death: Cessation of breathing, no audible heart beat, no discernible blood pressure and the loss of superficial and deep reflexes."

The "death" occurred, said the physician, after injection of the usual amount of sodium pentathol, an anesthetic, in preparation for an operation. Immediately, the doctor and his assistant injected coramine directly into the heart and piped oxygen directly into the lungs, but without result. Then the physician recalled that in some cases of drowning, the shock of breaking a bone had revived supposed drowning victims. He snapped a rib with his hands, and Lewis' reflexes resumed.

The physician declared he and his anesthetist "used all the routine methods of resuscitation we knew, without result" until the rib was broken.

Shock Turns Trick

"Apparently this additional shock is what turned the trick," he said. "Of course, I could not recommend fracturing a bone as a shock-inducing method ordinarily. Obviously, such procedure would not have been successful in this case without having employed all the other resusciative measures we could."

Lewis says he has no recollection of a period of six hours after the injection; that he awoke with a sore rib, but wasn't told until yesterday what had happened.

Today he left the hospital for home.

Stripped, Beaten By S. C. Band, Says Negro, 76

Columbia, S. C., May 13 (AP).—A 76-year-old Negro farmer reported last night that about 15 white men dragged him from his home, stripped his clothing from him, and beat him.

Shelton Lorick said unmasked intruders carried him by motor car to a wooded section about 6 miles from his home and pummeled him with their fists Sunday night.

He said he had made no report to police.

Lorick suggested two possible motives for the beating. About 10 years ago, he said, he shot a white man in a dispute over a chicken. During the ride Sunday night, one man accused him of "encouraging white people to come to his home," he said.

When he replied that white persons often came to his farm to buy eggs and chickens, the Negro farmer related, the man answered: "We white folks are going to run this State."

The sheriff said he would investigate.

Wacs to Mark Seventh Birthday

Some 300 members of the Women's Army Corps serving in the Washington area will observe the seventh anniversary of the WAC at a reception at "Hop Hall," Fort Myer, from 3 to 5 p. m. today.

There will be a big birthday cake with seven candles, one for each year of existence of the Women's Army Corps. The WAC, originally created as the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps on May 14, 1942, became a part of the Army of the United States on July 1, 1943, and was established as a permanent part of the Regular Army and Organized Reserve Corps on June 12, 1948. Nearly 140,000 women served with the Corps during World War II, some 18,000 of them in overseas areas.

Duress Charged

Guam Trial 'Confession' Introduced

Guam, May 13 (AP).—The prosecution introduced a statement today purportedly made by Herman P. Dennis, jr., that he raped Ruth Farnsworth three times after she had been beaten unconscious.

The Air Force private on the stand declared he made the admission only after he was threatened with hanging.

The account named Sergt. Robert W. Burns as the man who knocked the 27-year-old San Francisco girl unconscious December 11 in the Guam jade shop where she worked.

Burns and Calvin Dennis, a half-brother of Herman, have been granted separate trials.

The statement said Herman Dennis picked up Miss Farnsworth after she was beaten to the floor and carried her into the jungle behind the shop.

There, the statement continued, Burns also attacked the dying girl. It added that Herman Dennis did not know whether his half-brother also raped the girl.

Witness Says Doctor Feared Wife Pregnant

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 13 (U.P.). From a State's witness the defense today extracted a possible reason for Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, 28, wanting a showdown with Byron C. Hattman, 29, lover of the doctor's beautiful 6-foot wife, Sydney.

The doctor, the witness said, thought his wife was pregnant by her lover.

Detective Maurice O'Neill of the St. Louis Police Department testified that Rutledge, after he was arrested in St. Louis December 17, had told him of his belief that Sydney was pregnant by Hattman.

"Dr. Rutledge said he called Hattman and said he thought he should pay for the operation," O'Neill said.

Rutledge did not specify what amount he asked, or mention the kind of operation planned, he added.

It was brought out that the doctor had been mistaken—Sydney was not pregnant.

The State late today completed its case against Dr. Rutledge.

The St. Louis pediatrician is being tried on a first-degree murder charge as a result of the fatal stabbing of Hattman in a hotel room. Court was adjourned until Monday.

5000 Policemen Go Gunning For Elusive Sicilian Bandit

Palermo, Sicily, May 13 (AP).—About 5000 police went gunning today for Salvatore Giuliano, last of Sicily's big bad men.

The vast manhunt centered around Giuliano's Montelepre Mountain stronghold 6 miles southwest of Palermo.

Orders were to get the Sicilian dead or alive.

The swarthy Giuliano and his men are estimated to have killed about 70 policemen since he took to the hills in 1943 after felling a patrolman who tried to seize his wagonload of black market wheat. He was 20 years old then.

The growth of Robin Hood legends, his designation of the Montelepre area as a "free state" and his barbed communications to the government were other factors behind the hunt.

Police estimate he now has no more than 20 followers. Early in his outlawry, Giuliano engineered the jailbreak of 14 convicted bandits and made them the nucleus of his band. He dressed his men in American Army uniforms, armed them with automatic weapons and regularly fought off or escaped pursuers.

The police are working through the forbidding, rocky country in small groups. Deep gorges chop up the terrain.

A curfew stricter than any imposed in wartime was clamped upon the area. Roadblocks were set up. Shutters were ordered closed on all the houses in Montelepre. All stores except the drugstore were closed. The bakers were arrested on suspicion of aiding the bandits. Residents were forbidden to leave town.

Discharged Court Aide Refuses to Quit

Mrs. Madeleine O. Fennell, director of social work for the Montgomery County Juvenile Court, has been discharged but has refused to leave pending a hearing on the charges, it was revealed yesterday.

The official, appointed to the $3750-a-year post in 1945 was asked to resign by Juvenile Court Judge Alfred D. Noyes on May 4 but she refused. Noyes then gave her until yesterday to leave but Mrs. Fennell said she would return to work on Monday on the advice of her attorney, James H. Pugh of Rockville.

Claiming there is no proof against her of the "serious accusations against my reputation and ability as a public official," Mrs. Fennell says she is entitled to a hearing before the county personnel board.

Noyes contends that Mrs. Fennell, who first joined the county government as chief probation officer for the juvenile court in 1939, is guilty of insubordination, failure to cooperate and inefficiency.

Mrs. Fennell, who lives at 10423 Hayes ave., Silver Spring, yesterday emphatically denied the charges.

When confronted initially with the charges, Mrs. Fennell said, she offered to prove her competence to Judge Noyes "but he wouldn't listen."

He also told her, she said, she was not entitled to a hearing although her job is under civil service. County Attorney David Macdonald said yesterday he had ruled on the question of whether Mrs. Fennell is entitled to a hearing but would not say what his ruling was.

Noyes yesterday refused to comment on the dispute.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

AT THIS moment, those American League vital statistics are pretty astounding. The Yankees, who were supposed to have a hard time of it, are leading the league. The Red Sox, who weren't supposed to be in sixth place, or anywhere in that vicinity, are. The Nats, who took nine straight—victories, not beatings—are in the first division.

The Yankees never had it so good when Joe DiMaggio was in there. His return to their lineup, whenever that happens, is enough to throw a full-sized fright into the rest of the league. There's no gainsaying the Yankee pitching. They have it, in depth, and it has been taking up all the slack created by the passing of what used to be the Yankees' Murderers' Row.

POVICH

The pathetic club has been the Red Sox, who are acting suspiciously like the ne'er-do-wells of last spring when they were similarly hobbled by a bungling start and fell 13 games behind the league lead. Except when Mel Parnell is pitching, Manager Joe McCarthy has no reasonable assurance where his club's next victory is coming from. His kind of pitching would curdle even a mother's love.

McCARTHY has taken the only tack he could to offset the Red Sox's lack of pitching. With Washington's pitching staff, the Red Sox could probably breeze into the pennant, but lacking that sort, McCarthy has attempted to pack his club with even more power, in the costly purchase of Al Zarilla from the Browns.

The tip-off on the Red Sox pitching is pretty blunt. They have Dom DiMaggio hitting .365 and third among the league's batters. The league's two top men at driving in runs are Ted Williams and Vernon Stephens, of McCarthy's club. They're tops also in home runs with eight and seven. But with all that support, the Red Sox pitchers have won only nine of their first 20 games.

Evidence turned up in Florida this spring that the Red Sox would be a better ball club, was a snare and a delusion. Tex Hughson, who was supposed to be on his way to a sparkling comeback, has been getting bumped often. Walt Dropo, the big rookie from Birmingham, who was supposed to solve the first base situation at Boston, went hitless for a whole week, and is now trying to solve the first base problem at Sacramento.

THE YANKEES ought to be happy about the whole situation in the American League, and undoubtedly they are. With the Red Sox pitching weakness glaringly exposed, the Yankees can turn eyes toward the second-place Cleveland Indians, and see nothing frightening, at least at this time. The Indians are in striking distance, but they are in foul shape nevertheless.

Bob Feller isn't right yet, and missed his last turn. Bob Lemon is out for at least 10 days with a pulled back muscle. Gene Bearden lamed his leg against the Nats, and will miss a couple of turns. And even before he pulled up lame, the Nats were whapping him good, and in all modesty saying with ungrammatical forthrightness, "he didn't have nothing."

Cleveland is still experimenting panic-fashion in right field. There's evidence now that they took a beating on the Eddie Robinson-Mickey Vernon trade. Vernon isn't getting some of the ground balls that Robinson used to grab up last year. Larry Doby isn't hitting, and neither is Joe Gordon. They're in second place, but only 2½ games ahead of the floundering Red Sox.

NOBODY is associating the Nats with the pennant except the rank visionaries, but except for the Yankees they do not appear to be in such tough company. The third-place Tigers have been getting by on their pitching and the early-season heroics of Johnny Groth, the rookie who was suddenly cooled off by the ankees and Nats. They shut him out in 14 consecutive times at bat.

The A's pitching, which is supposed to be good, hasn't been. Lou Brissie, Phil Marchildon and Joe Coleman have been getting licked. Even in a period when Sam Chapman again is a hot hitter, the A's aren't doing well. They're barely a half game in the van of the White Sox, who were supposed to be the league's doormat.

It is the White Sox, incidentally, who may have turned up the prize rookie of them all. After the early-season excitement stirred by Johnny Groth subsided, the White Sox stepped into high contention with their own candidate. Muscular, long-limbed Gus Zernial, who plays left field, is Chicago's hot article.

Scarborough Faces Bosox Here Today

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Newly esteemed in their home town, the Nats have a go at the Boston Red Sox today at Griffith Stadium with Ray Scarborough, ill-remembered in Boston last fall, as their pitching choice.

Scarborough will be meeting up with the Red Sox for the first time since October, 1948, when he tossed a high measure of grief at all Boston. That was the day, in the last week of the pennant race, when he held the Red Sox to six hits and beat 'em, 4-1, to help create the pennant-tie eventually lost to Cleveland.

The Nats are returning to Griffith Stadium as a club vastly transformed from the Nats of late April, who sneaked out of town for their first Western trip with a dismal record of three wins in 14 games.

Stobbs Likely Bosox Starter

Today they're back as the surprise club of the league, leading the circuit in home runs, winners of nine out of ten in the West, and resting at least temporarily in the first division.

They owned only three home runs when they embarked on their road trip. They came back with a total of 23, 6 of them by First Baseman Eddie Robinson, who has eliminated all displeasure over the deal that sent Mickey Vernon to Cleveland.

Against the Red Sox in the series opener, the Nats expected to face the left-handed pitching of young Charley Stobbs, the 19-year-old bonus boy who sat on the Boston bench all last season and then came up with a sensational maiden start earlier this week against the Browns at St. Louis.

Robertson May Not Play

Young Stobbs was beaten, 2-1, on a ninth-inning homer by Gerry Priddy, but the Browns' hits for the night totaled only three, and Manager Joe McCarthy now numbers him among his regular starters.

If it is, indeed, Stobbs on the mound, Manager Joe Kuhel will move his right-handed hitting lineup into action, thus denying the fans a new look at Sherry Robertson, hitting hero of the Western trip, who comes back sporting a .357 average, the high figure among the Nats. Al Kozar will play second base.

There was some question early yesterday that Scarborough would be available for today's pitching job. He obtained plane reservations to North Carolina on word that his father-in-law was seriously ill, but canceled them later in the day when there was more encouraging word.

Leo Gets 2-Year Giants' Contract

New York, May 13 (AP).—The New York Giants tonight signed Leo Durocher as manager for two more years. His present contract expires at the end of the 1949 season.. No salary terms were announced.

President Horace Stoneham said the board of directors of the club voted unanimously to extend the contract immediately.

Durocher's 1949 salary was believed to be about $60,000.

Stoneham admitted that Durocher would be paid more than any previous Giant manager, but he refused to be pinned down on an exact figure.

Chisox Drop Tribe to Third

Chicago, May 13 (AP).—Gus Zernial's seventh inning double, his fourth hit in five times at bat, scored Gordon Goldsberry with what proved the winning run in Chicago's 11-10 victory over Cleveland before 36,914 here tonight. The loss dropped Cleveland to third place in the league standing.

Ump Gets Excited, Tags Out Player

Canterbury, Conn., May 13 (AP).—Softballer Joe Depsis was caught in a run-down between first and second base during a game here last night. He was giving four rival players a merry chase when a fifth figure steped into the picture.

Umpire Paul Cote, a former first baseman, snared the ball and tagged Depsis out.

It nearly broke up the ball game but Depsis finally was ruled safe because of the umpire's interference. Cote, red-faced, said he got a "little excited."

Enthusiastic Fans Even Talk Up Pennant at Ceremonies

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

WASHINGTON'S conquerors of the West, Those Wondrous Nats, received a hero's welcome yesterday from 10,000 pennant hungry citizens, who greeted them at Union Station and watched them receive the key to the city at the District Building.

The team had just arrived from Detroit after an astonishingly successful sweep of nine victories in 10 games at Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and the Motor City.

They were still five games out of first place, and at the bottom of the first division. But 5000 fans at the train depot waved banners promising to "See You at The Series."

They tossed streamers in the Nats' faces and slapped them on their backs as, surprised and sleepy-eyed, the players piled into open cars to parade down Pennsylvania ave.

Crowds gathered in clusters on streetcar platforms and Government workers leaned out of buildings along the route, yelling encouragement. And finally, there was the Metropolitan Police Band and 5000 more rooters to greet the procession at the District Building.

WTOP's Sports Director Arch McDonald was master of ceremonies, introducing Senator Millard R. Tydings (D., Md.), District Commissioners John R. Young, Guy Mason and Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, and finally the ballplayers and Nats' President Clark Griffith.

Griff, who previously declined to predict anything better than "a first division finish" for his team, broke down and conceded, "We might possibly win the pennant. We have our eye on it."

Later, speaking before 7000 attentive newspaper carrier boys gathered at the Sylvan Theater, Washington Monument Grounds, the "Old Fox" grinned, and repeated his oft spoken phrase, "This team is a great joy to me."

Interesting to watch was the fans' varied reactions to the individual introduction of players at the District Building.

Home-run-hitting Eddie Robinson got the first big blast of applause. And Al Kozar, Eddie Yost and Buddy Lewis, three handsome eligible Nat bachelors, were received with screams from the bobby soxers, who, strangely, were not in school.

But the loudest and longest cheers were reserved for Sherry Robertson, nephew of Griffith, and the most frequent target of the ballpark wolves. Sherry hit four homers on the road trip and is batting .357.

At 11 a. m., after introductions at the Sylvan, the weary ballplayers were finally excused.

Fusari KOs Foster in 1st

New York, May 13 (AP).—Charlie Fusari, blond Irvington, N. J., welterweight whirlwind, exploded the Vince Foster boom tonight when he stopped the Omaha, Nebr., youngster in 2:26 of the first round at Madison Square Garden after knocking him down three times.

Fusari first floored Foster for a two count.

Another right hand smash to the jaw pitched Foster to the canvas for an 8-count. No sooner had he regained his footing than the enraged Fusari landed another on the unlucky "Golden Boy" he sank down on both knees for 8.

As Foster staggered up and then covered up in confusion near the ropes, Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped it.

Nine-Horse Field, Fast Track Likely

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., May 13.—Wide open is the best description of the seventy-third running of the Preakness Stakes, the race that outdates but hardly outshines the Kentucky Derby. Perhaps it isn't as wide open as a young hippo's mouth at meal time, but there is a variety of opinion as to the outcome of the famous race, first contested in 1873.

In fact, as the sun sets on this old hilltop track tonight, giving the ghosts of Survivor, Tom Ochiltree and Cloverbrook another opportunity to gambol through the stretch at midnight, the race-minded couldn't even agree on the probable favorite.

In nearby Baltimore, where they make the stuff men are said to switch to, the report is that Greentree Stable's Capot will be the public choice by a slight margin. However, most line-makers were holding Capot and Calumet Stable's Ponder, the colt that whipped him in the Derby, at even choices with 2-1 offered.

Regardless of which gets the most play, upward of 35,000 chronic horse players and race-goers for the day are expected to jam this ancient plant for a look-see at the Maryland classic with a 5:15 p. m. post time.

Ten colts were named in the overnight entries and, unless somebody has been kidding, nine of them will be on hand as Starter Eddie Blind sends them away from the top of the stretch. The possible scratch is Christiana Stable's Parliament, advertised as "goes only on a muddy track."

The weather man predicts sunny and cool which would let Parliament out and assure Crispin Oglebay's Noble Impulse, reserved for a fast oval, a chance at the major portion of the $75,000 added (reduced from $100,000) purse.

Post time for the first race will be 2 p.m., 15 minutes earlier than usual. Special booths have been erected for betting on the Preakness and will be open from 11 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Although Baltimore on Preakness eve can't even be mentioned in the same breath as Louisville on Derby eve, interest among horsemen and regular turf fans is high.

One thing, the race has nothing of the parade angle attached to it. There's no Whirlaway, Count Fleet, Assault or Citation to assure the fans a lock bet proposition. There will not be an exhibition as has been the case in many runnings, but every inch a horse race.

Ponder, with sturdy Steve Brooks in the saddle, will be trying to add the second leg to his triple crown—if he wins today he will have only the Belmont Stakes to go.

Rookie Slaps 4 Singles in Succession

New York, May 13 (AP).—The New York Giants celebrated Manager Leo Durocher's new two-year contract tonight by pulverizing the Philadelphia Phillies, 9-1.

Bobby Thomson was the chief merrymaker with two triples and a three-run homer while Johnny Mize also contributed a homer.

Thomson drove in three runs with his fifth home run and a pair of lusty triples while Rookie Bobby Hofman, starting his first major league game, hammered four successive singles.

The Giants unleashed a savage 14-hit attack while Larry Jansen limited the Phils to five hits as the Giants snapped a two-game losing streak and scored their eighth victory in 10 games.

Locke Takes 9-Point Lead in Goodall

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 13 (U.P.).—Down the middle all the way, Bobby Locke fired rounds of 67-68, nine under par, to take a nine-point lead over the field today in the Goodall round-robin invitation golf tournament at Wykagyl Country Club.

Tied for seventh place with a score of only plus one at the end of the first round, Locke blazed over the hilly layout with a five under par 34-33—67 in the morning round to pick up 20 points and then added 15 points in the afternoon with a 34-34—68 which put him nine points in front of Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., last year's winner.

Barron, chipping and putting phenomenally, came from 13th place to second as he had the day's best total, 10 under par. He carved out a 37-31—68 and added a 33-33—66 to pick up 34 points and move into second place with a count of plus 27.

Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., the first day's leader, held his own in the morning round with a 35-37—72 and then shot a 37-34—71 which added 11 points and made his total 25. Sam Snead came fourth with 22 points and Byron Nelson, the old Texas master, was within striking distance with a total of 21 points.

With two rounds to go, Locke and Barron thus set up a similar finish to last year, when the hustling Herman finished in front by a narrow margin. Both appeared well out of it when play started today but two rounds carried them to the top in the intricate Goodall scoring system where a member of a foursome matches his three rivals, taking a point for each stroke he beats each opponent.

Wilson Paces Metro Track; Record Tied

One meet record was tied as Woodrow Wilson took a first-day lead in the Metropolitan Washington high school track and field championships at Wilson Stadium yesterday.

Charlie Hall, Washington-Lee of Arlington athlete, tied the low hurdles record of 16 seconds flat in qualifying for the finals, which take place this afternoon at Wilson.

Wilson scored 9½ points in the two finals yesterday but may have a tough time holding the lead in the nine other final events today at 2:30 p. m.

Other pointmakers in the inconclusive first day of activity were George Washington of Alexandria with 5, Eastern with 3, Anacostia, 2½, and Central, 2.

In the two finals, Wally Prigg of Wilson won the pole vault with a leap of 11 ft. 3½ in. and George Washington's relay team, anchored by the sensational Bobby Jones, took a first.

Bill Bennings . . .

At Pimlico

Dear Folks:

Despite the tendency to switch to Capot in the Preakness, I'm going to take Ponder. The Calumet colt made Capot looks as if he were tied to the inside rail at Churchill Downs. Those who are backing the Greentree hope are doing so because the Preakness is a shorter race. If it were not for the fact that Noble Impulse will be in action I'd lean toward Capot myself. Olympia won't be there, but Noble Impulse will If Capot tries to run with the recent record-breaker, he is going to be tired at the end. So tired, in fact, that I'm going to take Palestinian for the place and leave Capot the show end. About the shorter route, Steve Brooks will be up on Ponder. He must have learned something about the colt in the Derby and he will know what to do about the abbreviated listance. If you're longshot minded, take a flyer on Old Rockport. Maybe he didn't like the Churchill Downs track.

BILL.

PREAKNESS—Fr. Pg. 10

Capot and Ponder 2 to 1 Co-Favorites

in turfdom. Last Saturday Ponder swept past Capot to win the Derby but somehow he has lost caste hereabouts mainly because the Preakness is at three-sixteenths of a mile, a sixteenth shorter than the "Run for the Roses."

It was inside the sixteenth pole in the Churchill Downs stretch that Capot gave way to Ponder's charge, and many believe the Green-tree colt will stick to his running guns tomorrow and Ponder will be troubled by the shorter stretch run.

Three other colts who finished behind Ponder at Louisville will take a second crack at him. Most prominent, and the probable third choice in the betting, is Isidor Bieber's Palestinian who made his first bid for real fame last fall when he won the Endurance Handicap at Bowie.

Something new has been added to Palestinian, Jockey Eddie Arcaro. Eager Eddie, who might have ridden Ponder in the Derby, strung along with Olympia, who quit so badly that the Hooper Stable passed up tomorrow's battle.

Arcaro replaces Jockey Headley Woodhouse, who was criticized in some circles for his ride on the colt in the Derby. Eddie probably will wait longer to move than did Woodhouse, who seemed a bit overanxious. Whether this will get him the main prize remains to be seen.

Clifford Mooers' Old Rockport, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby, will try to make amends for his Derby defeat. He is believed to be better than shown at Louisville and a change in tracks could help, his handlers believe.

Mrs. Ada Rice's Model Cadet, prominent early in the Derby, gets another chance. Like Palestinian and Old Rockport, Model Cadet was a supplementary entry, getting in action after a $2250 payment last month.

Among the new opposition gathered for Ponder, Capot and Co., is Crispin Oglebay's Noble Impulse. This colt has trainer P. J. Jones, of Charlottesville, Va., behind him and couldn't be in better hands.

Noble Impulse was the winner of the Survivor Stakes here this week and turned in a track-record effort of 1:42 for a mile and a sixteenth. He is expected to set the pace and wear out any who attempt to run with him but the catch is he may wear out himself, too.

The three others in the field, plus Parliament if he goes, will be in the "name-your-own-price department."

Jobless Pay Claims Down In May 7 Week

The over-all employment picture for the week ended May 7 showed improvement for the first time in a month, the Bureau of Employment Security announced yesterday.

The bureau reported that continued claims—which cover continuing unemployment among 33 million workers covered by State jobless insurance laws—declined 57,000 to a total of 1,980,000.

But initial claims, representing new unemployed workers making their first request for unemployment insurance, jumped 32,000 over the previous week. New claims were filed by 354,400 workers.

Virginia showed a rise of 7600 initial claims, owing largely to claims by persons who had either exhausted or had no benefit rights in the last benefit year, which ended April 30. In addition, Virginia had a number of new layoffs in the furniture, radio cabinet, textile, chemical, and rubber industries. Partially offsetting these layoffs were a few recalls in the construction, apparel, and mining industries.

Maryland showed a modest decline in initial claims chiefly because of a seasonal demand for food processing workers in certain areas of the State.

Bureau of Employment Security analysts figure the job situation for the first week of May for those workers covered by unemployment insurance to be about the same as early March.

Compared to the same week of 1948, the first week of May this year showed twice as many initial claims, nearly twice as many continued claims.

Rubber Union Head Reported Being Tried

Philadelphia, May 13 (AP).—The Philadelphia Inquirer reported today the president of the CIO's Rubber Workers Union is on trial at "highly secret sessions" of the union's executive board.

Without naming its sources of informatino, the newspaper said International President L. S. Buckmaster is being tried by the other 13 members of the executive board on these counts:

1. That he made "unauthorized" statements to newspapers.

2. That he brought charges against Robert Garber, president of Local 336, whose 1900 members work for the Firestone Rubber Co., Pottstown, Pa.

Buckmaster himself declined to comment on the executive board meetings. G. L. Patterson, general counsel for the union, corroborated the fact that the executive board is in secret session but said there will be no announcement until the meetings are comcluded.

The Inquirer said the meeting grew out of discord between conservative and leftwing elements in the union which represents workers in every major tire company in the United States and Canada.

Garber had been tried by all 14 executive board members, the newspaper said, on charges in connection wit hhandling of union funds. The charges later were dropped, the Inquirer said, adding that Garber since has filed counter-charges against Buckmaster.

Buckmaster, who is considered a member of the conservative element, was reelected president of the union last September by a vote of 810 to 808.

The trial began April 25, the newspaper said. Patterson said there is no indication of when the meetings will be concluded.

The newspaper said the trial is costing the union between $800 and $1000 a day and that to date son e 2000 pages of stenographic notes have been taken.

walkout May 5. The company charged the union officials with "intimidation. coercion and active threats." The union countered with the charge that the company was "trying to provoke" the union by anouncing the discharge during the peace negotiations.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press quoted an authoritative source as saying that the Ford Co. flatly refused to open 1949 contract talks with the Auto Workrs union until the present strike is settled. The union has asked the company to begin contract sessions not later than Monday, which is 60 days prior to expiration of the present pact. The big auto company has been singled out as the UAW's first target in a drive for $100 a month pensions, health and welfare plans, along with a wage boost.

Conferences Fail At Hiram Walker

Peoria, Ill., May 13 (AP).—Last-minute conferences between leaders of an AFL union and the Hiram Walker Distilling Co. today failed to halt a strike called for midnight tonight.

Members of the Distilling Workers International Union plan to strike in an effort to enforce demands for a 15 cents an hour wage increase. The company has offered 10 cents.

New Coal Contract Talks May 25

John L. Lewis yesterday made two minor concessions and agreed to open new contract negotiations with the Southern coal mine operators on May 25 at Bluefield, W. Va.

The United Mine Workers chief had originally suggested the discussions begin on June 6, but the Southern Coal Producers Association had argued that more time was needed if a new contract was to be agreed upon by June 30, when the present agreement expires.

Lewis also retreated somewhat from his original proposal to have 36 mine union officials and 36 operators' representatives participate in the contract talks. Yesterday he agreed to limit the negotiations to eight on each side.

However, John L. stood pat and won acceptance of his idea that the contract sessions be held at Bluefield, instead of Washington, where the coal negotiations are usually held. Some industry officials believe Lewis plans to isolate the more aggressive Southern operators, while working out an agreement with the Northern operators and the "captive" mines owned by the steel mills.

Also, the joint statement of the operators and union failed to disclose whether or not John L. planned to participate in the talks in person.

the Jersey-bound passage, too. It was restored to service at 2 p. m. but the Port Authority said it would be late Saturday before the debris could be cleared from the Manhattan-bound section and an examination made to ascertain whether it was safe for use.

Early this evening there were reports of other blasts.

Two news photographers said they heard a "deafening explosion" in the tunnel, followed by two more explosions moments later.

Workers, however, said they knew of no further bursts. Authorities said they had heard of none.

Officials said there were several small fires still smoldering in the tunnel.

At least 30 were overcome by the fumes from the poison carbon disulphide chemical on the truck. Fourteen persons, including Edmond Tyndal, 36, driver of the big trailer-truck, were taken to hospitals.

Twenty-five trucks caught fire. Among them were vehicles laden with ammonia, clorox and paint.

Tyndal's truck was carrying 80 55-gallon drums of carbon disulphide, a highly inflammable chemical used as a solvent and in making other chemicals.

One drum exploded and set off the others. Irwin R. Cohn of Nutley, N. J., right behind the truck but in the other lane, picked up Tyndal and drove on to the New York exit.

Doctors, nurses, firemen, policemen and emergency crews assembled at both ends of the 8200-ft. tunnel, built in 1927 at a cost of $50,000,000. They used walkie talkie sets to maintain communication.

Two fireboats, the John J. Harvey and the Tender Smoke, patrolled the river above to watch for ominous bubbles that would mean the tunnel was caving in but its sturdy walls held.

One truck from a packing house was pulled out, its load of sides of beef cooked to a crisp.

The Holland Tunnel is the main vehicle link between New York and the West. It was the first time the tunnel had been closed for any extended period since 1946 when a truck loaded with chewing gum and shoe polish burned in the westbound tube.

John McMahon, 25, a port authority guard in the tunnel, said he was 20 feet away when the truck exploded and knocked him down.

"I got to my feet and saw what looked like a flash of lightning. I started toward the truck and was overcome. The next thing I knew I was picked up by a Jersey City fireman. He started to take me out and then he was overcome, too."

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Klutz

Senate Group to Study Plan Fixing U. S. Pay By Local Rate Standards

A proposal that the salaries of most Federal workers be fixed by local wage boards on a par with prevailing private local rates is to receive detailed study by the Senate Postoffice and Civil Service Committee.

The plan was suggested by the Hoover Commission in its report to Congress on Federal personnel practices. It has cropped up repeatedly in this week's hearings on reclassification-pay bills being conducted by the subcommittee headed by Senator Long (D., La.). A spot survey conducted by the Army indicated that classified salaries in the low clerical grades were higher in most cases than salaries paid for similar jobs in private industry.

On the other hand, the same study showed that classified salaries in the crafts, protective and custodial service were below most private rates. After yesterday's session, a subcommittee member dropped a strong hint that he would oppose action on the bills until after a more detailed comparison is made of Federal and private salaries.

James Yaden, president of the AFL's American Federation of Government Employes, denounced the Hoover suggestion. He based his plea for higher classified salaries on the fact that very few Federal workers had received pay boosts to offset substantially higher living costs since 1940.

Yaden also opposed the Hoover lay-off plan. He predicted it wouldn't get rid of 50 employes a year if it's enacted into law. He urged that the clerical-mechanical employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing have their salaries fixed by the Treasury wage board. The National Federation of Federal Employes wants this group continued under the classification act. Yaden suggested more liberal retirement benefits for long service employes who are laid off in reductions of force.

Approval of the Downey bill was asked by Harry M. Leet of CIO's new right-wing Government Workers' Union. The measure would provide an average increase of $880 to classified employes while reshuffling the classification act. "Economy," he said, "doesn't justify substandard and unfair pay." Leet added that the Federal worker was being asked to pay more than his share of the costs for defense, aid to Europe, and care of veterans.

CIO's left-wing United Public Workers went on record for enactment of the Administration's reclassification bill, but Roy Eldean, its vice president, suggested amendments which would raise the average classified salary about $820 annually.

Employe postal leaders generally lined up behind two bills which would: reclassify their salaries to bring about higher entrance salaries, the same annual and sick leave benefits now given to other Federal workers, additional longevity promotions, and $120 flat increase through reclassification, plus $650 flat increase for the 500,000 postal employes.

Among the postal employe spokesmen who indorsed these goals were: Willard L. Manning, president of the Rural Letter Carriers; E. G. Hallbeck of the AFL's National Federation of Postoffice Clerks; William C. Armbrust, president, United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, and William Doherty, president, of the AFL's Letter Carriers.

STORY: He hasn't received a Government paycheck in three months, but Reclamation Commissioner Mike Straus won't starve if Western irrigation farmers can help it.

Comments Mike:

"They used to talk about bureaucrats who never met a payroll. The Government has now met all the payrolls but no payroll has met me for more than three months."

Perez Gets 15-Yr. Term For Murder In Hotel

Sentence May Run To Life for Man Who Killed Tavern Drinking Companion

Crispin B. Perez, 29, was sentenced yesterday to serve 15 years to life imprisonment for the Ambassador Hotel murder of Charles J. Hines, 49, of Madison, Wisc.

Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut of District Court said he was imposing the maximum penalty allowed under the law for second-degree murder, to which Perez had pleaded guilty.

The small-framed defendant stood placidly as sentence was imposed. He was nattily dressed in a blue pin-striped suit.

His attorney, Irvin Goldstein, told the court Perez' downfall was caused by two factors—an unrequited love and a poor head for whisky.

Perez, a part-time GI student in a typewriter-repair school, became enamoured of a "promiscuous" woman, Goldstein said, and was involved in many scrapes as he sought to separate her from her male friends. It was with this purpose that Perez armed himself with a blackjack, bolstered his courage with a bottle of whisky and went out hunting for her in taverns and dives the night of the murder, Goldstein asserted.

Perez met Hines in one of the taverns, the lawyer said, and went to the victim's hotel room. Soon thereafter, Perez blanked out and before the night was over Hines was beaten, strangled and tied over a bed, the court was told.

The defendant has been indicted for first-degree murder but was allowed to plead to the lesser offense after Judge Schweinhaut examined the United States Attorney's file. The judge said there was considerable doubt as to whether Perez had the mental capacity requisite to form a premeditated murder and declined to subject the deceased's family to "embarrassment."

In another sentence, Mrs. Barbara L. Holt, 19, received one to three years in prison for forging a $39.30 check. According to police, the check was among property she stole from department store clerks' pocketbooks under store counters.

Prince A. Shannon, 29, no fixed address, received a two-to-six year prison sentence for stealing $8305 in jewelry from Mrs. Virginia P. Butterworth, 2305 Bancroft pl. nw., in a burglary.

Jury Finds Olczak Guilty Of Involuntary Killing

Stanley Olczak, 35, a railway mail clerk, was convicted yesterday of manslaughter in the fatal beating of Mrs. Dorothy Reed, 45, on March 2.

A District Court jury deliberated less than an hour before returning the verdict to Judge James W. Morris. The jury foreman said that they found the killing to be involuntary.

According to testimony, Olczak shared an apartment at 1300 Vermont ave. nw. with Mrs. Reed and on the night of the crime had been drinking with her and others in a nearby tavern. Olczak said he left early to take another woman home and when he returned to his residence found the door latched and locked. He said that he broke in the door.

Mrs. Reed, he said, was unconscious from drinking. He said he attempted to arouse her and that she hit him with a shoe.

He retaliated by slapping her three or four times, Olczak said.

She died the next morning of a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage, the Government charged.

Pet Dog Gets New Dropsy Treatment

"Tammie," a 13-year-old Scottie, was brought 350 miles to Howard University here yesterday in hope that his life can be saved through a new treatment for dropsy.

Dr. Samuel Corson, assistant professor of physiology at the university's medical school, said the new infusion treatment would be given on Monday after a series of tests.

The dog, graying with age and enfeebled with dropsy, was driven here by Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Lane, of Camp Lejeune, N. C., after they had read an article in The Washington Post describing the new treatment. Designed primarily for humans, the treatment was first tested with success on laboratory dogs.

Dr. Lane, dentist attached to the 2nd Marine Division at Camp Lejeune, said he and his wife raised "Tammie" from a puppy. Two months ago the dog developed dropsy, his abdomen distending from gross accumulation of body fluid.

"Our veterinarian said it was just too bad, that we might as well give Tammie up," said Dr. Lane. "Then we read of Dr. Corson's work."

The new treatment consists of infusing a solution of neutral and alkaline sodium salts into the veins of the animal. In tests on laboratory dogs, where edema (dropsy) was induced, urine output of the ailing animals increased 30 times over within 10 minutes after start of such infusion, Dr. Corson reported.

Tried once on a human patient, the treatment was equally successful. That was one months ago. The dropsy condition has not returned, but it's still too early to make any claims, Dr. Corson said.

Child Saved By Mother Is Improving

An 18-month-old baby, saved from death Thursday by the quick action of her mother who blew her own breath into the child's mouth when the latter appeared to be strangling, yesterday was reported improved at Children's Hospital.

The child, Jeanette Smith, 1800 L st. ne., was still on the "danger list" yesterday with her ailment still undiagnosed despite a number of tests. Hospital authorities said yesterday, however, that she was expected to be removed from the list today.

Assisted by Two Men

The mother, Mrs. Julius Smith, was aided in her resuscitation effort by two employes of the Potomac Electric Power Co., who were off duty and helping a friend with gardening near the Smith home.

The men, Ray McMahon, 33, of 3466 24th st. se., and Dominic Appuglies, 34, of Silver Spring, rushed to Mrs. Smith's aid when they heard her scream and they, too, puffed breath into Jeanette's mouth before driving her to Casualty Hospital. Later the child was transferred to Children's Hospital.

Sets Up Reflexes

Dr. John Gillespie, on the staff of Children's Hospital, explained that the act of breathing into a suffocated person's mouth sets up "a chain of normal reflexes" that leads to resuscitation.

"The air expands the lung. This expansion carries an impulse to the brain," he said. "The brain returns an impulse to contract the lung."

Dr. Gillespie then explained how that expansion and contraction follows, one upon the other, "stimulating normal reflex control."

Body of C. C. Crone Found Afloat In Lake

The body of a man, found floating in Kingmans Lake near the foot of M st. ne., was identified yesterday as Curry C. Crone.

Identification was made by an official of the Continental Baking Co., 2301 Georgia ave. nw., who told police Crone had worked at the bakery but had been out sick since May 1.

Crone's address could not be determined. He was found by Dave Miller of 1921 M st. ne. and Larry Woods of 1030 16th st. ne.

Ditch Cavein Kills 2 Men At Bethesda

Plumbing Foreman And Laborer Buried Under 25 Tons of Earth and Stone

Two men working in an unprotected 12-foot deep ditch near Bethesda, Md., were crushed to death yesterday when 25 tons of earth and rock caved in on them.

Gasch

Killed were John Edward Gasch, 31, a plumbing foreman and father of two children, of 5003 Quincy st., Bladensburg, Md., and John Gillian, 36, a laborer, of 919 12th st. se., said to be married and the father of one child.

More than a score of rescue workers, aided by a mechanical shovel, tried desperately to reach the men buried in the 3-foot wide ditch.

However, it was about two and a half hours before their bodies were freed by members of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase rescue squad, the Bethesda fire department and workmen on the job.

Probably Killed Instantly

Montgomery County police said the men were probably killed instantly. They were pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Frank J. Broschart, deputy medical examiner, who issued certificates of accidental death.

The accident occurred at a home building project near Greentree rd. and Ewing dr., in the Ayrlawn Farms subdivision. The sides of the ditch which collapsed on the two men had not been braced, but such a precaution is not legally required if the work is being done on private property, as it was in this case.

After the tragedy, Ernest C. Hill, 35, operator of the mechanical shovel, of 6360 Allentown rd., Camp Springs, Md., said:

"It was awful. They knew about it only a split second before it happened.

Ordered to Move Shovel

"If Gasch had not ordered me to move the shovel shortly before the accident, I might have been able to stick the scoop in the ditch and block the falling earth."

Gasch was foreman of an eight-man crew laying water and sewer lines for the new homes. He and Gillian were preparing to mould a joint in a new sewer line when a semicircle of earth, about eight feet in depth, crashed down on them.

Gasch's employer, William C. Voight, a plumbing contractor, of 4232 Ingomar st. nw., said it was Gasch's responsibility to see that the sides of the excavation were shored up.

"I leave it up to the foreman on the job whether the sides are shored up," he said. "The materials were on the job."

Hill, the shovel operator, said that usually workers don't like to take the time to take this precaution.

Harry Hall, chief engineer of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, said there is no law requiring plumbing contractors working in the county on private property to shore up the sides of ditches.

Gasch was a member of a well known Bladensburg family and a lifelong resident of the community. His grandfather, Edward Gasch, was one of the founders of the Gasch funeral home in Hyattsville, and his uncle, Andrew Gasch, is mayor of Bladensburg.

He was a graduate of Hyattsville High School and had been a member of the Bladensburg fire department and its volunteer rescue squad for 17 years. He served in the Navy in 1944 and 1945.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Florence Gasch; two children, Gail, 8, and Douglas, 5; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Gasch of Bladensburg; two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Clubb and Mrs. Peggy Saul, both of Riverdale, and a brother, Robert Gasch, of 2913 N. Capitol st.

Truck Hits Auto, Porch; Two Injured

When a driver lost control of his truck last night, it struck an automobile parked in a driveway, knocked it 20 feet, then smashed into a front porch, injuring two of the truck's passengers.

The accident occurred at 36th and Shepherd sts., Mount Rainier, after the driver, Walter Robins, 20, of 3717 22d st. ne., attempted to make a turn into Shepherd st., Mount Rainier, police said.

A passenger, Miss Mary Stevens, 16, of 2575 Rhode Island ave. ne., was thrown from the truck by the impact as it struck the house at 3512 Shepherd st. occupied by George C. Reeves, police said. She was treated at Prince Georges General Hospital for bruises.

Another passenger, Miss Mary Matters, 18, of 3210 17th st. ne., received first aid from the Brentwood Rescue Squad.

Robins, charged with reckless driving, was released under $100 bond for appearance in Hyattsville Police Court Monday.

An Alexandria construction worker escaped with minor scratches when he was hurled from his car by impact of collision with another vehicle last night.

The man, Woodrow Byers, 10 W. Mount Ida. ave., was dirving south on 14th st. nw. shortly after 9 p. m. when his car collided with another operated by Lawrence Young, 147 Galveston pl. sw., who was attempting a left turn.

"I had my arm on the door latch," Byers said, "the jar knocked the door open and I fell out." The driverless car careened off the curbstone on the west side of 14th st., south of E, and came to rest against a streetcar loading platform.

Citizens Group Opposes Shift Of High School to Negroes

Opposition to any consideration by the Board of Education of transfer of Roosevelt High School to the Negro school system was voiced last night by the Brightwood Citizens Association.

The group adopted a resolution at its meeting at Paul Junior High School, 8th and Nicholson sts. nw., requesting the board "not to consider" transfer of the high school "as it is in a completely white neighborhood." The resolution was proposed in support of similar actions by the Crestwood Citizens Association and the North Washington Council.

"Immediate transfer" of Roosevelt and Central High Schools to Divisions 10 to 13 was asked by the Federation of Civic Associations, composed of Negro groups, April 22.

President George R. Hess urged the members to cooperate in a concerted drive during the summer to increase the association's membership to 1000. It now numbers about 350.

A report of the visit of a committee of Washingtonians to the Yardville project in Philadelphia was given by Karl K. Gower, a member of the committee. Gower described in detail the cooperatively planned efforts taken there to beautify and clean up yards in an entire block. He urged citizen support of a similar project contemplated here.

House Unit Delays Stand On Need for Extra Judge

Rep. Harris Asks More Careful Study Of Juvenile Court Before Decision

A House Judiciary subcommittee will carefully study the situation before taking any definite stand on the proposal that juvenile court here have two judges.

"Indications are that matters in the juvenile court should be looked into carefully," Representative Oren Harris (D., Ark.), chairman of the subcommittee, said yesterday.

"Some very serious accusations have been made with reference to procedure. There are very grave doubts in the minds of some people concerning some of the secrecy. Maybe it's justified. Maybe it's not."

The District Bar Association has recommended legislation which would give juvenile court two permanent judges. The Bar Association also has asked immediate appointment of another judge because of the illness of Judge Fay Bentley.

Harris said his committee realizes some relief is needed in juvenile court at once, but that it was felt a hearing on the court's operations should be held.

The subcommittee, he said, would have to decide whether to delay all action on juvenile court legislation until after a hearing or approve in advance the stopgap measures to authorize a temporary second judge to sit in the place of Judge Bentley. The Senate District Committee has already reported favorably on such a bill.

At yesterday's hearing, Miss Virginia Clary, director of social work for juvenile court, spoke briefly and urged approval of the two-judge plan to ease the strain on the court's loaded docket.

At the suggestion of Harris, Miss Clary deferred a detailed explanation of the court's procedures until a future hearing.

Funds Urged For Freedom Train Runs

Archives officials urged Congress yesterday to grant funds for continuing operation of the Freedom Train.

For reply, they received orders from Chairman Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee to trim down their request.

Congress earlier this year authorized later appropriations to be made up to $2,500,000 for running the train through July 5, 1951. Previous tours had been privately financed, and it was operated by the American Heritage Foundation. The House turned down the first request for $1,534,000 in Federal funds to run the train through June 30, 1950.

Wayne Grover, the archivist, and other Archives officials urged that the money be restored to the Second Deficiency Appropriation bill. They did so in a hearing before the Senate Deficiency subcommittee headed by McKellar.

Grover said the Freedom Train is now being held at Wilmington, Del., and the historic documents that were exhibited on it are in the Archives Building.

Senator Guy Cordon (R., Oreg.) said he would have preferred to see the train continue operation with voluntary contributions. He said it would be more effective that way than with Government financing.

Zoning Plan Is Modified In Arlington

Arlington's County Board has "almost completely" eliminated new apartment zoning from a proposed master zoning plan it received last year, two members said yesterday.

The county-wide plan, drawn up at board request by planning consultant Earl O. Mills of St. Louis, is a blueprint to guide Arlington's growth for years to come.

On it, they said, land proposed by Mills for new apartment construction has been virtually eliminated. But no land now zoned for apartment use has been changed, both members said.

The cut in new apartment zoning followed protests from several Arlington groups and many individuals against further spread of multiple housing developments in the county.

Among organizations objecting to increased apartment zoning were the Arlington Better Government League, Arlington Civic Federation and the Home Protective Association. The county board held extensive hearings on the proposed blueprint.

Areas originally slated for apartments in the Mills plan have been reclassified R-26 (two-family residential neighborhood) or one-family residential, Frisbie said.

Ask Anne About Making Meringues

In spite of previous success, I am now unable to make meringues that are not sticky and tough. Has Washington's high humidity any bearing on this?
J. R. K.

Yes, with high humidity meringues absorb moisture from the air and become sticky. Because of this, it is important to be sure the meringues are baked until thoroughly dry. Allow 50 to 60 minutes in a 275 degree F. oven and then turn off the heat to let the meringues remain 15 minutes longer in the oven to completely dry them. If they are not to be served immediately, place them in a completely dry, metal container which has a tight-fitting lid to avoid exposure to the air until used. If they do become a bit moist, heating in a slow oven before using should dry them.

Can you tell me where to get information and recipes for the use of potato and rice flour? I am planning meals for a person allergic to wheat. M. N.

Do any Ask Anne readers have potato and rice flour recipes they would share with M. N.?

Will you send me the recipe for the light, creamy chocolate frosting used on French pastries and on the more costly chocolate cakes?
F. L.

Is this the recipe you want?

Creamy Milk Chocolate Topping

¼ pound of sweet milk chocolate (plain milk chocolate candy bars can be used)
1 egg
1 cup whipping cream
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Melt chocolate over hot water; add egg. Beat until blended. Cool slightly. Whip cream stiff; fold in with vanilla extract. Makes enough to fill and top two 9-inch cake layers or top an 8 by 8 inch loaf cake.

Is there a quick and efficacious method of cleaning sterling silver, which would not require polishing? My method for cleaning all types of gold articles is: one pint water, generous ammonia, small piece of yellow soap (scoring) brought to boil. Immerse articles while boiling for about three minutes. This method of cleaning is foolproof, removes dirt and furnishes high polish. I have many small articles of sterling. Can you help? M. H. E.

Place the silver in an aluminum utensil, add a teaspoon of both salt and soda for each quart of water and bring to a boil. Place the silver in the solution and let remain until tarnish is removed. This method should not be used on articles which would be damaged by immersing in water or silver which has an oxidized or French grey finish. Also, do not leave articles in the solution any longer than is necessary to remove the tarnish.

Would appreciate a pink punch recipe using flavored gelatin powder as a base. Understand pineapple juice and gingerale are also used. If you have it would like to know procedure and amounts to serve 100 persons. If you don't have it, do you have an inexpensive pink punch recipe? H. B. C.

Pink Punch

1 cup sugar
3 cups water
2 packages flavored gelatin powder (strawberry or raspberry)
3 cups pineapple juice
1 quart ginger ale

Make a sugar syrup of sugar and water. Bring to a boil and while hot dissolve the gelatin in it. Add pineapple juice and allow to cool. Just before serving add ginger ale and pour over a block of ice in a punch bowl. If you wish, you can drop marachino cherries or whole fresh strawberries into the punch bowl for garnish.

Another inexpensive fruit punch can be made by using the unsweetened soft drink base which comes in an envelope. You can use either the cherry, raspberry or strawberry flavor of this product. In the above recipe, use two packages of the base instead of the prepared gelatin powder and increase the sugar in the recipe to 2 cups instead of 1 since this product is not sweetened.

Will you advise me where I can get a linen and lace tablecloth mended? I know in some cities, that the sisters and others in certain convents do that sort of mending and if there is such a convent here will you tell me which one? H. L. B.

There are several commercial firms in the city which specialize in fine weaving and mending. To find the names of these firms look under "Weaving and Mending" in the Yellow Pages of the telephone book.

I'm sorry, I do not know of a convent here which does this work. Perhaps some of our readers might have this information and will pass it along to L. B.

How about it, readers, do you have these recipes?

Could you tell me where I can have my husband's hair brushes redone? The brushes have worn down unevenly. C. F. S.

Your best chance of getting this work done is to send the brushes to the factory which made them. I understand that brush factories maintain a repair department for the repair of defective brushes. It should be noted in this connection that having the bristles replaced is often as expensive or more expensive than purchasing a new brush. If you do not have the factory address of the firm which made the brushes, call the office of the men's brush buyer at one of the department stores who will be able to supply you with the information. I suggest you write to the factory to find out if they can do the work and the price before sending the brushes to them.

Tote-A-Tot Is Padder of Tiny Feet

Housewife Hopes Her Invention Will Aid Shopping Mothers

One day when Mrs. William Kenneth Skaer was crossing a Washington street with a tot clinging to each hand, she suddenly thought, "How would I manage if I had another one!"

With the help of one of her daughter's dolls, and an old sheet, she rigged up a kind of back sling which served the purpose but had a number of drawbacks. Bit by bit she improved the rig—eventually working it around to the front where it did the least to interfere with her posture—and before very long she had an invention. Before very long she also had another tot to try it out.

Little Susie Skaer, who is now a 15-month-old 26-lb. bundle, still journeys around happily in the canvas rig which her mother invented and copies of which are now being sold in several local department stores.

Besides, she can be parked on a tree limb, a doorknob or even a coat hook and counted on at least not to wander. Susie doesn't have much to say about the arrangement. But Mrs. Skaer regards her good-natured silence as a tribute in itself. She finds that she keeps happy in the "Tote-a-Tot" for hours at a time.

The canvas rig, which is essentially a jump seat with a strap to go over mama's shoulder, is completely collapsible for storing. The strap is adjustable for length, and is hooked into place so that it can be put on without disturbing mama's hairdo.

It can be used as long as mama can carry baby—a period of time which is conditioned partly by using the sling seat often.

While a heavy back pack makes its wearer bend forward to maintain balance, a front pack encourages the wearer to lean back. Tiny Mrs. Skaer finds that "Tote-a-Tot" permits her to square her shoulders and breathe freely. With both hands free, she can do her shopping and take Susie along for a ride. The price of the sling is equal to one day's baby sitting wages, according to Mrs. Skaer.

Mrs. Skaer who lives at 3217 Coquelin Terrace, Chevy Chase, Md., has been involved in a previous labor-saving device she credits to her air force colonel husband. They once worked out a bottle holder which saved hours of Mrs. Skaer's baby-tending time. She didn't proceed commercially on that one because she found one already on the market which was even better. But she considers her "Tote-a-Tot" better than other similar devices on the market, and has a patent pending on it.

Congressional Club Told U. S. Acts Affect World

By Sonia Stein

THE United States is in the position of a fat boy in a canoe, according to Dean Rusk, Assistant Secretary of State. "Everything we do effects the rest of the world," he told the members of the Congressional Club yesterday afternoon in a panel discussion which included talks by Wiliam McChesney Martin, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Charles B. Stauffacher, Assistant Director of the Bureau of the Budget, and Charles Hulten, Assistant Deputy Secretary of State.

Pointing out that we are a country of great but limited resources, Mr. Rusk said that most countries have accepted the principle of contributing on a basis of ability and taking on basis of need, which he said he hesitates to call socialistic. "We must do things which are within our capacity and which will stimulate self-help in other countries," he said.

Other countries regard the strength of the United States as their protection, the speaker said, and added, "They are not afraid of our strength although they may be afraid of our . . . inexperience in handling it."

Mr. Martin discussed the procedure by which the Treasury Department and other agencies of the Government concerned with domestic and foreign financial affairs coordinate activities so that there is no overlap.

"I am anxious to see the ownership of the national debt get into the hands of the people," he remarked in reference to purchase of Government bonds, "because it makes people more interested in having their Treasury Department properly run."

The amount of Government funds allotted to international affairs has been multiplied 316 times since 1939, Mr. Stauffacher reported. In 1939, 15 cents for each individual was spent in the international field. In the 1950 budget, it will be $46 per person.

Another large increase is used for military requirements, he said.

MR. STAUFFACHER also discussed the growing realization that "each of the major Government agencies has a role in the formulation and execution of international policy" even though the "State Department is the 'lead dog' which plans operations."

The interdepartmental study which the agencies make before a new phase of international work is presented to Congress, acts as a trial run and leads to smooth operation, Mr. Stauffacher said, citing the ECA as a good example.

Emphasizing how big our international operation has become, Mr. Hulten pointed out that there are a few thousand more people working for the United States Government abroad, than there are in the District of Columbia. Of the 200,000 Federal employes in Washington, only a few thousand are connected with the State Department. However, even that few thousand is a substantial increase over the 900 employed by that department in 1939, he said, and reflects the change in our international relations operation. We are now represented at 300 major conferences a year in addition to the U. N., and conduct public relations programs like the "Voice of America." In 1939, our relationships were almost entirely with individual governments, he explained.

In reply to questions, Mr. Stauffacher admitted that in evaluating the jump from $70 per person in the 1939 budget to $290 per person in the 1950 budget, the increased cost of living should be considered. "The Government budget is affected as much by rising prices as any household budget," he acknowledged.

In reference to a question on the training of persons sent overseas, Mr. Hulten explained that the need for personnel outran the supply of trained people but that the State Department has a good Foreign Service Institute which trains personnel, has 600 persons engaged in communicating with the Department employees abroad, and has a re-Americanization program to bring employees home periodically for refresher work.

Mrs. Sheridan Downey, club vice president, presided. Mrs. Millard Tydings introduced the speakers. The program was followed by a tea.

Adventists to Pray For Peace Today

Prayers for God's guidance in the affairs of men, for the strengthening of the Christian church, and for the peace of the world will be offered in Greater Washington Seventh-day Adventist churches today.

Adventist churches throughout the world will join in the general call to prayer, which was issued by world headquarters of the denomination at Takoma Park, Md.

Elder J. L. McElhany of Takoma Park, president of the world organization, issued the proclamation message, in which he said:

"The church is of itself utterly unable to measure up to the opportunities and the problems facing it. Political unrest, the rise of worldly and pagan philosophies, both social and political, hamper the work of God. At the same time, reports from every land indicate that thousands are longing to learn more about Christianity."

He said that the last general appeal for prayer was in 1943, when special intercession was made on behalf of interned missionaries. Since then, Elder McElhany said, a thousand new missionaries have been sent overseas and 100,000 persons added to the church.

Downtown Council Lists 33 Churches

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

How can the church best meet the needs of those who live in the crowded downtown area?

Thirty-three churches in that area are attempting to answer this question effectively through cooperative work.

They have organized into a Downtown Church Council for Community Service to coordinate their work and avoid duplication and useless effort. Thus, if one church presents movies on Saturday, the rest plan other activities so that there will be no competition.

Organized in 1947, the group now includes 33 Negro and white churches in the area bounded by N. Capitol st., Florida ave., U st., 14th st. and the south side of the Mall.

Dr. John W. Rustin, minister of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw., is council president. Meetings of the group are attended by the pastors and one social worker or volunteer worker from each church.

The council has a nine-member planning committee which studies programs and suggests additional work. The Rev. Donald Bautz, Lutheran Inner Mission Society, is downtown committee chairman.

The "round-the-clock" activities of two downtown churches help illustrate the efforts being made to meet the recreation, social and health needs of the residents, especially children.

Shiloh Baptist Church, 1500 9th st. nw., is in an area where there are many substandard dwellings and where there are few recreational facilities, according to the pastor, the Rev. Earl Harrison. After school there are meeting of a boys' club, and Boy and Girl Scout troops and on Sunday afternoons there is a full program of recreation for everyone, from toddlers to young adults, whether church members or not.

One of the most popular events in Shiloh's weekly program is a Saturday "Happy Hour," an afternoon of movies and comics interspersed with brief talks on courtesy, honesty, fair play and good health habits.

During the summer the church will sponsor afternoon programs of games and other activities, following the regular morning vacation Bible school. Because of limited space, the children must go to Cook School Playground, P st. between N. Capitol and 1st sts. nw., to play baseball or other group games. Mr Harrison has one full-time assistant for his work with the children and four student volunteers from Howard University.

"One of the church's most serious problems," he said, "is the lack of volunteer workers." As a result, he said, the recreational programs at Shiloh do not have the "constancy" they should.

Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church runs a full schedule of events in its community activities building for children and adults in the neighborhood. From 3:30 to 9:30 p.m. each week day there is a program of craft work, sewing and cooking classes, boxing, wrestling and other games. On Friday nights high school boys and girls meet for a discussion and follow the session with square dancing.

For girls there is a "charm school" at which they learn the elements of good grooming, how to serve a meal, and interior decorating. There is also a program for mothers which teaches meal planning, child care, sewing and health.

On Saturday the church has afternoon movies for the children, and sponsors a weekly swimming party. In addition to sending children to its own summer camp at Hull Springs, Va., the church will take children to day camps sponsored by the District Recreational Department this summer.

Mount Vernon Place has two full-time workers, Mrs. J. D. Ford, director of the social welfare department, and a director of club activities, and a staff of 40 volunteers recruited from the church and trained for the work.

'Thank' Rites Set Saturday At Cathedral

A "United Thank Offering" will be presented by the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington at 4 p. m. Sunday at the Washington Cathedral.

The Very Rev. John W. Suter, dean of the cathedral, will officiate at the service. He has written a special service and prayer for the occasion.

Sunday's thank offering presentation is the last of five which have been made during the last three years, but the first to which the public has been invited. The money is the total accumulation of gifts placed in each church's United Thank Offering box, through which the women contribute to the missionary, educational and service projects of the church.

It is part of a Nation-wide program. The total United Thank Offering will be presented at a corporate communion of the women of the church at their triennial meeting during the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in San Francisco next fall. At the last triennial meeting the offering totalled $1,635,126, of which over $30,000 was given by the Washington Diocese.

Lutherans To Observe Action Sunday

Lutheran Churches in Greater Washington will observe Lutheran World Action Sunday and Resettlement Sunday at services tomorrow, it has been announced.

The Rev. Donald Bautz, executive director of the Lutheran Inner Mission Society and chairman of the Lutheran Resettlement Committee, said the dual observance was scheduled because resettlement of displaced persons is the largest single project supported by the current Lutheran World Action appeal for four million dollars.

Pastors have been asked to devote their sermons to the resettlement program and church members will be urged to help find job and housing assurances and prepare to receive displaced persons into the church.

Of the total amount being sought this year for church relief and reconstruction in Europe and Asia, $1,135,000 has been allocated for service to displaced persons and refugees. D.P.'s are being resettled in the United States, Canada, South America and Australia, Pastor Bautz said.

A minimum of 15,000 job and housing assurances will be needed to resettle an estimated 35,000 to 40,000 DP's in this country during the coming months, he said, adding that this number will be doubled if the present Displaced Persons Act is liberalized by Congress.

Headquarters of the United States Lutheran Resettlement Service in New York has received seven thousand job and housing assurances for 17,000 displaced persons, he said. Up to May 1, more than one thousand DP's and more than one hundred orphaned children have been brought from Europe for resettlement in the United States by Lutherans.

In the Washington area, 51 assurances of jobs and housing for 112 persons have been received. To date, 22 displaced persons have arrived here, Pastor Bautz said.

Dr. Carl R. Simon, pastor of Keller Memorial Lutheran Church, 907 Maryland ave. ne., and president of the board of directors of the Lutheran Inner Mission Society, has announced that he will give a special sermon on the resettlement program at 11 a. m. Sunday.

It is the custom of children in Jewish schools to celebrate the festival by declaring a field day. Children of the Hebrew Academy of Washington will hold their annual Lag b'Omer picnic in Rock Creek Park on Tuesday.

28 Churches In Arlington to Honor Council

Twenty-eight Arlington, Va., churches will observe Sunday as "Arlington Council of Churches Sunday" at morning services.

Organized last year, the council held its first general meeting in the fall. It supports and cooperates with the Washington Federation of Churches and the Virginia Council of Churches.

At the present time, the council has four departments.

The Council of Religious Education, which has been functioning for 20 years, sponsors a released-time program of nonsectarian Bible teaching for children in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in cooperation with the county schools.

The Arlington Council of Churchwomen, which coordinates the work of women's church groups, directs the annual World Day of Prayer, May Fellowship Day, and World Community Day services.

A 12-member Interracial Commission, originally organized by the Arlington Ministerial Union, is working on improving the understanding of racial problems of the community. It sponsors an annual interracial service.

The Church of the Air, which has 43 member churches, is a clearing house for religious broadcasts. It supervises and schedules two 15-minute daily devotional programs and Sunday morning broadcasts from member churches.

St. Sophia Plans Bazaar

St. Sophia Greek Orthodox Church will hold its fifth annual bazaar at the Uline Arena, 3d and M sts. ne., Sunday from 5 p. m. to midnight. Funds raised will be used for construction of a new church at 3563 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Old Presbyterian Church to Reopen

Alexandria's old Presbyterian Meeting House, built in 1774 but closed since 1886, will open again next month with a new congregation.

The Potomac Presbytery has granted permission for the formation of a new congregation, and 100 or more charter members will meet at the old church Sunday at 3 p. m. to hear a progress report on rehabilitation work. Dr. George Dowling, temporary chairman of the new group, also invited all persons interested in joining to attend.

Located at 321 S. Fairfax st., the church is on all the lists of historic places for tourists to see in Alexandria. Washington's funeral sermon was delivered there. The Tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary Soldier is in the churchyard.

Since 1886, however, when differences among the congregation engendered by the Civil War forced its closing, it has had no permanent tenants. It has been used from time to time for patriotic events or by temporarily homeless religious groups. But the grass grew long in the churchyard and the Georgian brick building became shabby from lack of care.

Now, charter members of the new congregation have turned out to mow the lawn and scrub down the old pews. The property will be deeded to them by the Second Presbyterian Church, which owns the property and sponsored the movement for the new congregation there.

In its early days the old church was composed of dissenters from the Established Church, and it was called the "Meeting House" to distinguish it from Christ (Episcopal) Church, which was finished the same year.

Washington's funeral sermon was preached there because the weather was bad that day and "the walking was bad" to Christ Church. Buried in the churchyard are James Craik, chief surgeon of the Continental Army; John Carlyle, one of Alexandria's founders, and many others important in the early life of Alexandria.

Also in the churchyard is the Tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary Soldier, whose grave was discovered some years ago during excavation for another church and was then made famous by act of Congress.

The church survived a fire in 1935, which destroyed much of the interior. It was already more than a century old when it closed in 1886.

From 13 States

200 Honor Bishop Dun At Dinner

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, was honored last night by about 200 delegates of the National Cathedral Association at a dinner at the Chevy Chase Club.

The delegates, from 13 States, heard Senator Raymond E. Baldwin (R., Conn.) urge all church members to see that "the pinnacle of fortune and power which America has reached be used not for self-aggrandizement but for further service and sacrifice for the good of others."

He said he feels that the public fails to recognize the need for "spiritual motivation."

Marquis Childs, columnist for The Washington Post and other newspapers, told the diners that "we can no longer take for granted the great heritage that has come to us in such areas as freedom of protest and freedom of inquiry."

Childs said there is a tendency in certain intellectual circles to use the "dangerous technique of guilt by association" in idealogical relationships among men. He warned that such a situation "may eventually encroach upon that religous freedom which is so much a part of our tradition."

Bishop Dun, the honor guest, called upon the delegates to make the Washington Cathedral, when completed, a "living and visible structure" symbolic of the ultimate faith and trust in God.

Earlier in the day, the three-day meeting of the National Cathedral Association opened with committee meetings and a tea for delegates in the College of Preachers at the Washington Cathedral.

Airlines Look For Holy Year Travel Boom

Rome, May 12 (Delayed) (N.Y.H.T.).—Airlines expect to carry from the United States to Rome during the 1949-1950 Holy Year five times as many visitors as have traveled to Italy by ship from all parts of the world in any other Holy Year.

Ralph S. Damon, president of Trans-World Airlines, disclosed this today at Rome and said his company is purchasing additional planes, in a belief that air travel to Rome for the occasion will be comparable only to the Berlin airlift in scale of operation.

TWA alone may be able to bring 230,000 persons to Rome from the United States for the Holy Year, Damon said. Msgr. Sergio Pignedoli, secretary of the Vatican's Holy Year committee, said that in the 1925 Holy Year, the most successful thus far, not more than 60,000 persons came to Rome from overseas.

Damon based his expectations on information obtained from the Roman Catholic Archbishops of Boston, Los Angeles and San Francisco. He said there is a "terrific interest" among Americans of Italian extraction, Roman Catholics of Irish and other ancestry and non-Catholics who feel the Vatican is a barrier to communism.

TWA may double or even triple its operations between the United States and Rome during the Holy Year, Damon said. He said a one-third reduction in fares "probably" will be available during the 1949, 1950 and 1951 winter seasons. The Holy Year begins next Christmas.

Soldier Gets 10 Years For Attempt At Rape

Annapolis, Md., May 13 (AP).—Pvt. Clyde M. Kerstetter, identified as a young soldier from Fort Meade, Md., was sentenced to 10 years today on a charge of assault with intent to rape.

Kerstetter was convicted after a 24-year-old mother testified he attacked her in a car at dusk last March 26.

Seattle Skeleton Is Believed That Of Annapolis Man

Seattle, Wash., May 13 (AP).—Authorities are working on the theory that a headless skeleton found near here is the body of James Bassett of Annapolis, Md., who disappeared more than 20 years ago.

The skeleton was found in a remote area 20 miles east of Seattle.

Mrs. Mary Eleanor Smith, who is serving a life sentence for Basset's murder, confessed that her son, Earl Decastro Mayer, removed Bassett's head after killing him with a hammer in a house north of Seattle in 1928.

Mayer committed suicide in the King County jail while he and his mother were standing trial on the murder charge.

New War Gas Makes Change In Heredity

New York, May 13 (AP).—The new poison war gas, nitrogen mustard, makes heredity changes that put it in the class of atom bombs.

The official British science journal Nature, which reached here today, says the gas was given to wild mice in Edinburgh, Scotland. The result was one new strain.

This new mouse differed by having ears that folded during infancy, no hair on the tail or behind ears, small kinks at the tip of the tail, and a sort of crew-cut effect of hair on the back. They point toward the middle of the back.

The important fact is that this heriditary change occurred in mammals, because it is scientific history that what occurs in other mammals also can occur in human beings.

This new strain of mice breeds true; that is, the folds, kinks and hair tricks are inherited.

Nitrogen mustard is a liquid that spreads in the form of a fine mist. The nitrogen liquid was injected into the animals. Some died, but those that lived were temporarily sterile, much like human beings made temporarily sterile by the rays of an atomic bomb.

Nitrogen mustard is used to treat the blood disease, leukemia, which is multiplication of white blood cells.

'Double Jeopardy' Bill Veto Stirs Protest To Lane

Baltimore, May 13 (AP).—Maryland liquor dealers today criticized Governor Lane's veto of a bill aimed to end what they call their "double jeopardy" before both law courts and liquor boards for sales to minors.

Their views were expressed in a letter to the Governor signed by John A. Menton, director of the Liquor Industry Advisory Board.

The law provides that a liquor board may retry a case of alleged violation, regardless of the previous findings of a court.

The vetoed bill would have limited liquor board jurisdiction in court cases to those in which the defendant had been found guilty. Not-guilty verdicts or no-verdict rulings would have barred further action by liquor boards.

When the Governor vetoed the bill, he declared liquor boards are the proper bodies to exercise jurisdiction over liquor offenses.

Kernodle To Resign

Dr. Jefferson D. Kernodle, pathologist at Alexandria since January, 1947, will resign his post, June 21, the hospital announced yesterday. His replacement has not been announced.

Commoner, King's Nephew To Wed Soon

London, May 13 (U.P.).—Marion Stein, 22, a dark-haired Austrian pianist, said today she will be married "sometime this year" to the Earl of Harewood, 26, nephew of King George and eleventh in succession to the throne.

"I have known Lord Harewood for nearly a year. I hope we will be able to announce our engagement officially very soon. We are very happy and we will definitely be married sometime this year," Miss Stein said.

An official announcement giving the King's consent to the marriage of his nephew to a commoner is expected shortly from Harewood House.

Harewood's mother, the princess royal, is Queen Mother Mary's only daughter. Her son succeeded to the tile on his father's death in 1947. The princess royal refused to comment on the romance, saying "I don't answer questions of that sort."

A friend said the couple met last spring and have been seeing each other "quite frequently" ever since.

Miss Stein went with Lord Harewood yesterday to hear "Das Rhinegold" at the Covent Garden Opera House. Friends said they sat close together and held hands. Harewod recently became opera critic for the left-wing British weekly New Stateman and Nation.

Harewood, tall, blonde and ruddy-cheeked, was understood to have presented Miss Stein to Queen Mary at Marlborough House last week to ask her formal consent to their marriage. The 82-year-old queen mother reportedly gave her approval.

Black Is Named Virginia U. Rector

Fredericksburg, Va., May 13 (AP).—Barron Black, Norfolk attorney, today was named rector of the University of Virginia to succeed Edward R. Stettinius.

His election came at a meeting of the university's Board of Visitors at Mary Washington College, a division of the university.

Stettinius, former Secretary of State, became rector August 9 1946. Stettinius resigned as rector and his membership on the Board of Visitors March 16, this year, because of ill health.

45 Stricken After Saipan Eel Feast

Guam, May 13 (AP).—Forty-five Filipinos on Saipan Island have been stricken dangerously ill from eating a huge eel.

Forty have been flown to Army and Navy hospitals here.

Seven are near death. Twenty are unconscious.

The 5-foot eel was speared Sunday at Saipan. The Filipino laborers, who consider eels a delicacy, staged a huge feast. Fifty-seven of them ate the meat.

Soon, some had convulsions. Others' lungs filled with a fluid similar to that of pneumonia, doctors said. The Filipinos seemed to be suffering from nerve poisoning that takes varying times to reach the nerve centers. Once it gets there it hangs on, one doctor said.

"The poison effect is like that bizarre stuff we read the Germans were ready to use in the war," another said.

The present theory is that the eel was poisoned by eating a minute shellfish. No mention was made of possible atomic poisoning from the Bikini tests.

The eel was 6 inches thick. It was speared about noon Sunday, placed on ice and cooked and eaten about 6:30 p. m.

The feasters noticed a gritty sensation in their throats. Within half an hour some started vomiting and many felt numbness and a tingling in their fingers.

Remnants of the eel were given to two dogs to test the poison effects. Both dogs died within half an hour.

An officer said available literature here told of only one parallel case. A crew of a naval vessel in the Marianas became similarly ill after eating a barracuda in 1944.

The officer said three persons in California became ill of eating shellfish about a year and a half ago. Two, a grandmother and her daughter, died.

Anti-Semitism 'Rampant', Md. U. Student Leader Says

Louis Eisenhauer, retiring student president at Maryland University, yesterday cited three instances which he said formed the basis for his charge that anti-Semitism is "rampant" on the College Park campus.

Eisenhauer

The Baltimore junior, who is about to end his term as president of the Student Government Association, termed the university "a school of little men surrounded by big buildings" in a speech before the group's spring meeting Thursday night.

Eisenhauer said after his installation as student president last fall he received a number of complaints that he had named "too many Jews" to student committees. He said he had received other reports that the appointments had caused concern among the student body.

'Lots of Other Signs'

Other indications of anti-Semitism, he charged, were the facts that the inter-fraternity council this year rejected, by secret ballot, the membership applications of the school's two all-Jewish fraternities and that only one Jewish candidate was successful in recent student elections.

"There are lots of other signs," he added, "but it's the sort of thing you can smell but can't see."

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, who was present at the meeting, said he had been warned before the program that there was to be "some subversive activity."

"If what Lou Eisenhauer said was subversive, I hope the students carry on a lot of subversive activity in the future," he commented.

However, Dr. Byrd said later that if this sort of feeling existed on the campus, it seemed strange that Jewish students would be elected to fraternities and honor societies. He declined to comment further.

Election Claim Denied

In response to Eisenhauer's statement about the failure of Jewish candidates in the recent student elections, a spokesman for the university said yesterday that the Jewish candidates received votes "far out of proportion" to the number of Jews in the student body.

The spokesman, who asked that his name be withheld, said in the election for vice president of the Student Government Association a Jewish candidate was defeated by only 326 votes, although more than 3000 were cast. There are approximately 1100 Jewish students in the school's undergraduate enrollment of 8700.

In the only student election which saw a Jewish candidate elected, the spokesman added, he won over another Jewish student after the two nominees had eliminated a third aspirant in a primary.

H. S. Kingman Heads Savings Bank Group

By S. Oliver Goodman

Henry S. Kingman yesterday was elected president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks at the group's annual conference here.

Kingman

Kingman, president of the Farmers & Mechanics Savings Bank of Minneapolis, is also active in the American Bankers Association, at one time serving as president of its savings division.

Other officers elected were: A. Livingston Kelley, Providence, R. I., vice president; Randolph H. Brownell, New York, treasurer, and John W. Sandstedt, New York, executive secretary.

In one of the highlight talks yesterday a broker advised the 000 bankers attending the conference that "the man in the street . . . is the new capitalist." George J. Leness of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane said that security salesmen can no longer regard the rich as the main customers for their wares.

"Such success as my own firm has had in the field of business," he added, "has been due to the appreciation of the fact that large fortunes are gradually being taxed out of existence in this country, that wealth has been and probably will continue to be redistributed for some time to come."

Earl B. Schwulst, executive vice president of the Bowery Savings Bank, New York, criticized plans of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to drop the words "and loan" from the title of Federal Savings and Loan Associations. Schwulst contended that that "might lead the public to believe those institutions were institutions of deposit which, under the law, they are not.

The conference will conclude today with addresses by Raymond M. Foley, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency; Frederick H. Allen, community planning expert, and L. Douglas Meredith, executive vice president of the National Life Insurance Co.

Net for the first three months this year totaled $1,374,214 or 43 cents a common share, compared with $1,174,074 or 36 cents a share in the same period last year.

STORE SALES UP: Washington department store sales in the week ended May 7 surged 16 per cent ahead of the same 1948 period, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond noted yesterday. Shopping was stimulated by warm, clear weather and extensive promotion. For the four weeks ended May 7, local sales were reported 2 per cent higher than in the like period last year. Regionally, stores in the Fifth Reserve District showed an average sales gain of 8 per cent for the week and 1 per cent for the four-week period.

U. S. Opposes, Reds Defend Censorship

New York, May 13 (AP).—The United States fought against peacetime press censorship and Russia defended it in the United Nations Assembly today.

United States Delegate Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, battled to limit censorship strictly to matters of national defense, except in time of war.

Andrei A. Gromyko, of the Soviet Union, stated the opposite view in debate on a proposed first world convention on the international transmission of news and the right of correction.

Gromyko acknowledged frankly that Russia censors outgoing dispatches by foreign correspondents and indicated there is no intention of lifting the censorship.

He said she has to do it to combat "the slander which some correspondents stationed in the Soviet Union endeavor to supply by order of their employers."

Russia's rejection means that when the convention comes into effect it will not apply to her territory or others failing to accede.

Signing by six countries needed to bring the treaty into effect is not expected until some time next year at the earliest.

Russian Church Drops Bishop for Winter Baptism

Moscow, May 13 (U.P.).—The Holy Synod of the Russian Orthodox Church has dismissed Bishop Boris of Saratov as the result of a mid-winter mass baptism in the icy Volga River, it was made known today.

The synod condemned "the violation of common decency expressed in mass ablutions and bathing, which in no way represented the church's ritual . . . and caused newspapers to level unjustified charges at the church."

The newspaper Pravda said men, women and children were plunged into the Volga when the temperature was 14 degrees above zero.

Pravda said priests urged those who were to b ebaptized to strip and enter the water naked.

"Lovers of pornography appeared on the Volga bank," Pravda said. "Photographers bristled with cameras, shooting the more exciting moments of the ablutions and later selling the pictures for three rubles (60 cents) apiece."

Left-Wingers Hit At Conviction of 6 In N. J. Slaying

Trenton, N. J., May 13 (AP).—The conviction of six Negroes, now under death sentence, was attacked today as a "vicious frameup" by the, left-wing Civil Rights Congress.

On the eve of an appeal of the case before New Jersey's highest court, the congress issued a statement branding the conviction "an attempted lynching—Northern style."

The State Supreme Court is to hear argument on the appeal Monday.

Hurling charges of racial persecution at police officials, the congress termed the trial a "Northern Scottsboro case."

The congress is listed as subversive by the United States Department of Justice.

Argentina Takes Over Largest Navigation Firm

Buenos Aires, Argentina, May 13 (U.P.).—The government today took over ownership of the Dodero Navigation Co., South America's largest steamship line.

President Juan D. Peron praised Millionaire Alberto Dodero for cooperating.

Dodero's entire fleet of 382 ships, from tugs to liners, with a value of about 25 million dollars' was sold to the government.

Dodero said circumstances forced him to sell.

"I accepted the government offer, knowing then, as I do now, that we sold control of the company for an extremely low price," he said.

3 Held for Trying To Steal Loot Of Store Thief

Three youths were charged in Municipal Court yesterday with attempting to rob a man of cigaretts and money he allegedly stole from a grocery store.

The victim, according to police, is Harold Smith, 18, of 1242 Duncan st. ne. He is held under $1000 bond for grand jury action on a charge of stealing $170 in cash and a number of cartons of cigaretts from a grocery store.

As he was walking from the scene of the store theft, police related in court, three youths attempted to steal the lifted goods in an alley in the 1200 block D st. ne.

Police records identified the youths as Douglas A. Curtis, 18, 1229 Alton ct. ne., Charles L. Boston, 19, 207 12th st. ne., and Nelson Pinkney, jr., 24, 1206 G st. ne. The trio was held under $300 bond each for grand jury action.

Bid of 5 Negroes For Florida U. Turned Down

Tallahassee, Fla., May 13 (U.P.).—The State Board of Control today turned down applications of five Negroes for admission to the University of Florida, terming the bids a "well-planned" attack on Florida segregation laws.

The board did not act on a sixth application.

Alex Akerman, jr., of Orlando, Fla., representing the five unsuccessful applicants, said he would take their cases into court. he said he represented them as an individual and "not for any organization."

The six negroes had applied for courses offered by the University of Florida but not by Florida A. & M. School for Negroes. At a special meeting of the board and the State cabinet board, Chairman J. Thomas Gurney charged the Negroes were attacking segregation laws.

Bar Aides Assail Judge Harron for Tax Court Post

By The Associated Press

American Bar Association officials yesterday offered the Senate Finance Committee affidavits by lawyers criticising Judge Marion J. Harron of the U. S. Tax Court.

The sworn statements were presented at a hearing on President Truman's nomination of Judge Harron for a second 12-year term on the court.

In general they followed the pattern of other objections to Judge Harron by some lawyers who contend the former resident of San Francisco lacks judicial temperament and hence is unfit for her present post.

The committee heard Thomas M. Wilkins, Washington attorney, declare he was "upset and humiliated" by Judge Harron's "dictatorial" courtroom conduct during a case he was trying.

Wilkins said Miss Harron interferred with his case and "lectured him like a schoolboy" despite his years of legal experience.

U. S. Turns Water And Alcohol Into New Motor Fuel

The Agriculture Research Administration has developed a new motor fuel containing a mixture of alcohol and water.

A test truck operated "as well on 58-octane gasoline plus alcohol-water injection as it would on regular gasoline which has an octane rating of 74 or better," ARA reported.

The alcohol-water mixture (gasoline 85 per cent, water 15) was injected automatically into the truck's carburetor when the engine was under heavy load, ARA reported. The engine gave knock-free performance even with the low-octane gasoline.

On another test used with 74-octane gasoline the fuel compared favorably with 85-octane gasoline.

Panama Canal Society Holds Reunion Tonight

The Panama Canal Society of Washington will hold its annual dinner-reunion at the Broadmoor Hotel tonight at 7 o'clock.

The event will pay tribute to Maurice H. Thatcher, only living former member of the original Isthmian Canal Commission and ex-governor of the Canal Zone. Later he served as Representative from Texas.

Senator Virgil Chapman (D., Ky.), will speak. Music will be furnished by the Marine Band orchestra.

McCarran Seeks AEC Student Aid Cut as Red Bar

By The Associated Press

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) said yesterday he may move to cut off student aid funds from the Atomic Energy Commission unless it bars Communists from its science study program.

The Nevada Senator told a reporter he will bring the matter before the Senate Appropriations Committee as a result of disclosures that not all students being given advanced science training with commission funds are first screened for loyalty. The AEC said this is done when the course involves secrets.

A North Carolina University student due to receive financial aid under the commission's fellowship program, Hans Freistadt, has acknowledged he is a member of the Communist Party. Members of the Senate House Atomic Committee have charged there are others in the same category.

Carpenter Given Delay of Hearing In Fairfax Rape

Hearing for a 21-year-old Arlington carpenter on a charge of raping a 55-year-old Fairfax County woman May 4 was continued to May 20 yesterday in Fairfax Trial Justice Court.

The continuance was asked by attorneys for Defendant William A. Martin on the grounds that they haven't had time to prepare their case in the two days since Martin was charged. He is being held in the county jail under $10,000 bond.

County police said Martin admitted raping the woman after going to her house in the Gunston area near Lorton for a drink of water. Arlington police have also charged Martin with raping a 17-year-old Arlington girl the evening of May 10, just before he was arrested in connection with the Fairfax attack.

Taxis Due to Get 3 Additional Radio Channels Nov. 1

Greater Washington residents may expect faster radio-dispatched taxi service when three additional two-way radio channels become available to taxie companies, probably November 1.

Merle E. Floegel, engineer with the land transportation service of the Federal Communications Commission, made that prediction yesterday. He pointed out failure to reach drivers by radio is currently caused by jammed use of one two-way channel by 15 area cab companies.

Plans are under consideration, he said, to assign the four channels on a "geographical separation" basis.

Prince Georges Women Voters Meet Today

Program objectives for the coming year will be mapped by the Prince Georges County League of Women Voters at its annual business meeting today at 11 a. m. in the Home Economics Building of the University of Maryland.

The group also will elect officers for the year, with the following slate having been proposed by the nominating committee: Mrs. Reuben Bogdanoff, president, third term; Mrs. Lyman L. Woodman, vice president; Mrs. Ben Posner, secretary, and Mrs. S. R. Epstein and Mrs. J. C. Crichton, directors.

The tentative program for next year proposes continuation of the work of the education committee which recently compiled an extensive report on county school needs, and a study of the financial structure of the county.

Russell Smith Boomed for Economic Post

Russell Smith, economist and writer, long associated with the National Farmers Union, has been recommended to President Truman for the Council of Economic Advisers in case of an early vacancy.

The Smith proposal is spearheaded by James G. Patton, president of the farm union, and the only head of a farm organization who supported President Truman in the last election. Reports last night were that Smith has been indorsed by several prominent Democrats.

There have been sporadic reports recently that President Truman is irked by open disagreement in his economic council, particularly between Chairman Edwin G. Nourse and Leon H. Keyserling.

The split became public early this year, when Keyserling testified in favor of President Truman's economic program before the Joint Senate and House Committee on the Economic Report. Nourse declined to testify.

Nourse is the only member of the council with an agricultural background. For several years he was head of the economics department of Iowa State College, one of the Nation's largest agricultural schools. Smith also is an agricultural economist.

Nourse reportedly holds views contrary to the new farm program proposed by Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan. Nourse made a speech on farm problems just before Brannan announced his plan, which a supporter of that plan last night said "sounds pretty bad alongside the Brannan program."

Truman Pledges 'No Compromise' On Labor Law

Cleveland, May 13 (AP).—President Truman today declared it is much better "to go down fighting" than to compromise on drawing up a new Federal labor law.

"We are going to continue to fight," Mr. Truman said in a telegram to A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, "and we are going to win because we are right."

Mr. Truman wrote:

"I've never believed in any compromise on the labor program other than the amended Wagner Act which I sent to the Congress and which was reported out by the labor commisison of both the House and the Senate.

"I am in the same frame of mind you are, that it is much better to go down fighting for what is right than to compromise your principles.

"The compromisers got nowhere, as I was sure they wouldn't, and they never had any consideration whatever for me."

Lineman Breaks Arms, Leg in Fall

Roy Fuqua, 28, a lineman of 921 King st., Alexandria, yesterday suffered broken arms and a broken leg when a falling pole swept him off another police 60 feet to the ground.

Fuqua, employed by a company installing lighting equipment at Alexandria Municipal Stadium, Monroe ave. and River rd., tried vainly to swing around to avoid the blow. He was under treatment at Alexandria Hospital last night.

Penny Breakfast Becomes Lunch by Time You Reach It

Los Angeles, May 13 (AP).—A penny in the Westchester section these days can get you a bacon-and-eggs breakfast. Or a quart of engine oil. Or a best-selling novel. Or 100 aspirin tablets.

A price war between Whelan and the Thrifty Drug Stores is responsible.

The stores say they're not losing money because of the tremendous volume. By the time you get up to the counter for that penny breakfast, it's apt to be lunchtime.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Mr. Fay Seems to Have Trumped Our Clubs

"You can stop wondering what happened to the Pyramid Clubs," writes Jack Pearson of 1718 Lawrence st. ne. "They just Fay-ded out."

LISTEN TONIGHT; HE AIN'T ON

Stanley Lipnick of 3612 Van Ness st. nw. wonders why the note beneath Hy Gardner's "Newsreel" says: "Listen to Hy Gardner tonight and every night, Monday through Friday."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

It has been announced that police cars must obey traffic and parking regulations, except when they're on emergency runs.

Last week I pondered the plight of a citizen who parked near the intersection of New Hampshire ave. nw. and Rock Creek pkwy., while getting a bite to eat at the Blue Bell. He parked beside a "No Parking" sign, and got a ticket.

However, the other day I strolled past the same place and saw two police motorcycles parked in the same spot, while the policemen were getting a bite to eat in the Blue Bell. The license tags on the motorcycles were MP-62 and MP-72.

Name withheld.

Dear Sir:

Not when you report them to me. But Major Barrett has made it plain that if such violations are reported to the police, action will be taken.

In this connection, it's interesting to recall that Tom Beesley of the Dorchester House has always contended that any citizen can cite a policeman who is violating the law.

Tom says there's a Supreme Court decision on this point, but I'll be doggone if I can figure out how it would work. If he's right, maybe we can all arm ourselves with books of citation tags.

I want to be the second citizen to hand one to a cop. You try it first.

Bill.

INFORMATION PLEASE

C. J. Nelson of 49 Nicholson st. nw. needs help, and fast. He says:

"I've just become the father of quadruplets — four baby robins."

The story of how this came to pass is not very pretty. It seems that boys in the neighborhood have been going about with long poles, poking bird nests and sometimes abducting the birds.

That's what happened to the mother of the four baby robins. The boys took her away, and she hasn't returned since.

So District Liner Nelson and his family have been trying to take care of the babies as best they can, and it's not very easy—because they don't know too much about the care and feeding of young birds.

So their plea is: "Help! Help! Won't somebody who knows this business tell us what to do?"

To be sure that the instructions don't get twisted in transmission, I suggest that if you can help, contact the Nelsons rather than me.

MISCELLANY

At about 5:30 most afternoons a blind boy crosses the intersection of 19th and F. American University students in the neighborhood could be of real service by watching for him, and giving him a hand . . . On May 21, Bill Groome, the radio advertising man, will live up to his name. He's getting hitched to Barbara Schnieder, WMAL traffic supervisor . . . E. D. L. of 5922 Georgia ave. nw. says hooray for the policeman stationed at Georgia and Missouri aves., because of the fine job he does in taking care of the schoolchildren at that dangerous intersection. The diligent cop is Pvt. Morris Fishman of 3134 19th st. nw. . . . The Seventh Day Adventists will soon bring to Washington a chap named Salau—a Solomon Islander who helped save the lives of some 500 American boys who were shot down in the Pacific. Helen Carpenter (Georgia 0800) would like to hear from any former servicemen in this area who were helped by Salau . . . Rand Smith of 1426 21st st. nw. is just as enthusiastic as anybody about the winning streak of the Washington baseball team—but he's afraid that the moment they go into a slump we'll be calling them the "Gnats" again . . . Jack Ashley of 2604 Lee blvd., Arlington, Va., gets a chuckle out of our sports department's headline which said: "Yale Crew Noses Out Navy by 2½ Lengths." Snickers Jack: "My, what long noses they have!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Roosevelt Has Tammany Worried

By Drew Pearson

Tammany politicos who have kibitzed the Manhattan rallies of Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., are definitely worried. They have been forced to admit the kid has inherited the Old Man's charm.

Roosevelt, Jr.

In fact, they are beginning to wonder if he may not run off with the election to the late Congressman Sol Bloom's seat when the votes are counted next Tuesday.

Here is the sort of thing that happens when "Junior"—as Tammany calls him—stumps Manhattan's midtown Twentieth District:

A lady with a baby, after Franklin passed, cried in ecstasy to the child, "He saw you; he spoke to you! My child, he spoke to you!"

A crowd of a thousand Negroes and Puerto Ricans, on Columbus ave., crowded around his sound truck and kept him answering questions for an hour.

A Puerto Rican woman, as a meeting broke up, cried: "I pray he gets elected; he's our hero!"

At the end of a day of this sort of campaigning, Franklin implored Liberal Party worker Mrs. Benjamin Pollack, his law partner's wife, "Listens, you got to do something to protect me from the women."

Truman Forced Clay Out

Inside fact about Gen. Lucius Clay's retirement as United States Military Governor of Germany was that he didn't want to be retired at this time at all. Truman forced his hand.

Clay had been sending messages to Chief of Staff Omar Bradley, complaining that he was tired and ill and wanted to come home. But close friends say the general had expected Bradley to urge him to stay on. He wanted to see the new German republic finally set up. So Clay got the shock of his life when, alighting from a train in Germany on May 3, he was informed that his retirement had been officially announced by the White House.

What actually happened was this. President Truman just happens to have been one of the Senate crusaders against cartel and monopolies. In fact, it was his expose of Germany's I. G. Farben and its conspiracy to control rubber and synthetic gasoline with Standard Oil of New Jersey that first shot the Truman War Investigating Committee into the headlines.

On April 29, therefore, the President read the report of Federal Trade Commissioner Garland Ferguson on the United States Army's failure under Clay to disband I. G. Farben and other Nazi cartels. Calling in an aide, Truman said:

"Now is the time to get rid of that top sergeant in Germany."

Three days later, and much to the dismay of the general himself, the White House announced that Clay would be relieved on May 15. Clay's friends and advisers immediately started some backstage wire-pulling to keep the general in office, but when Truman makes up his mind, it usually stays made up.

Note—just a few days prior to this, Richardson Bronson of the decartelization branch, severely criticized in the Ferguson report, was telling friends not to worry about the Ferguson report because his friend, former Undersecretary of the Army William Draper, had put the "fix" in at Washington. Apparently Draper, of the Forrestal Wall Street banking firm, didn't have the fix fixed securely.

Truman View of Congress

Real fact was that Senator Byrd of Virginia wasn't the only solon blasted by President Truman when he visited with officials of the American Veterans Committee the other day.

About Mississippi's turbulent John Rankin, Truman said: "I can understand him personally, but as a legislator the unfortunate gentleman baffles me."

Indiana and Missouri were "about even," Truman averred, in having the "worst" representation in the United States Senate. Asked whether he would choose Indiana's Senators Capehart and Jenner, both Republicans, or Missouri's Senators Donnell and Kem, also Republicans, the President retorted cheerily:

"Oh, my own State always comes first with me."

AVC chairman Gilbert Harrison asked the President whether he would "go back to the people" if Congress ditched most of his legislative program.

"Well, I hope I won't have to," Truman replied. "That's up to Congress."

Senatorial Heart-Throbs

Washington's most baffling romance is whether Sen. Harry Cain of Washington State is divorcing or honeymooning his wife, Marjorie. It has all Capitol Hill talking.

The gravel-voiced Republican took the unusual step of summoning a press conference last summer to announce that all was over between him and Mrs. Cain. But while the divorce papers are supposed to be going through the courts, the Cains are going around town—together.

During his six-hour filibuster against Washington's former Gov. Mon Wallgren, Mrs. Cain was a faithful spectator in the Senate gallery. To other Senators' wives, she explained, "Isn't he great. That's my man!"

A friendly photographer even took her picture leaving the Senate gallery, and the picture was printed from coast to coast.

Mrs. Cain also has taken a great interest in the Senate wives' auxiliary, whose meetings she attends.

Washington's other Senator, bachelor Warren Magnuson, is also up to his heart in romance. This time he's really serious about glamour girl Tony Seven, and the next time the rumor is printed that they've been secretly married the story will probably be true.
